SUMMARY.

A message from Paris states that the Germans have begun to make restitutions under the armistice.

They have already paid 300,000,000 francs in gold, exacted from Russia.

The Allies will retain the money until the conclusion of peace.

The Germans are daily restoring works of art stolen from France.

The value of those already returned is estimated at £80,000,000.

Admiral Beatty has refused the German request to mitigate the armistice terms regarding trade and fishing in the North Sea.

The Australian Divisional Guards met King George and the Princes, at various points of the old battlefields.

They explained the actual dispositions of the Australians in carrying out the greatest triumph of breaking the Hindenburg line.

Sir Eric Geddes has declared that Germans guilty of atrocities upon prisoners and civilians in invaded countries must be tried.

The gravest incidents are said to have occurred in the war prisoners' camp in Saxony.

The Allies are calling on Marshal Foch to act most energetically.

It has transpired that Ludendorff was hoping to set fire to Paris with a new bomb.

The returning German troops support the Ebert Government, and approve of the calling together of the National Assembly.

The men from the Western front appear to favour order at all costs.

It is feared that Dr. Liebknecht may lead the Bolshevik outbreak in Berlin.

A report has reached Amsterdam that the ex-Kaiser rarely leaves his house.

When he appears in the grounds he has the appearance of a man with terror in his heart.

He spends many hours daily writing feverishly, as though against time.

This mysterious manuscript is believed to contain his own defence in readiness for his appearance before the world's tribunal.

The ex-Kaiser said at Amerongen:—"I am threatened with criminal charges, which I must face."

It is semi-officially confirmed that the Inter-Allied conference agreed upon the necessity for the trial of the ex-Kaiser.

A Berlin newspaper states that the ex-Crown Prince is about to publish his personal renunciation of his rights.

The Prime Minister, in a statement of policy, said: The Kaiser must be prosecuted. He is responsible for deliberately provoking the war, and for the invasion of Belgium.

The Government at the Peace Conference, Mr. Lloyd George added, would press for the execution of justice.

President Wilson intends to make it plain that all nations shall be prepared to make sacrifices for a lasting peace.

He will insist that armed domination by any one nation shall cease.

There is every indication that the President will declare for a reduction of armaments on land and sea.

The Pope will receive President Wilson on his visit to Rome.

It is reported from Petrograd that the Bolsheviks have ordered a general mobilisation for military training.

Next summer they will have, it is estimated, an army of between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000.

A servant of the ex-Czar is reported to have declared that the whole of the Royal family were murdered.

They were taken to a cellar in a convent. After being placed against a wall they were shot one after another.

Reports have reached New York that the entire Turkish fleet is in the hands of the Allies.

Despatches from Santiago state that the Chilian army has been mobilised.

Official and commercial circles believe there is no danger of war between Peru and Chili.

The latest report from quarantine is the most hopeful that has been issued for some days.

There were no deaths to record, and no new cases have occurred.

All the Atua cases are now convalescent, while none of the Manuka cases is dangerous or serious.

The number of persons undergoing inoculation at the various depots is increasing.

Mr. Massy Greene said yesterday that the pneumonic-influenza in the quarantine station was of a most virulent kind.

The danger to the people was so great that the Government did not feel justified in allowing ministers of religion to enter.

The Assembly sat yesterday with the object of concluding the business of the session.

The Attorney-General secured, without debate, the passage of the Superannuation Amendment Bill.

The third reading of the Venereal Diseases Bill was agreed to, and the measure was sent on to the Council.

The Parliamentary Elections (Amendment) Bill was further considered in committee.

An amendment to reduce the number of members of the Assembly to 60 and the salary to £300 was ruled out of order.

Another amendment in favour of the retention of the single electorate system was negatived.

The Australian Board of Control has decided in favour of an Australian cricket team touring England in 1919.

Those who have seen active service are to be eligible for selection, and the team will be known as the A.I.F. Australian Eleven.

The aldermen of the new City Council were sworn in at the Town Hall yesterday by Mr. Justice Gordon.

Although a number of names are mentioned for the Lord Mayoralty, no definite selection has yet been made by the respective parties.

The aldermen will assemble at noon on Monday for the election.

Ernest E. Judd was released yesterday on bail pending an appeal to the High Court on questions raised during his trial.

Counsel gave an undertaking that Judd would refrain from making any references in public to the war until peace has been signed.

The Tramway Union is not satisfied with the amount of the increases recently granted by the Commissioners.

The Soldiers and Citizens' Political Federation has urged the Federal Government to remove all war regulations hampering the business community.

A farewell luncheon was tendered to the French Mission by the Federal Government in the Queen's Hall, Melbourne, yesterday.

General Pau said the return of Alsace-Lorraine to France was the return that was demanded by Divine justice.

The interstate council of the Returned Sailors and Soldiers' League urges prohibition during the period of demobilisation.

The utterance of Lieutenant-Colonel Murdoch, opposing the popular demand for the punishment of the Kaiser, is criticised.

The executive of the Sailors' and Soldiers' Mothers, Wives, and Relatives' Association has entered a protest against his remarks.

Mr. Ashford states that 2000 returned soldiers will be placed on the land next year.

A matinee of "Katinka" was given at Her Majesty's Theatre yesterday afternoon for the entertainment of the Anzacs and army nurses.

Severe criticisms of the Lands Department are contained in a sectional report by Mr. Allard.

A moderate volume of business was transacted on the Stock Exchange yesterday, and firm prices ruled.

Business in mining shares was on restricted lines. Local gold enterprises were firm, but Westonias were weaker.

The demand for bacon and hams continued exceptionally strong yesterday. First-grade butter realised 174/8 per cwt.

New season's potatoes commanded strong support, and prices advanced sharply.

Forecast.—Warm to hot and sultry, isolated thunderstorms in the north-east quarter and in parts of the coast, chiefly northern, with strong local squalls, probably associated with hail.

FARMER'S, SYDNEY, 1840-1918, Seventy-eight Years. THE HOUSE OF DISTINCTION.

CHILDREN'S SHOPPING MORNING AT FARMER'S TO-DAY is made doubly interesting, for the whole of the week has been recognised as "CHILDREN'S TIME" THROUGHOUT THE HOUSE.

Customary Saturday Morning Shoppers and all other parents who are not yet wise to the great advantage of shopping for the children on Saturdays, will to-day find the usually keen prices everywhere, also many specially interesting attractions for the little folk.

"MARY'S CHRISTMAS PARTY" WILL TAKE PLACE AT 11 A.M. in the Display Theatre, First Floor, and children and parents are reminded to obtain admission tickets early, free of charge, in Toy Dept., First Floor, George-street.

FATHER CHRISTMAS suggests that all good little children who come to "Mary's Christmas Party" this morning should bring a letter, written by themselves, telling him of the Presents they most desire and expect to see in their Stockings on Christmas morning. Father Christmas will tell the little Fairy of their wishes and most probably these will come true. Father Christmas also asks that those coming bring Toys or Books with which they have finished, so that he can send them to the poor, sick, little children at the Children's Hospital. Write your name and address on each package, so that these less fortunate children will know who has been so kind to remember them.

WILL SPECIALLY INTEREST MOTHERS OF BOYS. Since last Saturday all the Boys' Departments on the Ground Floor have been grouped in one new section on the Fourth Floor. Outfitting the boys here will be carried out under ideal conditions.

SMALL BOYS SHOULD WEAR PLAYFAIR OR PLAYTIME BLOUSES WITH RANGER KNICKERS.

"PLAYFAIR" SHIRT BLOUSES have smart double collar, out breast pocket, and buttons on shirt—to attach to the Ranger Knickers.

"PLAYTIME" STYLE has round American collar and is the same as "Playfair" in other particulars. In sizes 000 to 9, to fit boys 2 to 11 years of age. In Farmer's Reliable Gingham. PRICE .... 5/6.

THE RANGER KNICKERS, to be worn with the "Playfair" Shirt Blouses, are smartly cut and lined strong soft Silesia, ensuring good service, and, in addition, have two pockets and belt of same material. These are stocked in sizes 000 to 9, to fit boys 2 to 11 years of age. In hard-wearing Cotton Riding Twist. PRICE .... 9/6. In Navy Flannel .... 11/6.

Boys' Outfitting, Fourth Floor, Market-street.

DAINTILY TRIMMED HATS FOR SMART GIRLS AND MAIDS.

PRETTILY TRIMMED MAID'S HAT OF LUFA AND STRAW PLAIT, shallow receding crown, with swathing of soft satin Merve and large flat bow in front, wide flop brim edged with gathered ribbon in White and Sky. PRICE .... 23/6.

GIRL'S GOOD WEARING PANAMA, small round crown, with fancy pleated Pink satin band and side bows. Has nice shady brim, bound with similar coloured gathered ribbon. PRICE .... 22/6.

CHILD'S PEDAL SHAPE, with medium round crown, trimmed folded band and fancy knot of Ivory silk ribbon. A two and a half inch fluted brim edged with two rows of Val. lace. PRICE .... 16/11.

Millinery Salon, Third Floor, Pitt-street.

FOR ADULTS ONLY. SPECIAL NOTE. So many expressions of approval of "Mary's Christmas Party" have been received that it has been decided to repeat the "Party" on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week, FOR ADULTS ONLY, so that full advantage and help may be taken to Display Juvenile Modes. Admission only by Ticket, obtainable as previously in the Toy Department, First Floor, George-street. NOTE.—Display Theatre Doors open promptly at 3 p.m. Children strictly not admitted.

THE KITCHEN GARDEN GUIDE FOR DECEMBER.

The recent showers that have fallen in the vicinity of Sydney will encourage further efforts in the kitchen garden—and there, perhaps, early-sown seeds may have been only a partial success—later sowing may come along quickly, and thus make up for shortage.

SOW NOW.

Cauliflower in a seed bed, Cabbage, French Beans, Butter Beans, and Tall Lima Beans, Beet, Brussels Sprouts, Carrot, Cucumber (for succession), Squash and Vegetable Marrow, Radish, Turnip (White or Swede), Lettuce, and Mustard and Cress. Mulch your Cucumber, Tomato, and Melon plants this month.

Beans and Cauliflower in 6d packets. Other Vegetable seeds in 3d packets.

Andersons' "What, When, and How to Sow," a useful monthly guide for Kitchen and Flower Garden, Farm and Orchard, FREE.

ANDERSON AND CO., LTD., Seedsmen, 399-401 George-street, Sydney.

THE ABOVE IS OUR ONLY ADDRESS.

SWEDE TURNIP, SKIRVINGS PURPLETOP. The SWEDE TURNIP, besides being an excellent Table Vegetable, is equally, if not more, valuable as a feed for sheep and stock. When Matured they can be lifted and stored or "Pitted" (like Potatoes), and, being good keepers, they can be used as required. Swedes Thrive best in Loamy Soil. Two to three pounds will sow an acre. Price, 3d and 6d per packet, 1/6 per ¼lb, 4/6 per lb. Post paid. Make a sowing now. P. L. C. SHEPHERD and SON, LTD., Seed Specialists, 202 Pitt-street, Sydney. Estab. 91 years.

A VENTURESOME TRIP IN A 16-FOOT BOAT, with a SAFIX MILLER Outboard Motor.—Extract from "Fiji Times":—"Messrs. H. Griffiths and A. E. Crawford, of Rarawai, recently made an interesting trip from Rarawai to Nausori in a 16ft open boat, with an Outboard Motor of Safix Miller make. The return trip was done on 4 gallons of benzine." The distance covered between the two islands was 140 miles, and, although at times the sea was quite rough enough to make it uncomfortable, the little motor ran the whole time without a hitch, and was the cause of much interest at Suva, the residents being surprised at the small size and weight of the motor. The SAFIX MILLER Outboard Motor is 2½-h.p., speed 8 miles, weight 70lb, fitted with reverse propeller and Dixie H.T. Magneto. Price and full particulars from A. J. DADSON and CO., Box 912, G.P.O., Sydney. Showrooms: J. L. SCOTT, Ltd., 30 Hunter-street.

ANTHONY HORDERNS' CHRISTMAS SHOW.

After to-day there remain but fourteen Shopping Days to Christmas. To avoid delays that may arise during the inevitable rush of Christmas Shopping, we suggest an early visit. Anthony Horderns' Great Christmas Show offers innumerable suggestions that will assist gift-givers in making their selections.

PARASOLS ARE IDEAL GIFTS.

The display of imported Sunshades now on view in the Umbrella Department (third floor, George-street), offers suggestions for Christmas Gifts that will appeal to Ladies. These IMPORTED SUNSHADES are SUITABLE for USE with the SMARTEST GOWNS on all SMART OCCASIONS, MATRONS being WELL CATERED FOR. The PRICES range from 29/6 to 5 gns. Here are some suggestions:—
CHARMING SUNSHADE, forming White and Black effect, beautiful design of Black Lace over White Crepe de Chine, suitable for Dress occasion .... 63/.
LADIES' SUNSHADE, in beautiful shade of Navy Silk, with wide tissue border in Oriental colourings. Chic, small shape .... 45/.
SMART SUNSHADE, exclusive design, Sea Toy shape, in Black Glace, smartly striped, rich colourings .... 55/.

AMERICAN GAZE HATS.

The Millinery Show Rooms are particularly attractive, the displays of Smart Styles in the Fashionable American Gaze Ready-to-wear Hats being of more than passing interest. Ladies are invited to inspect these new arrivals. Here are some examples:—
No. 1 IS A BECOMING SMALL DROOP SHAPE OF PEDAL STRAW, smartly finished band and bow of Faille Ribbon. Can supply in Bleached, V. Rose, Nigger, Navy, Purple, Black. PRICE, 16/6.
No. 2.—NEW AMERICAN SAILOR OF FINEST LISERE STRAW, beautifully finished, fitted Silk headlining and trimmed broad band and bow of Silk Faille Ribbon, perfect head fitting. Colours: Black, Sand, Mastic, Saxe, Cherry. PRICE, 27/6.
SMART FASHIONABLE DOUBLE BRIM SAILOR, of fine Pedal Straw Bleached, with contrast edges and bands to match, in shades of V. Rose, Emerald, Nigger, Navy, Black. PRICE, 30/.
THE VERY ACME OF REFINEMENT AND MILLINERY TASTE is a genuine Italian Pedal Straw, large shape, slightly drooped, delightfully soft fitting dome crown, finished in the very best style with Faille Ribbon. Can do in Bleached, Mastic, Nigger, Black. PRICE, 42/.

READY-TO-WEAR HATS.

The section devoted to inexpensive Ready-to-Wear Hats, so much favoured for Week-End and Holiday Wear, makes a show that provides for every seasonable requirement. The many lines are worth inspection by Ladies who desire to secure something smart yet inexpensive. There are Oddments in Ready-to-Wear Hats i.e. Pedal Tagel, golf plait, and Panamas, which offer remarkable value. All at One Price, 7/11. The Correct V.A.D. HAT, in White Linen, is also on view. These are Priced at 3/6 each.

LADIES' SILK HOSIERY.

Fashion Decrees demand that more attention than ever be given to the selection of Hosiery. We offer in the Ladies' Hosiery Department (first floor, George-street) an assortment that will meet the requirements of the most critical customer. A line that is much favoured is in Fancy Coloured Striped Thread Silk, in Black and White, Navy and White, Tan and White, Grey and White, and White and Black. The Price is 8/11 per pair. The quality of the Hosiery that comes from Anthony Horderns' is unquestioned—the Department has ever been famous both for Value, for Variety, and for Quality, three considerations that count in the purchase of Ladies' Hosiery.

BLACK SILK HOSE.
PLAIN BLACK or WHITE THREAD SILK, double Lisle suspenders, tops, and soles, 4/9 pair.
THE AMERICAN LADY, PLAIN BLACK or WHITE THREAD SILK, full fashioned, double Lisle Suspender tops and soles, 5/6 pair.
PLAIN BLACK or WHITE THREAD SILK, double Lisle suspender tops and soles, 6/11 pair.
THE AMERICAN BEAUTY, PLAIN BLACK THREAD SILK, double Lisle suspender tops and soles, 10/9 pair.
"I. AND R. MORLEY'S" PLAIN BLACK THREAD SILK, double Lisle suspender tops and silk soles, 16/6 pair.

LADIES' HANDBAGS.

A visit of inspection to the Fancy Goods Department is necessary to get any idea of the wonderful variety of Ladies' Bags that have been secured for the season's business. Every sort of Handbag favoured to-day is offered, from the daintiest little creation in Silk to the Ornate Art Bags in finely finished Leathers, as well as the always popular Peggy Bags. Many of these are illustrated in our Price List of Popular Presents, a copy of which will be posted free on request. Here are a few suggestions:—
SILK DOROTHY BAGS, hand painted—1/, 1/6, 2/, and 2/9 each.
SILK DOROTHY BAGS, smart shapes, and the latest creation, 7/6 to 27/6.
SILK BAGS, with nickel frames, coloured linings, 5/9 to 32/6.

AUSTRALIAN-MADE HANDBAGS.

The Art Leather Hand Bags, made in Australia, and hand embossed with designs that are typically Australian, are useful Gifts that will please the friend to whom it is given. These Bags are made of Buffalo Hide, the edges are laced, and the hand-embossed designs may be had coloured by hand. This list gives the prices, but an inspection will at once indicate the artistic finish.
PLAIN LEATHERS— Kookaburra design, 30/. Kingfisher design, 15/. Assorted designs, 14/6.
HAND-COLOURED— Kingfisher design, 14/6, 17/, 22/. Kookaburra design, 22/ and 35/. Magpie design, 27/, 35/. Waratah design, 32/.

SPECIAL VALUE IN LADIES' QUALITY GLOVES.

The LADIES' GLOVE SECTION (First Floor, George-street) at the NEW PALACE EMPORIUM MAINTAINS its EXCELLENT REPUTATION for the SUPERIORITY of the GOODS and the LOWNESS of PRICE. An INSPECTION of the GLOVES enumerated below will DEMONSTRATE that UNEQUALLED VALUE IS OFFERED.
2-Dome BLACK KID GLOVES, 6/11, 7/6.
8-Button BLACK KID GLOVES, 6/11, 8/11, 9/11, 11/6.
4-Button and Domes BLACK KID GLOVES, 13/6.
2-Dome BLACK KID GLOVES, White points, 8/6, 9/11, 11/6.
2-Dome GLOVES, in Brown, Fawn, and Slate. 6/11, 8/11, 11/6, 13/6.
2-Button WHITE KID GLOVES, 6/11, 7/6, 7/11, 8/11, 9/11, 11/6.

COMBINED DISPLAY OF CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

The display of Christmas Gifts shown on the lower floor of the Fine Art Gallery is constantly being added to. The latest is a big variety of the better grade of Bon Bons, which are British-made, and contain many novelties. The assortment is by far the most complete yet shown. There are prettily boxed Bon Bons, priced at 3/9, put up by Clark, Nicholls, and Coombes. Tom Smith's Crackers at 8/6 a box, and a big variety of Meade and Fields. These are most elaborate both as to design and contents. The Fireworks series at 7/9 contains many novelties, while the box at 15/9 is worth inspecting. The display generally will prove interesting, as it shows at once many useful Gifts hitherto obtainable only by visiting a number of the departments.

THE GREAT VICTORY—OUR GREAT OFFER.

THE GREAT VICTORY (repeated) — OUR GREAT OFFER (repeated)

TO COMMEMORATE THE GREAT VICTORY, in an everlasting photograph of yourself,
one to hand down to posterity,
Showing you as you were (as you are) at the time of the great victory.
To encourage this we are going right back to our pre-War prices, in that enormous value we used to offer every Christmas before the War.
Here it is.
A BEAUTIFUL ENLARGED PORTRAIT,
On a Plate Sunk Mount, Size 24in x 15in.
FRAMED, FRAMED, FRAMED.
Outside measure of frame about 30in x 21in, and present value of frame alone 17/6.
In a Beautiful Moulding, own choice, with 12 12 12 12 12 12
HIGH ART BROMIDE CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS
for 21/, only 21/, 21/, only 21/, 21/, only 21/.
This is our Great Victory offer, don't miss it.
Never in the History of Photography has there been such an offer—Never, never, never.
SEND US A PHOTOGRAPH.
The same offer as above, but with 6 Cabinets instead of 12, taken from a photograph, is 30/. This is extraordinary value. It is much more expensive to copy and enlarge from a photograph than it is from the sitter.
Over the Counter Prices; cut to the quick.
AN EXPLANATION.
During the War we had branch studios in the various military camps, which gave us such an increase in business as to overtax our very large resources, sometimes causing delay in the delivery of our orders.
We beg to thank our patrons who bore with us during that period, and to assure them a quick delivery now that our camp studios are closed and the military business over.
Please note that this wonderful offer can only be obtained at THE CROWN STUDIOS.
We take photos. in any weather, wet, cloudy, or sunshine. Studios open daily till 5.30 p.m.
Fridays we take photos. up to 9 p.m., as good as daylight photos., and the same price.

THE "ALBERT" COLLEGE OF MUSIC.
THE UKULELE AND STEEL GUITAR, THE HAWAIIAN NATIONAL INSTRUMENTS.
These quaint and fascinating instruments are just the thing for the beautiful open-air conditions of our Australian climate.
They fill all requirements as a musical instrument for in or out of doors. Their simplicity is wonderful, efficiency being guaranteed in from SIX TO EIGHT LESSONS, tuition being given by the only Hawaiian teacher in Australia.
MR. HENRY A. BISHAW,
a native of the Hawaiian Islands is a well-known Musician and Composer. His Ukulele Tutor written in Australia is the most simple, original, and complete Instruction Method ever published.
He brought to Sydney the first Hawaiian troupe of Musicians of the Muriel Starr "Bird of Paradise" Co., under the direction of J. C. Williamson.
You will learn either of these instruments easily before the Christmas vacation.
If you are interested, you are cordially invited to call and hear the instrument demonstrated and played.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
THEORY EXAMINATIONS.
Entries for the First Theory Examination throughout the States close on May 1, 1919.
PRACTICAL EXAMINATIONS.
Entries close as follows:—
Sydney and District, including Newcastle, July 1.
Other New South Wales Centres, and Queensland, May 1.
Victoria and Tasmania, August 1.
South Australia, September 1.
As soon as the syllabus for 1919 arrives from London copies will be sent to teachers.
THREE EXHIBITIONS will again be offered.
EMMELINE M. WOOLLEY SCHOLARSHIP will be open for competition.
The Examinations are conducted by the Board's Examiners, who come out each year from England.
Any profit made on the work of the Board is devoted entirely to furthering Musical Education, and the scope and standard of the Examinations are similar in regard to musical education to those of the Oxford and Cambridge Local Examinations in connection with general education.
A guarantee of the status and standard of the Examinations is afforded by the fact that the R.A.M. and R.C.M., of which the Board is a joint committee, are the only institutions in the Empire established for the express purpose of giving musical education founded by Royal Charter, and, therefore, having public responsibility.

A BAD LEG.—If you are a sufferer and wish to heal it, why not try the genuine remedy known as MU-RO? This splendid preparation is made for the purpose of healing bad legs and wounds only, and not as a cure for everything under the sun. MU-RO is a Yorkshire remedy, and made in Queensland. MU-RO can be obtained from your grocer or chemist—small size 1/6, large size 2/6. It is sold by Lassetter's, Horderns', Mark Foy's, Pattinsons and Co., Fisher and Co., Ross and Co., and in all the places of importance throughout Australia. Try MU-RO and be convinced.

THE AUSTRALIAN TROOPS are given prominence in the "SYDNEY MAIL."

LESS THAN THREE WEEKS and Christmas will be around again. What could be nicer or give more pleasure than a Motor Car. Who could imagine keener delight than that afforded by the early morning drive through our glorious country—resting during the heat of the day in some shady nook, with picnic hamper and book, or the more entertaining camera. Just think for one half-hour of all you could do with a car during the holidays—what a holiday it would be.

We'll supply the car—on one-third deposit if you wish—a car guaranteed in first-class order inside and out, and a car, moreover, which will not betray that it is "second-hand."

Come and inspect our stock, it places you under no obligation to us.

PAIGE MOTOR CO., OPEN ALWAYS, 1-29 YURONG-STREET, junction of Park and William streets.

WAR LOAN BONDS TAKEN INSTEAD OF CASH FOR MOTOR CARS, MOTOR LORRIES, ETC.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF COUNTRY BUYERS.

To the man in the country who would like a car for the holidays, and who finds it difficult to come to the city, we offer to send A MOTOR CAR ON APPROVAL.

Let us know your requirements, and we will submit a list of cars likely to suit you—make your selection from this list, and we will then send you a detailed specification of the car and truck it on to you, on receipt of the ordinary deposit.

Should the car open up different in any way to the specification we expect you to retruck it immediately. You pay freight to your nearest railway, and should the car be different to our statement this freight will be your only expense, as you retruck the car to us, at our expense.

Send for lists at once if you would have a car for Xmas.

PHOSPHOR BRONZE that is tough and even grain presumably will have great wearing qualities.

Such a Bronze is "SWAN BRAND," which, when placed in the lathe and turned, will harvest a crop of curly wire like scrap, that indicates to the wise Fitter that the material is right, and the resultant fitting when unchucked and fitted will give long and satisfactory service.

"SWAN BRAND" PHOSPHOR BRONZE has been handled by us for some considerable time, and we have such confidence in the product that we are prepared to guarantee it.

Should any piece sold by us indicate in the turning that it is likely to turn out unsatisfactory WE WILL REPLACE ENTIRELY FREE OF CHARGE. PRICE, per. lb 2/6.

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CAR.

ITS GOODNESS IS ALONE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE UNUSUAL DEMAND THAT HAS EXISTED, RIGHT FROM THE BEGINNING.

Nothing has ever disturbed the demand for this Car.

No outside conditions, no conditions inside the industry seem to slow it up a particle. The people want the Car more intensely at this moment than ever they wanted it before.

The Car has reached the stage when its sales are almost automatically increased. By this we mean that one sale is almost certain to result in one or two other sales.

There is a very pronounced and definite public opinion now in this country concerning the Dodge Bros.' Car.

People seem to know that Dodge Brothers' idea, from the very first, was that if they built the Car right, nothing else mattered.

It is the quality revealed in its performance which makes the price impressive. People are attracted by something more than price. It is the internal and external excellence which characterises the Car.

The high price it demands when sold second-hand increases the respect in which the Car is held.

It would be hard to find a truer test of enduring worth. People are not eager for used Cars unless they know that such Cars have before them a long life of satisfactory service.

AND SO THE DODGE BROTHERS' CAR IS BOUGHT, NOT UPON PRICE, BUT UPON THE QUALITY AND VALUE THAT IT EMBODIES.

BUICK.

THE CAR FOR THE LADY.

Ladies find no difficulty in driving a Buick.

Operating Levers, Clutch Pedal, Brake Pedal, are so constructed that they respond to the gentle touch.

A little while back Cars were clumsy to handle, and required a "bullocky" chauffeur; to-day the Buick, with the Delco starter and abovementioned features, is a real lady's Car.

Last October a Buick containing five ladies left for the Melbourne Cup, and returning via Gippsland—previously the Gippsland trip was considered difficult to any driver.

It is claimed that Buick was the first Car to ever ascend the almost perpendicular Oberon Hill with only ladies aboard.

When Buicks go to Melbourne and back, Jenolan Caves, via Oberon, and other far country trips in full charge of ladies only, it is an expression or reliability and simplicity.

SECOND-HAND BUICKS.

Last week we explained the manner in which we rebuild, so to speak, our Second-hand Buicks. To take in a used Buick, paint it, and sell it again, is a risky transaction on our part. We are a big firm of repute.

As motor cars—like all machinery—do require repairs—we do know what repairs are necessary to Buicks—to put them in that order to protect our name. That is why we sell Buicks only.

If we took in all makes our reputation might suffer, for we are not as well acquainted with other makes as our own, and we would not be expected to know what to look for. This is just the difference between specialising and jobbing in anything.

As a result of last week's advertisement we sold several cars, some of which were inspected by independent engineers.

REMEMBER, every make of car, according to our experience, requires something to be done after a certain distance of use, and that something is remedied in the Buicks we sell.

Oakland

"THE SENSIBLE SIX."

YEARS AHEAD OF ALL ITS CLASSMATES.

THIS HAS ALWAYS BEEN AN OAKLAND PRINCIPLE. EACH NEW OAKLAND MODEL INCLUDES A REFINEMENT, OR SPECIAL DESIGN, NOT SEEN IN ANY OTHER CAR. THEY ARE ALWAYS ABOUT 2 YEARS AHEAD OF THE REST. EVERY REFINEMENT ADOPTED MEANS INCREASED VALUE FOR THE PURCHASER; A BETTER CAR FOR THE SAME MONEY.

"THE OAKLAND SENSIBLE SIX" has many exclusive features which will be generally adopted in the next few years, but are now only found in this car.

The extraordinary ratio of power produced to the car's weight is one result that the many exclusive features make possible.

The "Oakland Sensible Six" engine is rated at 19-h.p., R.A.C., yet it produces 44 B.H.P. at 2600 r.p.m., and the car only weighs 2128lb., so the ratio is 1 B.H.P. for every 48lb of car weight.

The wonderful efficiency of this engine is solely due to scientific design, high-grade materials, and expert workmen.

The crankshaft is balanced, the reciprocating parts have been reduced to the minimum weight, by the use of special metal alloys, and friction practically eliminated by the simple practical design.

20-30 miles per gallon of petrol and 8000 miles on a set of tyres is a usual performance, only made possible by the features just mentioned.

The use of high-grade steels, exactly similar to those used in cars costing twice as much money, gives this car its marvellous reliability.

CALL AND LET US GIVE YOU CONVINCING PROOFS OF THESE CLAIMS. IT WILL PAY YOU TO DO SO.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA.

PAIGE.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA.

QUALITY.

QUALITY is a hard thing to SEE in a Motor Car. But in Paige cars you actually see it in beauty of appearance that has set the industry to imitating it. QUALITY is SEEN in the clean-cut simplicity of chassis design, which marks the highest ability in engineering. QUALITY can be SEEN in the care and thought that have been given to the control elements, which means ease and comfort behind the steering-wheel and safety for all the occupants.

QUALITY is SEEN in attention to the little details of finish that distinguish the product built on ideals, and not solely for profit; and, apart from the quality which can be seen and felt throughout the PAIGE, you will find the Quality which, like character in men, cannot be seen, but must be proven by time.

THERE'S NOT MUCH DIFFERENCE

between two three-penny bits and a sixpence! There's a whole lot of difference between one car and another, and because of this, you, as a wise man, will endeavour to discriminate and buy the RIGHT Car.

The RIGHT Car for you is either a METZ or a CROW. Why? Because they're both low-priced, powerful, sturdy, and good to look at, drive, and enjoy.

It costs you nothing to see and talk it over with us. We will give you the "reasons why." You should know them. WILL YOU CALL?

NOW ON VIEW.

The Management of MESSRS. TYRRELL'S, LIMITED, have, at the request of many of their Patrons, decided to inaugurate a system of MONTHLY AUCTION SALES. It is proposed to adopt the arrangement prevailing in England and the United States, similar to Christies, Hodgson, and Co., and Sotheby's, Ltd. By this scheme Collections of Works of Art, Books, Coins, Medals, and Literary Property can be offered to the Public at auction prices. The first of these Monthly Auctions will be held at the spacious premises of MESSRS. TYRRELL'S, LIMITED, on Tuesday, December 10th, and the services of Mr. JAMES R. LAWSON have been secured to conduct the sale.

The want of an Auction Gallery of this description has long been felt in Sydney, and it will be the means of promoting and catering for the requirements of the Connoisseur and Collector. The Articles to be offered will be on view a week prior to the sale, and catalogues will be available on application. Amongst the items offered for sale will be several interesting Autograph Letters from the pens of Charles Dickens, John Stuart Mill, Gerald Massey, Eliza Cook, and George Meredith. Manuscript of Henry Lawson, First Editions of Rare Australian Books, Folios of Prints, Old China, Sheffield Plate, Old Silver, Brass Candlesticks, Old Pewter, Satinwood, Tea Caddy, Fine Jacobean Furniture, Georgian Chairs, Old Norwegian Chest, dated 1796, Cigar Case and Purse, used by Sir John and Lady Franklin, Bartolozzi Prints and Bookplates, Pictures by Australian and other Artists, including Norman Lindsay, Thea Proctor, S. T. Gill, W. Spong, and others.

CENTRAL PACIFIC.

WHERE IS AUSTRALIAN TRADE?

(BY THOMAS J. McMAHON, F.R.G.S.)

A new commercial era will dawn with the world restored to the conditions of peace, and those who know anything of the Pacific and its many islands will readily believe it to be the future theatre of a tremendous trade; it may be indeed the chief asset of that commercial era. By the time peace conditions are settled the Pacific islands will have had their greatest advertisement, and there is not the slightest doubt young men returned from the war, at least 80 per cent. of them, will seek outdoor pursuits, rather than the confinement of offices. The Pacific islands, rich in resources, at once offer an attractive field for young energy and idle capital. Already there are signs in British-owned islands which indicate that investors with ample capital are satisfied with the future and the possibilities of the Pacific, and within ten years a wonderful development will be going on. That development, included with the fruitfulness of present development and enterprise, is going to set trade going on a wide and gigantic scale. The German-owned islands, if opened to the enterprise of Britons, will, it is certain, be readily exploited, for they are territorial magnets; and all tropic industries can be carried out in extensive areas. These islands are sure to prove especially attractive to energetic Australians. Glittering prospects of trade in the Pacific are bringing in the eager traders of more than one nation, and a keen rivalry has begun. Australian trade, personified in the Australian firm of Messrs. Burns, Philp, and Co., who long since pioneered the Pacific trade, and have the credit of maintaining it during the war, thereby saving the prospects of the islands, is solely due to the energy of this firm. But by the fortunes of war and the scarcity of ships, fields of trade in the Pacific mostly supplied, and satisfactorily too, from Australia are now parcelled out to other keen and energetic suppliers, perfectly honourable in all their intentions. These have come to demand a share in Pacific trade, a palpable fact demonstrating the value and prospects of that trade. The rivalries will disclose the advantages on one side, the great disadvantages to the others outside, and this means that the one trader subsidised will secure his trade without the costliness, the hampering regulations, and the general inefficiency of union labour; in other words, it means that Australian traders cannot compete against non-unionism and subsidies. All this is very evident in the Central Pacific to-day. No greater error is extant than that which desplaces the commercial possibilities of the atolls surrounding the equator, and in the distant solitude of the Central Pacific Ocean. This area, with its two phosphate of lime industries on Ocean and Nauru islands, the first British, the second German, though the industry is purely British, at once give the Central Pacific a value running into many millions of pounds, and these islands are particularly useful to Australia in producing the highest grade phosphate known to agriculturists, a fertiliser peculiarly necessary to Australian soils. Then there are the Gilberts and the Ellice groups, with the innumerable detached islands which make up that Crown colony. And last come the Marshalls, owned by Germany, but now occupied for the Allies by the Japanese. In the Marshalls prior to the war the German Jaluit Trading Company carried on a species of trading which on investigation proved them to be the secret agents of the German Imperial Government in acquiring possessions in the Pacific, and out most of all to eventually destroy Australian trade. The trading in the Marshalls, and it may be added in the Central Pacific, has since the Japanese occupation naturally been exploited by the Japanese, and these keen and wonderful people are to be highly commended for their enterprise, as also for the capable and humane manner in which they are governing the Marshalls and the native race.

Australian trade is popular in the Marshalls, and to the distinct credit of the Japanese authorities it has not been seriously interfered with; still it is not to be denied that Japanese trade in the last four years has taken a remarkably firm hold. The Japanese traders are always on the spot; they have no scarcity of ships; their industries in Japan have been working to full requirements. The Australian traders, on the other hand, can only make periodical visits; they have been seriously handicapped by want of ships; and Australian and British industries have been unable to offer any adequate continuance of supplies. Again, tropical products are allowed into Japan without obstructive Customs regulations, an encouragement denied to Australian traders in Australia. But the most formidable obstacle to Australian success, and the surest aid to a Japanese supremacy in the Pacific trade as well as the Central Pacific, is the payment of labour in acquiring the trade. The captain of an Australian ship gets £30 to £40 a month, a sailor £12/10/ a month and a long and varied menu, while a Japanese captain may get anything from £6 to £10 a month, a Japanese sailor £1 to £2 a month, and gives obedience and efficiency on a meagre diet. Then there is another aspect full of meaning, as it will be full of excellent results decidedly to the favour of the Japanese trader. It would be impossible to state but in the terms of the highest praise the manner and the gift of the Japanese in producing a good and wholesome influence with, and gaining the confidence and affection of, the native people. When the story of the occupation of the Marshalls by the Japanese is told, the world will stand amazed and in admiration for a wonderfully clever and thoroughly humane nation having every sensible and kindly quality necessary for the progressive and successful management of Pacific islands and their native peoples.

These are the factors at work in the Central Pacific at this very moment, and no one can reasonably suppose the prospects of Australian trade are bright. For twenty years or more Australian trade, despite German opposition, has flourished in the Central Pacific, to the complete satisfaction of the natives, as instanced by the following little circumstance, which is worth repeating. The writer, during a very recent visit through the Marshalls, was visited by a native king, a man of fine personality, quite civilised, very intelligent, and speaking English quite fluently. In a reference he made to Australian trade, and the hope that when the war was over, it should increase, he said, "Would you be good enough to give my compliments to 'Mr.' Burns, Philp, and Company, the fine old gentleman, who has been so good to me and my people for so many years." And now, by the exigencies of the war, though not in any sense aggressiveness in the enterprise of the Japanese, Australian trade is likely to be eclipsed, a serious result that will be felt in Australia more than most people will suspect, for this trade amounts annually to hundreds of thousands of pounds.

No one can cavil at Japanese preponderance of influence. Japan has done in the Marshalls only what any other Allied nation might have done under similar advantageous circumstances. That preponderance of influence rests in the shrewdness and thoroughness of Japanese enterprise. Japanese traders, educated men speaking English and already masters of the Marshall tongue, and trained commercially, either in England or America, are placed on every lagoon, and in close, constant touch with the natives. Everything that trader sells is Japanese made or grown. "Made in Japan" looms large in the atolls of the Central Pacific, and the natives are a moving advertisement of Japanese wares. The Marshall man and woman have become Japanese in ideas, in manners, and in dress. The nation of all nations held up to them for power and energy is no longer Germany, but Japan. The lava-lava, or loin cloth, is giving place to the kimono, or the Japanese-made European suit or dress. The Marshall woman coiffures her long and glossy sable tresses in the style of the Japanese women. The Marshall chief flashes Japanese jewellery and carries a Japanese walking-stick. The Marshall people visit only Japan (they are very keen to see Australia), and they have come back greatly impressed with the wonderful Japanese people, their might, and their influence in the affairs of the world. But enough! Let Australians study the situation, the presence of a vivid rivalry in the Pacific trade, and the means to be employed which shall ensure success to every Australian endeavour in its efforts to spread Australian trade out upon the Pacific Islands, and to be in that position to actively engage in the Central Pacific with our rivals, but sincere friends, the wonderful and clever Japanese.

"HERMES."

"Hermes" for September is called the "Company Number." It appropriately begins with a portrait of Professor Holme, and contains an article by him on the history of the company, together with a number of illustrations of its members in the various stages of their training, and some martial songs. The short biographies of members of the University who have been on active service and of whom some have fallen for their country are, as usual, admirably done. Among the civilian items the most interesting are the short story, which has been awarded the prize in an award competition founded in memory of Adrian Consett Stephen, and a short history of the Repertory Theatre in Melbourne by Mr. A. T. Strong. There are many verses of a high level of excellence, of which one set, called "The Old Men," encourages us to believe that there are still some undergraduate writers in the University.

IN THE GARDEN.

SUMMER CULTIVATION OF DAHLIAS.

Dahlia tubers that were planted early in October have developed considerable growth, and most of the varieties are beginning to bloom freely. All the superfluous and weaker shoots should be cut out, and the principal ones kept firmly tied to their supports to prevent injury from winds. This will not only preserve the vigour of the plants, but assist them to produce a profusion of flowers over a lengthy period, especially if the old blooms are removed directly they begin to fade. In dry weather liberal supplies of water must be given at the rots, and an occasional good hosing of the foliage will keep the plants in a healthy, vigorous condition. Dahlias in flower will be greatly benefited if they receive an occasional good watering of fairly strong liquid manure. If the surface of the ground about their root system receives a good mulch of well-decayed manure not only will the roots be kept cool, but a too rapid evaporation of moisture from the soil will be presented. Green plants for succession, that is, those dahlias that have been propagated by cuttings inserted earlier in the season, will now be sufficiently forward to be successfully transplanted to the positions where they are to flower. They thrive in a sunny and sheltered situation, in deeply worked rich ground. If cultivated in groups, the plants should be set out from four to five feet apart, according to the vigour of the variety. After each young plant is set in position a stake should be driven firmly into the ground close to it, and left four or five feet above the surface, and the main stem should be tied to this to keep it upright. Train each plant with a single stem about 18in high before allowing any flowering branches to develop from near its apex, and remove any growths that form below this before they are any size. The ground about the young plants should be mulched with some partially decayed vegetable matter. Watering must be systematically attended to, and the foliage must be freely hosed in dry weather to keep in subjection red spider, which is one of the greatest enemies of the dahlia. This insect pest, if allowed to increase to any extent, will seriously interfere with the production of a fine display of bloom.

A NOVELTY IN ZINNIAS.

The "giant flowering" strain of zinnia, referred to in this column when first introduced, has become immensely popular of late with both amateur and professional gardeners; and rightly so, for no annuals withstand dry, hot weather better, or produce more flowers under adverse climatic conditions. The newer creations of this fine type have flower heads, each from five to six inches in diameter, of various brilliant colours, including crimson, golden yellow, pale pink, purple, scarlet, sulphur yellow, violet, and white. There is now available a very distinct novelty of this favourite strain, with singularly attractive flowers. It is called "Achievement," and is a vigorous growing plant, producing a profusion of large, double flower heads, on stout stalks, well above the foliage, displaying a rich and beautiful combination of colour, not hitherto seen amongst zinnia flowers. Seeds of this new form sown now in the ordinary way will provide plants that will produce flowers in late summer and autumn. Seedlings of the older forms that have been raised from seeds sown earlier in the season, and are sufficiently advanced to be successfully transplanted, may now be set in the positions where they are to grow. Zinnias can hardly be misplaced in the garden, but require a sunny position to attain perfection. They thrive in deeply worked, fairly rich soil, and do well in any friable, fertile ground. If planted in masses or in rows, where they show to great advantage in bloom, the seedlings should be set out about 18 inches or two feet apart, the latter distance for rich ground, to allow room for them to develop into good flowering specimens. The seedlings should be regularly watered in dry weather, until they become established, after which only ordinary cultivation is necessary. To keep up a succession of zinnia flowers throughout the hotter months, more seeds may now be sown.

NOTES.

The Japanese iris and its very beautiful flowering varieties are now producing a striking effect in colour, especially where they are growing in groups. In dry weather these plants must have copious and frequent supplies of water at the roots, or their flowering period will be considerably curtailed. If their flowers are removed as soon as they begin to fade, and the young seed vessels cut off, the vigour of the plants will be conserved. In several of the metropolitan parks and gardens very fine trees of the Cape chestnut, Calodendron capensis, are now producing a profusion of richly-coloured pinkish heliotrope flowers, making a most attractive display. This South African handsome, unbrageous, evergreen tree was introduced during the early days of settlement, and like most of the plants indigenous to that country thrive when planted in the more favoured districts of New South Wales, but it is not as largely grown here as its merits entitle it. The Cape chestnut thrives in a sunny and sheltered situation where there is room for its development, and in any deep, fairly good soil. It appears to produce the greatest profusion of flowers in a dry spring, such as has been experienced this season. Young plants that are established in pots may now be set in the positions where they are to grow, but several years will elapse before they will produce flowers in any quantity. Only ordinary attention is necessary for the successful cultivation of this fine tree.

Annuals with brilliantly coloured foliage, such as the various species and varieties of amaranthus, and those with richly coloured plumes of inflorescence, as, for example, the feathery cockscombs, may now be transferred from the seed boxes or seed beds to the open where they are to grow. Where there is plenty of ground available these annuals produce the most gorgeous effect when planted in a bed or beds by themselves, but they are a charming sight when grown singly at intervals in the borders. These plants thrive in a sunny and sheltered situation in well-prepared light, rich soil. The plants should be regularly watered in dry weather, and whilst young should be kept clean of weeds.

The first flush of flowers of hybrid tea and tea roses is now over for this season, and the plant should receive attention. All the longer shoots that are not carrying any flowers should be well shortened to induce lateral growth and more bloom later on. Climbing roses, like Maman Cochet, should have their flowerless lateral growths well cut back, for that will result in new shoots, and a crop of flowers in due season. The rambler and similar roses that have ceased flowering should now be pruned. After the dead wood and all the weaker and superfluous growths have been removed, shorten the lateral shoots to three or four buds (eyes), and evenly distribute the principal growths over their supports, if necessary tying them in position. Sprinkle a little bone dust on the ground about the root system of all these different classes of roses, and lightly fork it into the soil. Then give the surface a good dressing of well-decayed manure, particularly if the ground is not rich. Roses must be well nourished if first-class blooms are desired.

VEGETABLE GARDEN.

Since the warm weather set in a very dry time has been experienced, and unless abundant supplies of water have been available for systematically irrigating the crops, the growing of good vegetables has been a difficult task. Where the water supply is deficient it will be advisable to thoroughly mulch the surface of the ground about the crops with well-decayed manure or similar material, for that will not only keep the roots cool, but prevent a too rapid evaporation of moisture from the soil. No vegetables yield more abundantly or quickly during the hotter months than the dwarf and tall kidney or French beans and butter beans, and seeds for these crops may now be sown at regular intervals, and in quantities according to requirements, so that a continuous supply of these esculents can be maintained whilst the warm weather lasts. On well-prepared seed beds, composed if possible of light soil, or that of a friable nature, sow seeds for the main autumn and winter crops of cabbage and cauliflower. The seed should be sown very thinly and evenly on the level surface, and left only slightly covered with fine vegetable mould or similar light material. The seed beds and the resulting seedlings should be regularly watered, and the latter slightly shaded from the hot sunshine until they become strong. Under the same conditions also sow seeds of broccoli, Brussel's sprouts, Cape gooseberry, capsicum or chili, celery, kale or borecole, Kohl-rabi, and tomato. And in drills sow seeds of beet, carrot, parsnip, spinach, sweet corn, or table maize, swede, and white turnip, and in the colder districts culinary peas. On low mounds composed of rich soil sow seeds of cucumber, rock melon, squash, and vegetable marrow, to provide plants for successional cropping. For salad sow seeds of cress, lettuce, mustard, onion, and radish, according to the directions given in this column last month. Set out more tomato seedlings, and sweet potato cuttings, and plant eschalots, potato, and tree onions, in well-worked, fairly rich soil. Where celery and leeks are being grown for early supplies water them on a liberal scale in dry weather, for if they suffer from the want of moisture at the roots they will be likely to go prematurely to seed.

THE CHURCHES.

PEACE AND ITS PROBLEMS.

In his monthly pastoral letter the Archbishop of Sydney, referring to the signing of the armistice, touches upon the duties and problems of the future as follows:—"When peace will be signed is a matter upon which the most sanguine prophets will not dare to speculate. But one thing is certain, namely, that we must employ these intervening months for the purpose of regularising our thought. The war slowly gave us the habit of thinking more clearly than was our wont upon great problems. We must apply the habit effectively to enable us to form clear judgments upon the various aspects of reconstruction of a community whose domestic activities have been rudely disturbed by war, and whose outlook must inevitably accept an altered range of vision on many sides, as a result of the war. We must refuse to be led blindly by the loudest schemer, who presumes to tell us that he possesses the final solution of the scheme of events. On some things we must be content to admit our temporary grievances. We must not abandon the old footholds until we have reason to believe that a new path is clearly indicated to us. In these varied conflicts of ideas, vast responsibility will rest upon our Churchpeople, as it has done during the war. We ought to continue our intercessions for guidance in peace problems as earnestly as we prayed in war. No individual knows how far that personal influence of each of us extends. Men are asking for leadership; therefore, we must pray for our leaders. In particular we must ask for guidance in the resettlement of the gallant men who come back to us. Especially we must pray for those who will be called upon to adjust the intricate duties of the country to those who have been maimed in our defence. The first claim upon us lies there, as regards our social activities. We must be considerate; at the same time we must press for energy, and we must deprecate the existence of officialism that forgets its human responsibilities in the coldness and the heartlessness of routine. We must also consider the best form in which to make permanent memorials of those who laid down their lives for us."

A MISSIONARY RECORD.

At the close of the present connexional year the Rev. Arthur J. Small will have completed 40 years' missionary service in Fiji—a record in the annals of the Methodist Missionary Society of Australasia. In 1877 Mr. Small was received by the New South Wales Methodist Conference as a candidate for the ministry, and after studying for two years at the Theological Institution, he was appointed to the Bau circuit in Fiji. With his young wife he then entered upon his missionary career in the district, where he has since laboured without interruption and with much acceptance. He has superintended successively the Bua, Viwa, Bau, and Suva circuits, and, since 1901, has held the responsible position of chairman of the district. At the Fiji District Synod recently held, at which the general secretary, the Rev. John G. Wheen, of Sydney, was present, a resolution was carried with much enthusiasm conveying to Mr. Small the congratulations of the Methodist missionaries and people in Fiji, and expressing their warm appreciation of his work and their deep affection for himself. A few days later at a large assemblage in the Baker Memorial Hall, Davuilevu, congratulatory addresses to Mr. and Mrs. Small were delivered, and the Rev. J. G. Wheen, at the request of the synod, handed to Mr. Small the sum of £100, which had been contributed within a few days by the various circuits, as a practical evidence of the esteem and affection of the Church.

The Archbishop of Sydney will dedicate a roll of honour at St. John's Church, Balmain, this afternoon. To-morrow morning he will preach at St. Andrew's Cathedral, and at night at Naremburn. Next week the Archbishop will conduct confirmation services as follows:—Monday, Christ Church, Pitt-street; Tuesday, Granville; Saturday, Naremburn.

News has reached Sydney that the Bishop of Melanesia, the Right Rev. Cecil Wood, has announced his resignation, which will take effect from December 31. The diocese, which is part of the province of New Zealand, is very widespread, embracing all the islands from the New Hebrides to the Solomons, and including Norfolk Island. Previously Bishop Wood was head of the Clergy House at Wimbledon (England).

Canon Stacy Waddy will lecture on the Holy Land in war time at the I.O.O.F. Temple, Elizabeth-street, next Tuesday night.

A special course of sermons will be delivered by the Archbishop and the Dean of Sydney at St. Andrew's Cathedral each Sunday morning and evening during Advent on "The Witness to Christ" and "The Kingdom of God." To-morrow, morning the Archbishop will deal with the witness of the Scriptures, and at night the Dean will preach on the Kingdom of God, in the New Testament.

In the presence of a large congregation, including the Church Lads' Brigade, at Goulburn, the Rev. Canon Howell, unveiled and dedicated a stained glass window in memory of Sergeant D. S. Maxwell, who was killed at Ypres on November 30, 1917. The window represents the Apostle St. Peter, and was erected by the parents, sisters, and brothers of the deceased.

The summer fair in connection with the celebrations of the 79th anniversary of St. Peter's Church of England, Cook's River, was opened by Mrs. Henry Knight on November 29, and a sum of over £100 was realised towards liquidating the debts of the church. Special services will be continued to-morrow.

The Rev. Bro. J. N. Moore, of the Christian Brothers, is organising the jubilee celebrations of this order, which take place during the first half of next year. Twelve years ago Brother Moore was transferred to New Zealand from Lewisham, where he resided for ten years. For four years he has been engaged in Queensland and Victoria.

The Presbyterian Moderator-General, the Rev. John Walker, visited his old charge of Holbrook last Sunday to take part in the presentation of an address to Mr. John Ross, who has been secretary and treasurer of the charge since 1871.

The Moderator of the New South Wales Presbyterian Assembly, the Rev. David Smith, visited Goulburn and took part in the services there last Sunday.

Two new homes at the Burnside Presbyterian Orphanage will be opened during January.

The Rev. J. T. Lawton, who had started out as Presbyterian chaplain with the forces, has returned to Sydney. He was placed in quarantine for a week.

The Governor-General will distribute the prizes at Newington College next Friday, and Lady Davidson will perform a similar function at the Methodist Ladies' College, Burwood, on Wednesday.

At the anniversary service in connection with the Newcastle Central Mission last Sunday, the Rev. S. J. Hoban, superintendent of the Sydney Central Methodist Mission, was the preacher.

The Woolloomooloo Presbyterian Christmas treat, which has been given for the last 15 years to 435 boys and girls of the district, will be held this year on Saturday afternoon, December 21, at 3 o'clock. Donations and gifts of toys will be received at The Settlement, 149 Crown-street.

The Tuesday United Services of Thanksgiving and Intercession continue to be held in Pitt-street Congregational Church. On Tuesday of this week the Rev. J. G. Wheen, Foreign Mission secretary of the Methodist Church, presided, and the Rev. A. J. Wade, of St. Peter's, North Sydney, gave an address. Mr. Harward, president of the Associated Churches of Christ, will give the address next Tuesday.

Major Chaplain the Rev. R. H. Pitt-Owen, Senior Chaplain of the 3rd Division A.I.F., who, after four years' service, recently returned from France on furlough, has been notified by the military authorities that owing to the cessation of hostilities he will not be required to return to the front.

The second series of missionary exhibitions at country centres arranged by the Australian Board of Missions concluded at Portland yesterday, the other centres visited being Grenfell, Canowindra, Carcoar, and Blayney. Further exhibitions will be held next year, tours of Tasmania and Western Australia having been definitely decided upon.

Daniel Bula, a native teacher in the Solomon Islands, who has been assisting the Rev. R. C. Nicholson in reducing the language of the people of Vella Lavella to writing, is returning to the islands by the Mindini to-day. Mr. Nicholson will remain in Australia for a few months longer.

On Wednesday next the 57th annual meeting of the Redfern branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society will be held in the Congregational Church, Cleveland-street. Lieut.-Colonel McKenzie, M.C. ("Fighting Mac"), will speak on "Soldiers and God's Word," and the Rev. R. L. Coulter will preside.

MOSMAN SCHOOL AND THE SOLDIERS.

By permission of the commanding officer, the returned officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of George's Heights Hospital, Mosman, will entertain the school children of Mosman on Wednesday, December 11, when a pair of flags will be presented by the men to the school.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

THE SECRET OF THE NAVY.

The heavy hand of censorship has oppressed any attempt to describe Britain's part in sea warfare. Mr. Bennet Copplestone is still conscious of its weight, but in "The Secret of the Navy," he not only tells a fine story of unremitting effort and splendid courage, but he is allowed to lift the curtain a little so as to give tantalising glimpses of mysteries which, we hope, will soon be revealed to us fully. Mr. Copplestone is one of the writers whose reputation has been made by the war; with naval matters in particular he deals with the sure touch that betokens intimacy. In this book he will enhance his reputation. It is a very vivid chronicle, which the author intersperses with conversations and letters from the men who have done the fighting, and have faithfully performed their part of the vigil. These, whether they be admirals or stokers, "snotties," officers, gunners, or "jaunties," have the ring of truth, and show the same zest in their work—one may add also, the same unconsciousness of any merit. They are each and all doing their job, and that is enough for them. Just twenty years ago Mr. Rudyard Kipling wrote "The Fleet in Being." The technique and the personnel of the navy have changed since then, but the spirit is identical, even to the conviction that each individual's duty is the most desirable in the fleet. The engine-hand, who can find no escape if the ship should sink, plumes himself on his superior warmth and safety from shrapnel; the observation officer regards his risk as little compared with his prospect of a thrilling view.

Mr. Copplestone refights our naval battles, and fills in some fresh details. Even if he had said little that was new, his tale would still be worth the telling, for we can never tire of reading about the deeds of the navy, great or minor in their degree. The engagement between the Sydney and the Emden, the battles of Coronel, the Falklands, and Jutland are described with an amplitude of information, and in each case the author throws some fresh light on the general strategy involved. He is concerned to honour the memory of Von Spee and his squadron, who, by an odd chance, had been good friends of the Monmouth in Chinese waters a few years before. "The German Pacific squadron was officer for officer and man for man almost as good as our best. It was nearer the realisation of the naval Soul than was any other part of the German navy." It was composed of long-service men who had been about the world and had learned much in the process. But Von Spee, though a courageous gentleman and a fine seaman, lacked a certain naval sense. A British sailor would never have wasted priceless shot and shell in bombarding Tahiti; a British sailor, after winning such a battle as Coronel, would never have wasted precious weeks round about Valparaiso, thus locating himself for the benefit of "intelligence." Admiral Cradock has often been blamed for fighting at Coronel, but Mr. Copplestone asks us to remember that he had no alternative. The Germans had the speed of him and the guns of him; they knew where he was; they could dictate the battlefield; Cradock realised that he would have to fight sooner or later, and that it would be his last battle. He chose to fight sooner.

Jutland was a battle on which opinion has been held in suspense. First we thought it a defeat; then a victory; then, because the German claims were so emphatic, we reserved judgment. Mr. Copplestone bids us be under no illusion—and since his words were written they have been confirmed by German confessions. Jutland was a sweeping British victory, in which the German navy was saved by sheer good luck from annihilation. No more vivid account of the battle has yet been written, of the first clash, of the grim inferno when so many British ships were sunk, of the oncoming of the Battle Squadron, of the German withdrawal, of the aftermath when in darkness and mist the British destroyers hurled themselves at the Germans like hounds at a boar, knowing that even if some were wiped out the others would bring the quarry down. One of his correspondents, who went through the battle of Jutland from beginning to end, describes his sensations in the following prosaic terms:—"We saw nothing; we were just parts of a big human machine intent upon working our own little bit with faultless accuracy. There was no leisure to think of anything else but the job in hand. A naval action in a turret is just gun drill glorified, as I suppose it is meant to be. The enemy is not seen; even the explosions of the guns are scarcely heard. It is just quiet, organised labour."

It comes rather as a shock to hear Mr. Copplestone declare that naval gunnery is "still in its infancy." He will not call it "bad," because that word implies blame; but from the experience of the North Sea and the outer seas he thinks that it is "certainly ineffective." This is a relative term. The Germans have shot well at the beginning of an action, though seldom when their enemy found their range; the British have begun badly, but persevered under punishment, with an improvement that shook the nerves of their opponents and finally developed deadly accuracy. But the results at sea have not on the whole been comparable to those of heavy artillery on land. At the Falklands Admiral Sturdee, wishing to save his ships, and having "the legs" of Von Spee, took over five hours to destroy the heavier units of the German squadron. For this, as at Jutland and the Dogger Bank, British gunnery has been criticised. But the critics forget the difficulty of the task—to hit a moving target from a moving platform. Mr. Copplestone suggests that the critics should arm themselves with a pea rifle, ascend a motor car, and, travelling rapidly along a country road, practice on running rabbits. Then they will appreciate some of the problems of sea gunnery.

Mr. Copplestone speaks also of the high command. He has an immense admiration for Admiral Beatty, who has a penchant for being photographed with his cap over one eye, "like an American tough," and who is no scientific sailor from the schools—"But give him a fighting problem to be solved out in the open, with the guns firing, and he will solve it by sheer instinctive genius." But the author asks us not to forget the work of Jellicoe, who began what Beatty was able to finish. Jellicoe laid the foundations with a sure hand and a wise foresight. At Jutland Jellicoe had the fulfilment of all his vigils:—"Upon him, though absent, the whole issue of the battle depended. His deployment by judgment and instinct—sight was withheld from him by the weather—was perfect in its timing and precision. He should have been crowned with the bays of a complete victor, but the fates were unkind. He was robbed of the prey when it was almost within his jaws." (Murray: Dymock's).

THE REVELATIONS OF A GERMAN SPY.

It is rather difficult to disentangle fact from fiction in "My Adventures as a German Secret Service Agent," by Captain Horst von der Goltz, who claims to have brought off some most sensational coups in espionage. The author certainly has, or had, some connection with the German secret service. Early in the war he was arrested in England under the name of Bridgman Taylor, and later, while he was still in prison, the authorities discovered proof that he was involved in the conspiracy to blow up the Welland Canal, connecting the great lakes in America. The object of the plan was to embarrass the United States Government, and to keep the Canadian troops at home to resist a possible invasion. As we know, it failed, and von der Goltz in England saved his own skin by "blowing the gaff" on von Papen and Boy-Ed, his employers.

But while the "revelations" about the Welland Canal affair and the campaign of German propaganda in America are probably true enough, it requires a heroic degree of credulity to swallow his other exploits. The author's technique in espionage is borrowed from melodrama, and his "stunts" fail to impress the reader. The probability is that Von der Goltz was not originally a spy at all, but a German soldier of fortune, who drifted to Mexico when the revolution offered prospects of advancement, and that on the outbreak of war the German agents in America made use of him, as of many another adventurer, for various enterprises. His knowledge of Mexico was an asset in stirring up trouble between that country and the United States, and his evident lack of scruple was always a point in his favour—till it led him to play the part of an informer against his own chiefs. He gives a picture of the methods of German propaganda which shows its enormous activity, and also explains its failure to accomplish anything proportionate to its efforts. (Cassell and Co.)

SOPHIA JEX-BLAKE.

Nowadays the woman doctor is taken as a matter of course. In peace she practised her profession on terms of equality with man; during the war she has served with distinction on the staffs of military hospitals all over the world. Yet it is only a comparatively few years ago that women were fighting what appeared to be a hopeless battle against the prejudice of those who denied them this career. The story of the struggle is told by Dr. Margaret Todd in her "Life" of Sophia Jex-Blake, who more than anyone else was responsible for the final victory. Sophia Jex-Blake was an unusual phenomenon in an age when the home was regarded as the only proper sphere for her sex, and when, if a woman had brains, she was not supposed to use them too publicly. Early in life she made up her mind to be "a preacher or a teacher." She studied abroad and in 1865 went to America to inquire into the American school system. A chance visit to a hospital dispensary turned her thoughts to medicine, but when she went back to England she found to her amazement that there was nowhere where she could qualify. On the continent, particularly in Switzerland and France, there were Universities which granted medical degrees to women, but in Britain not only was no medical course available, but the Universities would not admit women at all to their monastic precincts. Edinburgh was the object of her first attack. Many of the academic authorities wholeheartedly supported women's claims; many were in sympathy with them, though they saw practical difficulties in the way; but there were also many who for different reasons opposed them most vehemently. The "battle of Edinburgh," as it was called, assumed public proportions and divided the whole of the United Kingdom into hostile camps. It filled the papers, gave rise to libel actions (in one of which Sophia Jex-Blake was the defendant, and was mulcted in a farthing damages); it was reflected in other towns, notably in London, where the question of the admission of women to the Universities racked the quiet groves of academia. For long the issue seemed doubtful, but Sophia Jex-Blake, Dr. Garrett Anderson, and a few others were not the kind to acknowledge defeat, and in the end common sense and justice triumphed. A few years later the world was wondering what all the fuss had been about, and the very persons who had formerly accused the aspirant woman-doctors of "prudent-mindedness" were complimenting them on their aptitude. (Macmillan.)

THE STORY BOOK OF SCIENCE.

The late Jean Henri Fabre has been described by M. Maeterlinck as "the insects' Homer," and the title is apt. No one has more faithfully observed the ways of nature and no one has written of them with more intimate realism. To Fabre the life of a fly, an ant, or a bee was literally an epic, full of thrilling adventures, hairsbreadth escapes, vivid encounters, and glorious achievements of self-realisation. From his little country home Fabre set himself to popularise natural history, and he succeeded. Yet with him popularisation meant no loss of scientific accuracy; the layman enjoyed the fruits of his researches, the savant also acknowledged their value, and joined in many a pilgrimage to do honour to the "master." "The Story Book of Science" shows all Fabre's charm and knowledge of nature. It is a fascinating description of the metals under the earth, the plants and animals on the surface, and the planets in the heaven above, told in lucid language, and in a story form which will commend itself particularly to young readers. But their elders will read it also, not only to enable them to find an answer to the everlasting "why?" of youth, but also for their own sake, for it opens to them a wonderful and mysterious world, whose very existence many of them may never have suspected. (Century Co.; Angus and Robertson.)

SNUGGLEPOT AND CUDDLEPIE.

Miss May Gibbs rather specialises in urchins who lurk unseen in the bush, and in "Tales of Snugglepot and Cuddlepie" she describes the adventures of two of the most enterprising of them. They dwell in a great gum tree, which offers exceptional advantages as a residence. If they want to sleep they can curl up in a hammock made of a gum leaf; if they want a bath another leaf filled with dewdrops serves the purpose. Round the corner is a dairy, where aphis are milked daily; hard by a cab rank, where dashing kangaroos are waiting for hire. For those who are fond of rowing bean-pods are available; there is a lilly pilly picture palace and a gum tree inn. Nor are the serious things of life neglected, for all the children have to attend a school presided over by a wise old kookaburra. The tales themselves are charming, but by no means the least part of the entertainment is the delightful pictures which adorn every page. (Angus and Robertson.)

NEW NOVELS.

In "Those People of Bulboro" Mr. Edgar Wallace has drawn a picture of religious prejudice in an English provincial town. Bulboro is not a large place, but it contains quantities of sects and sub-sects who hate each other like poison and quarrel perpetually. The young doctor, fresh from Equatorial wilds, is soon convinced that the African savage is a tolerant individual compared with some of these good folk of Bulboro. Because he remains indifferent to their warfare he is boycotted; because he prosecutes the leader of a local conventicle for the brutal ill-treatment of his son, he finds that he has antagonised half the town. Dill, his "victim" is a cleverly-drawn character; every religion, unfortunately, has its Dills, narrow fanatics who have perverted the spirit of their faith to uncharitableness. Dill's only redeeming trait is his sincerity; he really believes that he is justified in advancing the cause of his sect by any means fair or foul, and to that end he stoops to blackmail and even baser weapons. There is a touch of melodrama in the story, and plenty of love interest, but the chief thing is the acid picture of Bulboro, where sectarian issues invade politics, and social and domestic relations, and where a man's private belief is not his own affair, but the concern of his neighbours. Not only in England are there Bulboros. (Ward Lock.)

When Mr. Herbert Jenkins first conceived the character of Bindle, it is unlikely that even he ever guessed how popular the personage he had created would become. "The Adventures of Bindle," containing a further instalment of that hero's exploits, will be welcomed by the Bindle-worshippers, whose name is legion. Bindle is a very pleasant person. He does not permit his occupation of assistant to a furniture remover to interfere with his profession, which is to enjoy life and to help others to enjoy it. He is a traditional Cockney, cheerful, humorous, given to practical jokes, and able to appreciate a joke at his own expense. He has a gift for repartee and a great heart. He is the sort of person in whom Dickens delighted; but Bindle is very up to date, and would be highly affronted to be regarded as a mid-Victorian. A popular character such as Bindle is sometimes finds it a little hard to retain the freshness of his appeal through three successive volumes, but Mr. Jenkins is a discreet trainer, and there is no sign of staleness as yet. (Published by the author.)

LITERARY REVIEW.

At the Unitarian Church, Hyde Park, a pleasant hour or two was passed, when Mr. S. N. Hogg reviewed an unpublished novel entitled "Storm Clouds," written by the Rev. George Walters. Mr. Hogg gave a short outline of the plot for the new story, which proved of interest, and dramatic colour was lent to the novel entertainment by the recital of one or two chapters by the author himself.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

The death of Edmond Rostand, who stands above d'Annunzio as one of the two great poet-dramatists of the 20th century, was briefly cabled from London during the week. Rostand, whose stage-work was of a romantic and lyrical order, was but 50 years of age, and it is possible that his life may have been shortened by a very serious motor accident in the Pyrenees seven years ago. Born at Marseilles, when fame and riches reached him he built for himself a lordly pleasure-house at Cambo, on the French side of the Pyrenees. Every detail of this "Villa Arnaga" owed something to his inspiration—from the soft coloured tiles collected from many an old Basque roof to the painted ceilings, and to the semi-circle of vine-covered trellis-work, beneath which were the marble busts of his favourite authors, Cervantes, Victor Hugo, and Shakespeare. Rostand's first real success was "La Princesse Lointaine" ("The Far-off Princess"), staged by Sarah Bernhardt at the Renaissance in 1895. Two years later he attained international fame with "Cyrano de Bergerac," which came a little after the dubious reception of "La Samaritaine" (Bernhardt), founded on the scriptural meeting between Christ and the Woman of Samaria at the well. This, like the touching Gospel narrative itself, was all poetry; but it could not rival the poignant tenderness of the brief original. Rostand did not found a new school, or strike out new paths, in Cyrano. He merely re-sounded the clarion of romance beloved of Hugo and Banville. This was at the Porte Saint Martin Theatre, with Coquelin in the name-part, and the Parisians responded with a run of 400 nights. Coquelin repeated at the London Lyceum his great impersonation of the tender farceur with the too-long nose, who hopelessly adored Roxane, and helped Christian, the handsome, dull lover, to woo and win her. Charles Wyndham played the part (in English) at his own theatre in 1900, but without the art of his predecessor, and the run was short. Cyrano was staged in Sydney a little later at the Palace Theatre with the American actor Henry Lee in the title-role, and he played it brilliantly. "L'Aiglon" ("The Eaglet"), the Napoleonic tragedy written for Bernhardt, was another great poetic success in Paris. It was never staged in English in London, but Maude Adams made a hit in it in America, and Tittell Brune achieved the one absolute success of her career as the little Duke in Australia. After a lapse of an entire decade Rostand produced "Chantecler" (1910), rich in fine lines, but impossible owing to the stage scheme, in which nearly all the characters were from the poultry-yard. Since then nothing has been heard of the great French poet until his death.

The figures showing the result of the ballot for the plebiscite programme for the final orchestral concert of the year at the Conservatorium this afternoon were published on Monday. Now that the voting for the rejected pieces is also available it will be noticed that the preference for the Pathetic Symphony of Tschaikowsky was unusually marked at 200 votes. The Choral Symphony, which stood next, only received 81, after which there was another decided drop to "Schubert in C" (54), the "Jupiter" of Mozart (52), and Nos. 7 and 8 of the Beethoven series (49 and 21). In the overture section the two most frequently heard masterpieces, "Leonora No. 3" (193) and "A Midsummer Night's Dream" (102), stood at the top. The themes of Mendelssohn's youthful effort used to be whistled in the streets in the long ago, when George Rignold staged the great comedy at Her Majesty's (1894), with exquisite spectacular effects and an augmented orchestra, the run rivalling in length the popular revues of today. The music was heard again at the Rignold revivals, and more recently when Oscar Asche and Lily Brayton figured in the fairy fantasy. Voting on the concertos resulted in a striking personal tribute to Miss Jenny Cullen, whose charm in the Saint-Saens' in B minor carried all before it with 243 votes. Mr. Henry Penn and the great Emperor Concerto came easily next with 150; but there was a big drop in the voting for all other pieces in the section. The public taste hesitated over the miscellaneous orchestral numbers, and the choice of the suite from the "Casse-Noisette Ballet" (132) showed a falling-off in the standard of discrimination. We are with the minority who rejected that sugar plum in order to vote for Ravel and his "Pavane" (49) at Royal obsequies in Spain, and also with those who wished to hear again Gluck's melody (47), with Mr. John Lemmone as flautist—or even as flutist! Finally, in the vocal section there was a preponderance in favour of Schubert's "Shepherd on the Rock" (149), with Miss Patti Russell as soloist, and only 116 votes for Beethoven's "Ah Perfido" (Madame Goossens Viceroy), which some misguided subscribers consider to be old-fashioned. Thanks to the quality of the Verbrugghen orchestral repertoire, which was like a ring-fence round the voters, they came off with flying colours at the end of the long season; but how was it that only 13 people voted for Cherubini's superb "Anacreon" overture?

"A Woman's Letter" is continued with visits to American pieces in London already staged here, notably "Fair and Warmer," the farcical piece in which two people of the opposite sex, quite unaccustomed to strong drink, mix cock-tails not wisely but too well, and are discovered in a hopeless condition by their respective life-partners. Avery Hopwood's farce at the Prince of Wales' Theatre, London, is referred to as follows:—"It is seldom that I go to avowed farces. But it so fell out that I went to see 'Fair and Warmer,' and found it an exceedingly clever thing. Like most American plays at the moment, one was bound to have a drinking scene with the 'woman star' as protagonist. It rather jars on English ideas, but the scene fitted into its environment, and one must take plays of other nationalities than our own on their face value. There was a slender story, just enough to hang important scenes on. Mr. Bartlett was played by a very experienced comedian from America, Mr. David Miller. His acting is like a Coquelin. The highest finish I have seen for some time. His wife was in the capable and charming hands of Miss Margaret Halstan, a beautiful woman who has played many fine parts. I do not forget her Juliet nor her wonderful work in a little Welsh drama called 'Where is He?' Her gowns were exquisite, and she wore them with grace. Miss Fay Compton's playing of the inebriated lady was done with great delicacy; she is rapidly rising to the front line of emotional and comedy actresses. Beautiful to look at with her fair skin and Titian-red hair, one does not wonder with such beauty and skill she is much run after by managers. The other men had minor parts. One of them, Mr. Ronald Squire, seems to have acquired much of poor Arthur Playfair's manner and cleverness in farcical acting."

Since Melbourne affairs were last referred to, Dame Melba has appeared at the Town Hall with the orchestra under Mr. Fritz Hart, in aid of the Lady Northcote Permanent Orchestra Trust, supported by M. Francis de Bourguignon as pianist and accompanist. The great singer's farewell to the Victorian capital will be at her concert on December 17, at which Miss Leila Doubleday and Mr. John Lemmone will assist, and guess-work probabilities point to an ultimate appearance in Sydney, inasmuch as the diva will sail from this city for America. Her passage is booked by the Niagara during the second week in January. Dame Melba has been invited to England by the King to give Red Cross concerts in Great Britain, and she will also star at Covent Garden during the Royal Italian Opera season. Dame Melba will also sing in America and Canada, but though her absence will last until late in 1919, the widely-published statement that she will be away from Australia "for some years" arises from a misapprehension. Signor Alberto Zelman has conducted the Melbourne Symphony Orchestra in a classic and operatic programme, and he also directed the Melbourne Philharmonic Society in "The Fourth of August," "To Women," and "To the Fallen," the three parts of "The Spirit of England," set to music by Elgar. Miss Gertrude Alger, a violinist who has been absent in Europe for eight years, reappeared at the Auditorium, and proved herself a player of the highest technical ability in such pieces as Hubay's "Scherzo Diabolique" and Paganini's "Witches' Dance."

THE CASE FOR THE CROWN.

BY FRED M. WHITE.

[ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.]

"That was the night of Molyneux's death, wasn't it?"

"Yes. I asked Cecil to meet me to say good-bye, and she consented. Not secretly, because she told Molyneux all about it. I could not go to the house, because he would only have insulted me if I had, but I met her in the garden, he knowing I was going to do so. It was just the sort of situation that his crooked mind delighted in. Well, we met after dinner, and I suppose we must have been together two or three hours. But really, the time passed more quickly than we thought. And I swear to you, Mr. Archenfield, that no word of love passed between us. We parted at length, and I left Oxley the same night. I went to Liverpool, where I was waiting for a friend, and for some days I was too busy to look at the papers. Then this morning I read all about the Red House mystery in the "Telegraph." I need not tell you that I hastened back at once. I came back, because my testimony will free Cecil from suspicion at once. When she joined me in the garden her husband was alive. She was with me till after his death and the evidence of the inquest proves. Now, if I come forward——"

"But that is exactly what Mrs. Molyneux does not want," Archenfield interrupted. "She has not been altogether candid with me on this point, but, all the same, I can quite understand her scruples. She would see at once what people would say when they knew that she was keeping an assignation with you in the garden. Gossips would jump to the conclusion that it was a secret meeting, and I am afraid Counsel for the Crown would point to all this as a motive for the crime. Surely, Mr. Coventry, you can see this."

"I hadn't thought of that," Coventry groaned. "What a ghastly business the whole thing is. And unhappily you are right. It is a most uncharitable world, and what is worse, everybody in Oxley knows of my one time engagement to Cecil. Oh yes, I can quite see now why she didn't mention it, though she must have known that I was in a position to prove that she was in the garden at the time her husband died, and that therefore it was not she who called at the chemist's."

"Oh, I see that plainly enough," Archenfield said. "Excuse me a moment, there's someone at the telephone."

It was Chim Fang at the other end of the wire.

"Is that you, master?" he asked. "Flint was arrested this morning, and comes before the magistrate to-morrow."

CHAPTER XXIX.

FLINT IN TROUBLE.

Archenfield gave a few brief instructions to his henchman. Chim Fang was to stay in Oxley for the present and attend the police court proceedings on the morrow, after which he was to return to the House on the River without delay. He went back to his seat and resumed his conversation with Coventry.

"I expected something like this," he said. "I don't mean to say that I expected to see you back here so soon, but I knew that Mrs. Molyneux was concealing something from me. It was an innocent deception, and I am bound to say that I like her all the better for it. If the worst comes to the worst, you will have to go into the witness-box and tell your story. But I warn you that it will not be believed. It will be suggested that you concocted the whole thing to save the woman you love from a fearful charge. You have no witnesses. But, on the other hand, in view of certain information which I have received, I don't think there will be any occasion for you to appear in the case. I am sure you will agree that if we can keep Mrs. Molyneux's love affairs out of the case it will be all the better. You can rest assured that before long Mrs. Molyneux will be free from all suspicion, and that being so, it is a pity you came back at all? When the whole case is forgotten, then ——"

"But how should I know this?" Coventry cried. "I was bound to come back, in my position; I should have come back if Cecil had been a mere stranger to me."

"Oh, I quite see that. What you have done does credit to your feelings; but if you take my advice you won't try and see Mrs. Molyneux."

"You think it better not?"

"My dear sir, I am sure of it. Don't give anybody the slightest hand. Unfortunately certain people must know by this time that you have come back, and if it becomes generally known that you are here——"

"Well, it isn't. I walked. I thought it best to do so. It was very hard that I can't see the poor girl and say a few words of encouragement to her; but I am entirely in your hands, and will do anything you suggest."

"You are quite right," Archenfield cried. "Go back to Oxley and stay there by all means. Tell people you have changed your mind about going to Canada. There is not the slightest reason why you shouldn't write to Mrs. Molyneux and let her know that you have returned. There would be no possible harm in that. And I will inform her that you have been here—in fact, I will tell her all about it."

"That is very good of you," Coventry said. "And now I won't detain you any longer."

Archenfield saw his visitor off the premises with the comfortable feeling that Coventry had not been seen. Then he went back to the library and sent a message to Mrs. Molyneux that he wanted to see her. She came in a minute or two later, looking a little startled and uneasy, and expressed the hope that there was nothing wrong.

"On the contrary," Archenfield smiled reassuringly. "I have just had a visitor, a visitor who came to see you, but I persuaded him that he had better not."

"Godfrey!" Cecil cried. "Godfrey here."

"Well, he was, but he has gone now. And I am sure you will agree with me that it was better you should not meet, even so far remote from prying eyes as this. Now, do sit down and try and compose yourself. Because I am going to scold you."

"What have I done?" Cecil asked.

"It is something you have not done," Archenfield said. "Now, why didn't you tell me, when you said you had told me everything, that on the night of your husband's death you left him sitting in the library, and that you did not see him again alive? You found him dead in the library, and immediately called for assistance. You couldn't have murdered him from between the time that you went into the room and the moment you rang the bell, could you now? And you couldn't possibly have gone down to the chemist's shop and purchased that second bottle of drug between dinner-time and eleven o'clock, for the simple reason that you were in the garden with Mr. Coventry all the time."

Cecil's face flamed hotly.

"Oh, I was," she said. "Perhaps I ought to have told you, but what would have been the good? We could have gained nothing by it. Besides, Godfrey went without even telling me by what boat he was sailing. And I didn't want anybody to know that I had been with him that night."

"Are you sure that no one knew?"

There was a startled expression in Cecil's eyes.

"Well, yes, I imagine that Barton knew. Yes, he did. I remember now my husband telling me in Barton's presence not to stay there fussing about him, but to go into the garden and meet the man who was awaiting me there. It was one of those dreadful remarks that Robert was fond of making in the presence of the servants. He never lost a chance to humiliate me. But can't you see what people would say if they knew that I had met Godfrey in the garden that night? There are lots of uncharitable people who would be ready to declare that we deliberately planned to destroy my husband. Mr. Archenfield, I will put up with any punishment rather than I would stand in the dock and hear Godfrey give evidence in my favour. That must not hamper—indeed, it must not. Oh, surely there is some way of saving me without putting me in that terrible position. And it would be none the less humiliating because I am absolutely innocent. Oh, I could not bear it."

"Try to control yourself," Archenfield said. "I don't think that there is the slightest chance of anything of the sort happening. Very fortunately, Mr. Coventry came direct here, and told me his story. He was detained in Liverpool and only saw the inquest in the paper yesterday. Then, of course, he came back hot-foot to do what he could for you, and the only man who knows why he has returned is your own solicitor, Mr. Snow, who is not likely to say anything about it. Anyway, I have persuaded Mr. Coventry to say nothing for the present, and to make no attempt, in the circumstances, to see you. He wanted to very badly, of course; but he was quite reasonable, and he went back to Oxley feeling convinced that everything he has done is for the best. And so it is. The story of that garden interview of yours must never be public property. But, all the same, I wish you had told me."

"I wish I had now," Cecil said meekly. "Is there anything more you want to say to me?"

(To be continued.)

LABOUR COUNCIL.

A motion was carried at Thursday's meeting of the New South Wales Labour Council protesting against any attempt on the part of the Government to extend the operations of the War Precautions Act for any term beyond the period of the war. Also to protest against the continuance of the censorship.

LEGAL NOTICES.

BUSINESSES FOR SALE OR WANTED

FRUIT EVAPORATING FACTORY.

FOR SALE, an up-to-date Fruit and Vegetable Drying Factory, situated in the 'Entrecasteaux Channel at Kettering, Tasmania, in the centre of one of the best Apple-growing districts in the Island.

All Fuel (wood) for the furnaces, and case timber cut within 2 miles of the factory, which is built on a beautiful position, overlooking the bay and within ¼ mile of the Kettering jetty, at which steamers to and from Hobart call every day.

The output from March 4 to July 30 this season (1918) was 26,000 bushels of apples and 200 tons of vegetables. There are four (4) drying kilns and complete labour-saving machinery of the best pattern. Electric light is installed throughout and an eight (8) horse-power Garret steam engine supplies power.

This is one of the best propositions of its kind which has been offered to the public, the position being most favourable for future prospects, is in full working order and ready to start operations at a week's notice, and is well worth inspection.

PRICE, £4000, which sum includes a stable for three horses, cart shed, case material, drying shed, and packing shed, area of land about 4 to 5 acres, which amply allows for any future extension.

A manager's good cottage of 4 rooms, kitchen, and all offices, including a septic tank, water is also laid on throughout the factory and cottage.

The next season (1919) commences about the end of February.

For further particulars apply to the Manager, Evaporating Coy., Kettering, Tasmania.

IN the Will of WILLIAM JAMES BIRMINGHAM STANWAY, late of North Sydney (a member of the firm of STANWAY and SLACK, Auctioneers and Estate Agents), deceased.
Tenders are invited and will be received by the undersigned up till 11 a.m. Saturday morning, 14th December, 1918, for the purchase of the goodwill of the very old-established business of Stanway and Slack, Auctioneers, House, Land, and Insurance Agents, Milson's Point Ferry Wharf, North Sydney. The Office Furniture, Fittings, Safe, Typewriter, etc., to be taken at a valuation. The business is the oldest established of its kind in North Sydney district, and has a large clientele. Immediate possession will be given to the successful tenderer. A ten per cent. deposit must accompany each tender.
The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Full particulars and any information required can be obtained on personal application to Mr. Slack at the office, Milson's Point, or
T. W. GARRETT, Public Trustee.

WOMEN'S COLUMN.

PRESENTATION TO MRS. BRITTON.

A presentation was made at the Queen Victoria Club yesterday afternoon to Mrs. Britton, who has been for many years associated with journalism in New South Wales and in other States. Mrs. Vincent McAuley and Mrs. Adolph Hyman, organisers, acted as hostesses. The presentation, consisting of an autograph album, cheque, and a bouquet of bouvardia, was made by Mrs. W. Holman, who spoke of the years of service that Mrs. Britton had given in the furtherance of the many things of public interest. Mrs. Rutter and Mrs. Trefle also gave brief addresses. A musical programme was arranged, to which the following well-known artists contributed: Mrs. Allard, Mrs. McLaren, Mrs. Ralston, Misses Lillian Dawson, Pattie Russell, Winifred Elphick, May Summerbelle, Leah Myers, Messrs. Victor Holland and Trevor Jones. A quartette party was composed of the Misses Hogarth, Gannon, Youdale, and Hodgson. Miss McDonald and Miss Herbert acted as accompanists.

Mrs. Britton is the mother of Mrs. Theodosia Wallace, a well-known Sydney journalist.

FROM NEAR AND FAR.

Lady Helen Munro Ferguson will open "The Big Carnival" organised by the Five Dock and Abbotsford Red Cross branches, to be held at Russell Lea, Lyons-road, Five Dock, on December 14. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used for the purchase of a motor car for invalid soldiers. A very attractive programme has been arranged, and includes sports and competitions of various descriptions. There will be a procession at 2 p.m., and prizes will be given for the best decorated trolly, one horse turnout, decorated motor car, fancy dress costume, and humorous costume. Mrs. Dutton is president, Mrs. McLean secretary, and Miss Croker treasurer of the branch.

A special meeting of the committee of the 13th and 45th Battalion Comforts Fund, Manning-chambers, will be held at the depot on Monday next, at 12 o'clock, to further arrangements for the re-union of officers and men that is to be held in the winter garden of the Wentworth Hotel on Tuesday, December 17. The military authorities have granted permission for the men to wear uniforms on that occasion. An interesting letter has been received by the secretary of the fund from Lieutenant Clive Fitzhardinge, transport officer of the 45th Battalion, in which he announced the arrival of a large consignment of foodstuffs. The committee is making an appeal for discarded toys to be sold at their jumble sale, and gifts of any description are useful for the same purpose. No one, unless they had visited the sale in the markets, would credit the demand that exists for articles which have even seen lengthy service. All sorts of dresses, boots, shoes, and house linen find ready buyers, and a great amount of money has been raised in this way. The 13th and 45th Battalion Comforts Fund were the originators of the scheme, which has since been adopted by several other comforts funds.

The stall conducted by Mrs. R. D. Meagher at the Town Hall on Jack's Day realised £164/1/. This makes a total amount of £4000 that has been collected from the Town Hall stalls on various patriotic occasions.

An honour board, carved in oak by Corporal Bronneke, a returned wounded soldier, will be on view at the Red Cross Hospital Handicrafts Exhibition, which will be opened at Camden-building, George-street, at 2.30 on Tuesday next. The board is intended for the Wagga Experiment Farm, and will be inscribed with the names of many well-known Australian lads. The soldiers have shown great ability in the carving of these honour rolls, and have already executed several important commissions.

The Red Cross Book Depot will be closed from December 20 until January 6.

A welcome home was tendered to the returned soldiers of Haberfield and surrounding districts on December 4, at the local picture theatre (kindly lent by the proprietor). The soldiers were each presented with an inscribed certificate. A special musical programme was contributed to by Misses Doreen Kennington, Lillian Mitchell, Dorothy Stewart, Madam Celechin, Baby Baxter, and Mr. Robert Baxter. Supper provided by the Repatriation and Red Cross Committees was served in the Haberfield School of Arts.

An entertainment was given by the "Blue Dragoons" (under the direction of Miss Claire Byrne) at the Town Hall, Hunter's Hill, recently, in aid of the War Chest Fund. An enjoyable programme was given by the company.

A meeting of the Joan of Arc Committee was held at the headquarters, 386 George-street, yesterday afternoon for the purpose of completing arrangements for the bazaar to be held in Sargent's ballroom, Market-street, on December 13. The president, Mrs. Montgomerie Severene was present. The committee has been sending circulars to all the Public schools, by permission of the Department of Public Instruction, in the hope that the teachers and pupils may co-operate in the work of providing Christmas treats for the widows and children of fallen soldiers.

Lady Anderson performed the opening ceremony at the Girls' Department Fair, held under the auspices of the Y.W.C.A., at the hall, Castlereagh-street, yesterday afternoon. Lady Anderson, who was presented with a bouquet of carnations, spoke most encouragingly to the girls, and congratulated them upon the success of their efforts. There were a number of stalls, each of which showed an artistic scheme of decoration. The fair will be continued on Saturday, when there will be at interesting physical culture display and various competitions in music and elocution.

A bazaar in aid of the Flying Corps Comforts Fund was opened by Mrs. Augustus James in St. James's Hall yesterday afternoon. Mrs. James said that she had always taken a great interest in the Australian Flying Corps, and her husband, too, was an enthusiast concerning this department of our national defence. The Australian airmen had distinguished themselves on the other side of the world, but it would not be until after the war was quite over that we would hear fully of all the wonderful things they had done. Mrs. James was presented by Miss Crawford with a bouquet of delphiniums in the battalion colours, pale blue, dark blue, and red. The stalls were conducted by the following:—Sweets, Mrs. Baxter, Mrs. Roy Smallwood; fancy, Miss Bassan and Miss Neeley; cakes, depot workers; produce, Mrs. James. A concert was held in the evening, and the programme included a hymn for the airmen, in which the audience joined. The stallholders wore an effective head-dress representing the Flying Corps badge.

A re-union of the officers and men of the 1st and 53rd Battalions was held at the Soldiers' Club last night. Mr. J. E. McShane welcomed the men on behalf of the Comforts Fund Committee. There was a large gathering of men, and several Anzacs were among the number. A spirited address was given by "Fighting Mac."—Chaplain Major McKenzie—who was once a member of the 1st Brigade. The Misses Cracknell, M'Shane, Huggett, Forth, and Mr. and Miss Cree contributed the musical programme. The office-bearers of the Comforts Fund, Mrs. Heane (president), Mrs. Glanville (hon. secretary), and Miss Ruby George (hon. treasurer), were among those present. Supper and cigarettes were served by a bevy of girls, who wore white frocks and black and green—battalion colours—aprons.

WEDDINGS.

On Thursday evening, October 3, 1918, at St. Stephen's Church, Phillip-street, the Rev. John Ferguson officiated at the marriage of Miss Ida A. Browne, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Browne, of Rhodes, and Mr. John J. W. James, third son of Mr. and Mrs. William James, of Summer Hill. The bride wore a frock of ivory crepe-de-chine and Georgette, embroidered with pale pink and silver, together with small sprays of orange blossoms. The tulle veil, kindly lent by Mrs. Reuben E. H. James, aunt of the bridegroom, was arranged over the face, and caught around the forehead with a tiny band of pale-pink velvet. The bridal posey was of white and pale pink carnations, surrounded by tulle. The bridesmaids were the Misses Maude and Marjorie Browne, sisters of the bride. The former wore a frock of sand-shade crepe-de-chine and Georgette, with a crownless rim hat of pink and sand-shade tulle, finished with tiny flowers and velvet bows. Miss Marjorie Browne's dress was of white voile, inlet with fine lace. Both carried poseys of pink sweet peas. Mr. H. D. Angwin attended the bridegroom. The guests were entertained at Sargent's rooms by the bride's mother, who wore a chocolate mole costume, with a hat of the same shade. Mr. and Mrs. James left for Katoomba and The Caves. The bride travelled in a navy costume and fawn hat.

SCHOOL EXHIBITION.

An exhibition of manual work done by the primary and kindergarten divisions of the Newtown North Public School was opened by Mr. P. Board, Director of Education, at Newtown, yesterday. The work displayed was of a high-class standard and reflected great credit on both teachers and pupils. The cane work, especially the seagrass work, was well executed. Bookbinding, cardboard work, and woodwork, in many branches, are included in the exhibits. The names of C. Maclean, Pearce, Flint, Butler, Patrick, Everingham, and Bienan are prominent among the exhibitors.

LAW REPORT.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and Jury.)

SALE OF A THOROUGHBRED.

Chisholm and another v Barry.

The parties in this case were Harry Chisholm and Kenneth Tuesdale Austin, trading as Chisholm and Co., plaintiffs, and Gerald J. Barry, solicitor, defendant. The plaintiffs claimed to recover a sum of £530/4/ in respect of the sale of a thoroughbred horse called Donore, and certain stabling and commission fees. The dispute arose in connection with a sale said to have been privately made by the defendant Barry to a purchaser named Seaton of the stud horse Donore, one of three blood horses placed in the hands of the plaintiffs by Barry for sale. The transaction was confirmed by Seaton to Austin, and thereupon a settlement by cheque was made for £575, less an amount of £47/6/, the difference being paid to the defendant. A few days later Seaton informed Austin that the stallion was defective and useless for stud purposes, and that he would have nothing to do with it. Defendant declined to take the stallion back, and refused to refund the money paid. The defendant, in amended pleas subject to verification by affidavit, alleged payment of £47/6/ before action, and as to the balance claimed to be never indebted. Mr. Broomfield (instructed by Messrs. Ernest Cohen and Linton) appeared for the plaintiffs and Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. H. H. Mason (instructed by Messrs. John Williamson and Sons) represented the defendant.

The jury by direction returned a verdict for the plaintiff for £47/6/.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and Jury.)

BREACH OF BUILDING CONTRACT.

Walder v Elder and another.

This was an action, in which John Walder, tent-manufacturer, of Sussex-street, Sydney, claimed damages amounting to £1000 for the non fulfilment, according to plans and specifications of a contract for the erection of business premises at 356-358 Elizabeth-street, city, the defendant being Charles Joseph Totterdell, trading as Elder and Totterdell, contractors. Although defences were pleaded to the plaintiff's declaration the defendant did not appear to support them, and the issue went to the jury for proof of the contract and breach, and for assessment of damages. The evidence put forward by the plaintiff was to the effect that the plans and specifications had been departed from in vital particulars, and that the building as handed over by the defendant was not only unfit for the purposes intended, but so unsafe as to be liable to condemnation by the City Building Surveyor. Mr. Bryan Fuller (instructed by Messrs. M'Elhone and Barnes) appeared for the plaintiff.

The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff for the amount claimed—£1000.

IN EQUITY.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

NEILSEN PARK RESUMPTION.

His Honor delivered reserved judgment in an action by the Watson's Bay and South Shore Ferry Company, Ltd., against the Minister for Lands (George Whitfield being nominal defendant) in respect of an allotment of 1 rood and 9 perches of land at Vaucluse, which, in 1908, the trustees of the estate of the late William Charles Wentworth agreed to sell to the old Watson's Bay and South Shore Ferry Company for the purposes of a wharf. A few years later a new limited company took over the assets and liabilities of the old company. In 1912 the Government resumed about 40 acres of land at Bottle and Glass Point, Shark Beach, and Shark Point, and also the allotment of 1 rood 9 perches mentioned, for a public recreation ground, now known as Neilsen Park. After certain negotiations between the Government and the Watson's Bay Company as to the resumption of the said allotment, the parties arrived at an agreement by which it was settled that the Minister for Lands should revoke the dedication so far as it affected the allotment, and offer this particular land for sale by auction. The sale was advertised for March 28, 1917, the land being described as lot 5 of the Bottle and Glass subdivision at Vaucluse. Before that date the Government told the company that the sale would not go on. The company thereupon instituted proceedings against the Government for alleged breach of agreement. The plaintiff company asked the Court to declare that the agreement in question should be specifically performed by the Crown, and also for an inquiry as to what damages the company was entitled to.

The defendant demurred to the statement of claim on the grounds that the Minister could not be compelled to carry out the agreement if for reasons which appeared to him sufficient he declined to do so, and that the making of such a contract was ultra vires, and, therefore, not enforceable, no matter how much it was in the public interest.

His Honor said that in his opinion both points were well grounded. It was in his opinion contrary to public policy that any executive or administrative powers of a Minister of the Crown should in this way be made the subject of a contract for value by which the Minister beforehand bound himself and his successors in office to exercise those powers, no matter how beneficial to the public such a contract might be. He thought, therefore, the contract was not enforceable on either ground.

The demurrer was upheld, and the suit dismissed with costs.

Mr. A. Knox, K.C., and Dr. Waddell, instructed by Messrs. Fisher and Macansh, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. F. J. Bethune and Mr. F. R. Jordan, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, for the defendant.

IN DIVORCE.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

The suit Pritchard v Pritchard is still part heard.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Edmunds.)

RE-CONSTITUTION OF INDUSTRIAL BOARDS.

As the term of the constitution of the industrial boards appointed under the old Arbitration Act, 1916, will expire on December 21, Mr. Justice Edmunds held a special sitting of the Court with a view to determining the procedure to be adopted for the continuance of the system of arbitration. Previously, most of the work of framing awards was performed by boards appointed in each industry, but since the amended Act has been in operation, the Industrial Court has been exercising the powers of the boards, and the board system is existing only in name. His Honor suggested that it should be a matter for consideration whether there should be a formal reconstruction of the boards, or whether the parties would prefer that no reconstruction should take place, leaving it to the Court at any time if it thought fit to constitute boards under special circumstances. Mr. Bavin, who appeared on behalf of several associations of employers, applied for an adjournment until next Thursday for the purpose of having the matter considered by the employers. No opposition was offered by the other parties. Mr. Croft represented the Federated Masters and Engineers' Association and other unions. A large number of secretaries of unions were also in attendance, and the appearances were taken, upon which the matter was adjourned until Thursday next.

(Before his Honor Judge Rolin.)

UNION FINED £100.

A summons to show cause why action should not be taken under the clauses of the Industrial Arbitration Act penalising an illegal strike brought the Federated Society of Makers and Repairers of Iron and Steel Boilers (New South Wales branch) before the Court. Mr. H. E. Manning (instructed by the Crown Solicitor) appeared for the Minister; and Mr. J. B. Moffatt for the respondent union, a plea of not guilty having been entered. It was stated that on September 27 last, representatives of the union waited upon the general manager of the Morts Dock, and Engineering Company's Works, Mr. J. P. Franki, at the works, intimating the existence of discontent among members of the union with regard to rates of pay. The matter was subsequently placed before the Ironworkers' Employers' Association, and a communication was sent to the union that an application was about to be made to the Court for a new award in the industry. After some further communications between the parties the union was informed on October 31, that an increase from 1s 7½d to 1s 9½d would be sanctioned. This was declined, the union declaring that nothing less than 1s 10½d an hour would be accepted, a previous claim having been made for 2s an hour. The association declined to pay this rate. On November 4, the men refused to do certain night and overtime work which they were ordered to do, although it was an established custom of the industry to work overtime and on night shifts.

His Honor, in a reserved decision, said that it was quite plain that this was a strike and an illegal strike, both because the industry was regulated by an award, and because no notice of intention to commence a strike was given. The consequence of the refusal of the men to work on night shift was that the repairing of certain ships, then in dock for repair, was considerably delayed, and if such refusal continued great delay must necessarily be caused in repairing ships, which was a great part of the business of the dock. Referring to the union's contention that the union itself did not authorise a strike, his Honor remarked that the most that could be said was that the secretary himself appeared to have endeavoured to restrain the men, but a meeting of the union called to consider the matter broke up in confusion, and various officers of the union—the vice-president and the shop delegate—seemed actually to have been parties to the strike. Again, as to whether or not there was a dispute on the question of overtime, there was no hint of that being the cause of the trouble. The strike came about solely because the men claimed higher wages, and struck to enforce the claim. The union would be fined £100 with £5 5s costs. His Honor intimated that if the strike continued it might be that the union would be liable to further penalties.

CLUB EMPLOYEES' AWARD.

An application by the Hotel, Club, and Restaurant Employees' Union for an award for club employees, which had been before the Court on various occasions previously, was dealt with by his Honor. When the matter was before Judge Curlewis on a former occasion a question arose as to whether there was power in the Court to make an award for a less sum than £3 per week, the living wage, as had been done under previous awards, allowance being made for board and lodging. It appeared doubtful that that power resided in the Court, but a recent amendment of the Arbitration Act passed by both Houses of Parliament, though not yet finally assented to, definitely confers the required authority. Pending the gazettal of the amended Act his Honor proceeded to deal with the claims and to indicate the terms of an award. Mr. Henwood appeared for the union, and Mr. Vero Read (Messrs. Norton, Smith, and Co.) for various clubs. Mr. Lawrence (Messrs. Lawrence and Son) appeared for certain bowling and golf clubs.

His Honor reduced the hours of female waitresses from 122 to 112, and of males to 114 hours per fortnight. Increases of wages were granted, ranging from 10/ to 15/ per week for male adult employees, and from 4/ to 6/ for females, pending the decision of the Board of Trade on the question of the living wage for adult female employees.

HOTEL EMPLOYEES' AWARD.

His Honor granted a variation of the Domestic Group, No. 1 (Hotels, etc., State) Board award, increasing the wages of employees to the living standard. Mr. Henwood appeared for the Hotel, Club, etc., Union; Mr. Vero Read (Messrs. Norton, Smith, and Co.) for certain residential hotels; and Mr. Shipway (Messrs. Shipway and Berne) for the United Licensed Victuallers' Association.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Scholes.)

WOMAN OFFENDER.

Martha Emily Kean, charged with breaking into and stealing a sum of money (£40) from the residence of Thomas Michael Fitzgerald, at Marrickville, on October 30, was found guilty, and sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment in Long Bay Reformatory. There were previous convictions.

MISSING MONEY.

Ellen Brown, married woman, of Paddington, was charged with having as a bailee stolen £158, the property of her brother-in-law. The Crown case was that the prosecutor, who was a seaman, gave the accused his money to mind for him, but owing to a disagreement in the house he (prosecutor) decided to quit, and asked the woman for his money. She alleged that she placed the money on a table in the house, and whilst she was outside the money disappeared.

The accused, for whom Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared, was acquitted by direction of the Judge. Mrs. Brown was discharged.

SENTENCES.

Joseph Amos Silver, who had pleaded guilty to receiving stolen property, was given 18 months' imprisonment.

Henry Archibald, for uttering a counterfeit coin, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

TWO MEN DISCHARGED.

Edward O'Brien and Frank Harvey, who had been charged with assaulting and robbing Rheinbold Kleinsmith, and who were found guilty of common assault on Thursday evening, were discharged, his Honor holding that the jury was not a competent authority to return such a verdict.

There will be bands daily, and free fireworks nightly, and a collection of war trophies has been secured, including a German aeroplane.

REAL ESTATE.

This was a rather slow week in the Real Estate market, that is as far as actual sales are concerned. It is drawing near to the close of the year, and this always makes a difference in the volume of business recorded for a week. The arrival and march through the city of the Anzacs on two days this week completely upset the indoor auctions arranged for those dates by several of the city firms. Such set-backs naturally aided to bring about so small a total.

Most of the leading firms, however, report a big inquiry for residential property, both large and small, specially in the Eastern suburbs, where houses are difficult to obtain.

Messrs. Raine and Horne had a busy week. They sold a residence at Pymble for £2250; also a residence at Strathfield, conjointly with E. C. V. Broughton and Co., for £2300; five acres at Botany for £600, two allotments at Northbridge at £2 per foot; one allotment, Dover Heights Estate, Rose Bay, at £2 per foot; and a block of land at Lidcombe for £150.

This firm will hold the last of its indoor sales of the year in their rooms on the 19th inst., when an interesting list of properties will come under the hammer.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman this week sold two allotments in the Mount Pleasant Estate at Cheltenham at £4 per foot (£280); one allotment, Hillview Estate, Homebush, at £3 per foot (£120); an allotment, Northumberland-street, Little Coogee, at £3/10/ per foot (£140); and one allotment, Wills' Estate, Cheltenham, at £4 per foot (£280).

At their weekly sale yesterday Messrs. Richardson and Wrench had a list of 30 properties to offer. Mr. Gregg occupied the rostrum. There were first of all 13 properties at Woolloomooloo. For these there was but little bidding, and they were passed in for private sale. Although none of the remaining properties on the list was sold, yet for several there was good competition. For a residence at Randwick £2600 was refused, and £2200 for four houses at Stanmore. An allotment at Manly was passed in at £6/3/9 per foot, but as this is just under the reserve a sale is likely. A cottage at Campsie was passed in at £900.

During the week this firm has sold by private contract 11 allotments in the Alanby Estate at Cabarita-Concord for £1470. This includes a cottage on the estate at £600. The price of the land ran from 30/ to £2/7/6 per foot. Also along with Barton and Ness the firm sold 11 allotments in the Lilydale Estate, Dulwich Hill, part of Graham's Estate, and fronting Graham's-avenue, for £1980; two allotments at Belmore at 32/ and 35/ per foot (£150); two allotments, Eastwood House Estate, third subdivision, at £2/10/ per foot (£300); and two lots Liberty Estate, Bundanoon, for £100.

Messrs. Stanton and Son report having sold the following properties during the week:—Brick cottage, Essendon, with frontage 50ft to Turner-avenue, Haberfield, £980; brick cottage, Inverlochy, with frontage of 45ft to Stanton-road, Haberfield, £1275; weatherboard cottage, having a frontage of 50ft to Blenheim-street, Enfield, £550; brick cottage, Liege, having a frontage of 40ft to Queen-street, Ashfield, £975; brick cottage Monteray, with a frontage of 50ft to Pine-street, Marrickville, £895.

Next Tuesday in the association rooms, Messrs. Stanton and Son will offer a variety of city and suburban properties. Their list includes Alcock's-buildings, corner of Barrack and York streets, city; a brick corner cottage in Albion-street, Annandale; brick house in Old Canterbury-road, Summer Hill; block of 16 flats, known as Kelburn Hall, Elizabeth Bay; cottages at Petersham and Elizabeth-street, city; building sites at Manly, Campsie, and Bankstown; and small cottages at Chatswood and Leichhardt.

Messrs. Hugh Duff and Co. (A. T. Carpenter) had a good attendance at their sale on Thursday last, when offers were made for several of the properties. £900 was refused for property at Newtown, £1600 was bid for residence at Bellevue Hill, £925 was offered for property at Haberfield, and £500 for a house at Petersham. A pair of cottages at Chatswood were sold for £700.

Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co., report a very satisfactory week. Apart from the successful auction sale of the preceding Saturday, the week's transactions were the best for the past three months. Inquiries for moderate priced land continue to be received. The Bankstown district was most in favour, a considerable portion being taken up, mostly in quarter-acre areas. At Bellevue Hill and Mortdale some choice blocks were sold. Woy Woy, Cronulla, and the Woronora River, were responsible for some of the best water frontages. Two new subdivisions, one at Picnic Point, George's River, and the other called Mandalong Farms, Morisset, will shortly be placed on the market for private sale.

Messrs. Leventhal Bros. report having sold the following properties:—Three houses, Nos. 25, 27, and 29 Fitzroy-street, Surry Hills, £2500; six cottages, Shakel-avenue, Little Coogee, £4860; cottage, Archer-street, Chatswood, £785; shop and dwelling, Canterbury-road, Belmore, £760; brick cottage, Godfrey-street, Belmore, £750.

A number of subdivision sales will take place to-day. These Saturday afternoon auctions have so far this season proved successful. Auctioneers during the war period have taken care to deal only with estates in progressive suburbs, which have direct communication with the city, thus buyers have been enabled at once to build homes for themselves. At the same time wild speculation in distant bush land has been avoided. There has been a good demand for one to five acre blocks, a few miles from Sydney, where small farmlets could be established.

Messrs. Raine and Horne will this afternoon offer farmlet blocks at Dee Why. It is an estate known as South Creek, and the blocks range in size from one to seven acres. The land is a mile and a half from the tram at Dee Why, via Fish-road, and is convenient to the surfing beach. The soil is rich black sandy loam. It is some of the best in that district for garden produce. There are orchard and poultry blocks, market garden sites, and flower and nursery areas. There has been an unusual big inquiry for these plans, and, as the terms have been made easy, the sale ought to prove successful.

Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co. have two sales fixed for to-day. One is the Parkview Estate at Roseville, where there are 32 excellent building allotments to select from.

The second sale by this firm this afternoon will be held at Auburn, where the Silver-Water Estate will come under the hammer. The land is immediately behind North Auburn Public School, and is handy to the busy industrial centres of Granville and Clyde. The terms have been made easy to enable working men to take up this land for home-building purposes.

Messrs. Piercy Ethell and Co. will conduct a sale to-day at Mittagong, when "Oaklands," known as Mr. Southey's Academy, will come under the hammer. This residence adjoins Tooth's malt works. It is built of stone, and has 21 rooms, bathrooms, kitchen, and outhouses. There is a fine water supply, with a large reservoir from the town water service. The land has 5½ acres, and fronts the main road, with a good frontage to the street at the rear. This could be used for building.

The Hillcrest Estate at Ashfield will come under the hammer this afternoon, when Messrs. J. A. Somerville will offer Hillcote, a cottage of 12 rooms, also Hillcrest and Rushine, two fine houses, and 18 superb building allotments.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench have three subdivision sales set down for this afternoon. One is at Kensington and South Randwick. This is a new suburb in the Randwick Municipality. The land fronts Bunnerong-road and the tramline. This is a choice residential estate in a healthy district, and ought to sell well. The second sale by the firm to-day is the Mowbray Park Estate, Ashfield North. This land comprises elevated sites in a good position.

The third sale is the Aussies Estate, between Chatswood and Willoughby. The land is on the route of the proposed tram extension to Roseville. It is less than a minute from the tram and 10 minutes from the Chatswood railway station.

This afternoon Stanton and Son, Ltd., will hold an auction sale of the Lakemba Heights Estate, Lakemba, having frontages to Remly and Walter streets. This land is near the Lakemba station, and the shopping centre. Easy terms have been arranged extending over five years.

SEND FOR ILLUSTRATED BOOKLET ON "GYPSBOARD."

Ask us now for this Booklet and a Sample of "Gypsboard" Monolithic Plaster Sheets. When you have compared the sample with that of any similar wallboard, you will quickly see why "Gypsboard" is being used in the majority of new buildings to-day.

"Gypsboard" leads because it leads in quality; it combines all the good points of other wallboards and many exclusive features. The highest quality of materials is embodied in its manufacture, combined with Monolithic Solidity and hard, pure white surface.

COMPARE RESULTS.
Every Poultry Farmer owes it to himself to inspect NEWTOWN COLONY BROODERS at work.
Look up your neighbours who have installed them, and find out from the actual users what an immense advance in brooding devices the "Newtown" Colony Brooder represents.
It may be too late to install them for this season, but you will have first-hand knowledge as to the advisability of scrapping your old, obsolete equipment, and installing "Newtowns" in plenty of time for the 1919 season.
Send for special literature.

RESULTS GUARANTEED.
The size of a chick at, say, 6 weeks of age, depends largely on the elements supplied in the food.
THORPE'S GROWING MASH with THORPE'S WEEK-OLD and EXTRA SPECIAL
CHICK FOOD
provides the proper balance of all the elements required, and makes chicks develop twice as fast as chicks fed on a purely cereal ration.
Thorpe's Foods are the standard Poultry Foods of Australia, and are sold in every State of the Commonwealth.
There is only one reason—they give results.

ON THE LAND.

IS THE EAGLE A PEST?

(BY W. M. SHERRIE.)

In the course of an article in this column on the Wedgetail eagle some time ago, the writer protested against the wanton slaughter of the greatest eagle in the world. The fine Golden eagle of Europe has been described as at once "the pride and the pest of the parish." But who ever heard of an Australian who was proud of his eagle, though it is something to be proud of? asks Dr. Leach. "Let our noble bird appear near a house and there is a rush for a gun." One or two correspondents have taken exception to the view that the eagle should be given any sort of protection, and have written to express the definite opinion that the bird is a serious pest on sheep runs, if nowhere else. Why, then, should it be protected? they ask. While it may be freely admitted that the eagle can—and, no doubt, does—become a pest in some parts of the country, the broad point to be determined is whether the good the bird does in an economic sense (to say nothing of the value we may attach to it on mere sentimental grounds) outweighs the harm it may do among stock. It is scarcely necessary to emphasise the point that the eagle, like some other species of birds, may be a nuisance in one district, and a useful ally of the primary producer in another, according to the circumstances, and the nature of the industries carried on there. Then, again, it must not be overlooked that the habits of the birds themselves may differ even when the environment is the same. As Mr. A. S. Le Souef (Director of the Sydney Zoological Gardens) says, "The eagle is a clever hunter, but individual birds vary in temperament. Some will go for the easy prey whenever it offers, a carcase of a lamb; others will keep to the native game, which has to be hunted and killed in a fight. These latter constitute the majority. Some birds become confirmed lamb-killers, just as we get man-eating tigers," etc.

Mr. Dudley Le Souef, C.M.Z.S., director of the Melbourne Zoological Gardens, has given much consideration to this question. "These splendid birds are often maligned without cause, therefore I thought that a few personal observations from those who are well known to us, and on whose word we can rely, will be of value." With these words of introduction Mr. Le Souef recently published a paper containing a number of notes from men who have had years of experience of eagles, and who are entitled to speak with authority on this subject. A few of these notes may be reproduced:—Mr. E. R. Caldwell, Gilgi, Pampas, N.S.W., although accustomed to these birds, and also sheep, all his life, says he has never known them to kill a lamb. He has also spoken to many people in his district, and they all say the eagle does far more good than harm in killing rabbits. He has known many hares to be killed by eagles. Mr. T. P. Austin, Cobborah Estate, Cobbora, N.S.W.: "I have never known of a single lamb being killed by eagles. There are always a fair number of the birds about here, but they do good by killing rabbits. I have examined scores of their nests, but have never found the remains of a lamb in them. The other day I found an eagle's nest containing one young bird. There were half a dozen dead rabbits in the nest." Mr. R. A. D. Hood, Hexham, Victoria: "I have seen an eagle attack a lamb and be driven off by the mother. I do not think that, as a rule, they ever attack strong lambs, but may kill weak ones left behind by the mothers." Mr. G. L. Dennis, Terang, Victoria: "Our experience is that eagles are comparatively clean feeders, and prefer to kill their prey, though, if hungry, they will eat freshly killed carcases. We have seen eagles chasing hares." Mr. A. C. V. Bligh, Condamine Plains, Queensland: "Very few really attack the living lambs; they mostly prefer to take dead ones, though I have seen an eagle catch a live lamb."

It should be understood that these references are to the wedge-tailed eagle only. Some other correspondents mentioned having seen these birds also attack opossums, native bears, wallabies, rats, and kangaroo-rats, as well as curlews and jackasses (giant kingfisher). Writing of a district where there were no hares or rabbits, Mr. T. Carter said: "Wedge-tailed eagles have been seen in pairs hunting grey kangaroo in my paddock, at Broome Hill, until the kangaroo was exhausted, killed, and eaten. I have known an old ewe to be killed and eaten by them, also lambs. I once found a freshly killed domestic cat, gone wild, laid on the nest of this species, alongside the egg—no doubt as food for the sitting bird. One of my neighbours shot a large eagle in the act of attacking turkeys. It had apparently killed some of the brood. I once saw a three-quarter grown male kangaroo bailed up in a corner of a paddock by a pair of eagles." Evidence was furnished that the whistling eagle (Haliastur sphenurus) occasionally kills poultry, and that the brown hawk (Hieracidea berigora) subsists mainly on mice, lizards, and small birds.

Commenting on the mass of information acquired in this way Mr. D. Le Souef says: "My own experiences in birds of prey are similar to those of my friends cited above. Some of these birds are often accused of killing carrier or homing pigeons, but the harriers, the kites, and the brown hawks could not catch these fast-travelling birds, nor could the whistling or little eagle, but a falcon or a goshawk possibly could. Regarding eagles killing lambs, I have personally never seen it, and have met with very few who have. Regarding birds of prey and their food it is interesting to note how the Egyptians valued these birds, especially the kestrel hawk, so much so that they made it sacred, Horus being their hawk-headed god, and that deity was usually very prominent. When one remembers the utility of these birds to the Egyptians when they were attacked by the locust plague, their value can be well realised. They and the ibis (also sacred) were mummified. We know the value of the kestrels in our own country, but do not take the trouble to preserve them, as did the Egyptians."

THE WOOL TRADE.

APPROACHING THE RECESS.

Appraisements have been proceeding uninterruptedly in Sydney since the armistice celebrations, and the concluding catalogues for the first half of the current season will be valued on Thursday next. The eighth round commenced yesterday, and upon its completion some 324,000 bales will have been catalogued; and all but the wools now being offered paid for, less the 10 per cent. deducted for adjustment at the close of the statistical year. Since the appraising season opened there has been no difficulty in filling the catalogues; the almost uninterrupted shearing, through the dry season; the unobstructed carriage of wools on the railways, and the finding of storage room for consignments no matter how heavy the arrivals, have assured offerings far in excess of the quantity that could be dealt with before the close of the first half-year. Since July 1 no fewer than 616,772 bales have been received by rail and boat, an increase of 147,326 bales, compared to the corresponding period last year. In addition to that quantity going into store, there have been the skin wools by road from the local fellmongery works. It can thus be seen that rather more than half of the wools available have been appraised, and there is every probability that by the opening of the new year there will be fully another 324,000 bales to take their due turn in the catalogues.

The wools now being submitted, in addition to clips from the west and north-west, include wools from the later shearing districts. Fewer Riverina wools are coming forward, while a sprinkling is appearing from New England and the southern tablelands. A considerable proportion of the offerings reflect the adverse pastoral conditions that have prevailed over the greater part of the State during the growing season. Many clips are more or less burry, carrying dust, and not so well grown as usual. In spite of the season, and many wools being less bulky, a number of well-known brands during the week have secured from 23d to 26½d per lb for the leading fleece lots of merino in the grease. The DVS over Puen Buen, from Scone, went to that top figure for 10 bales, and to 25½d for 25 bales; the WWW over Belltrees, from Scone, the TF over P from Old Junee, the WLH over Waterfall, from Singleton, to 25½d, the Ravensworth, from Singleton, to 24½d, and the Wantabadgery over Claude Macdonald, from Wagga, are cases in point. Secured wools have appeared in only moderate quantities; and as many of the sheep now being slaughtered are shorn and carry short wool pelts, the skin wools are not so important now as they were earlier in the appraising season. The local scouring works are only lightly employed, treating wools for the Government; but they hope to receive larger quantities in the near future. Among the important brands priced during the last and current round of appraisements were the following:—

ROYAL SHOW FILMED.

The Town Hall was crowded yesterday afternoon with school children, when, by arrangement with the Minister for Education, the moving pictures illustrating the system of bulk handling of wheat and the utilisation of water power in Canada, were screened. Some excellent films showing scenes at the Sydney Royal Show were also shown, including pictures of the crowd visiting the show, the cattle being judged, the jumping and grand parade, and exhibits in the Agricultural Hall. The pictures were very clear, and will prove a fine advertisement, not only for the Royal Show, but for Australia from an agricultural standpoint. Pictures were also shown of the yearling sales at Randwick, and the finish of the Sydney Cup.

STUD RAM PRINCE CHARLIE.

The delivery of the stud ram Prince Charlie, bred by the executors of the late F. E. Body, Bundemar, Trangie, and sold last July at the stud sheep sales to Mr. Maurice Collins, of Mallett, South Australia, for 3000 guineas, has just been completed in terms of the sale contract. The ram passed through Sydney a few days ago for his future home in South Australia.

BROWN.—In loving memory of our only son and brother, Private W. E. C. Brown (Mick), died of tetanus in France, December 7, 1916, aged 19 years.
When alone in my sorrow the bitter tears flow,
There stealeth a dream of the dear long ago,
And unknown to this world he stands by my side,
And whispers these words, "Death cannot divide."
Inserted by his loving father, mother, also sister, Isabel, 81 Flood-street, Leichhardt.

BROWN.—In loving memory of our dear cousin, Private W. E. C. Brown (Mick), died of tetanus in France, December 7, 1916, aged 19 years. Grand life nobly ended. Inserted by his loving cousins, Florrie and Jack Peters.

BROWN.—In loving memory of our dear brother and uncle, Private W. E. C. Brown (Mick), died of tetanus in France, December 7, 1916, aged 19 years.
You are not forgotten, Mick dear,
Nor will you ever be;
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.
Inserted by his loving sister and brother-in-law, Dot and Bert Froggart (on active service), also nieces, Eileen and Ethel.

BROWN.—In loving memory of our dear nephew and cousin, Private W. E. C. Brown (Mick), died of tetanus in France, December 7, 1916, aged 19 years.
He gave his life, but not in vain.
Inserted by his uncles and aunts, Alf. and Sis Grant, Ethel and Leslie Petersen, also cousins, Lily, Will, Leslie, Leonard, and Ambee.

CANNON.—In loving memory of Reginald George Cannon, killed in action in France, December 6, 1917, eldest son of George H. and Eleanor E., and brother of Fred. and Will (O.A.S.), Belmont-road, Mosman.

CARSON.—In loving memory of my only son, Pte. James Carson, 45th Batt., killed in action at Pozieres (France), August 6, 1916. Would have been 21 years old to-day. Inserted by his loving mother, of Vicar-street, Coogee.

CLARKE.—In loving memory of my dear son and our brother, Sgt. Thomas Patrick (Jack), died in Wandsworth Hospital, London, December 8, 1916, of pneumonia, aged 19 years and 11 months. Inserted by his sorrowing mother, sisters, and brother, Eva, Wynie, Nella, Leonard, Agnes, and Reggie. An Anzac. R.I.P.

HICKS.—In ever-loving memory of my only son, William Herbert (Bert), aged 25 years, died of bronchial-pneumonia, France, December 8, 1916, late 1st and 53rd Batt. An Anzac.

HILLIARD.—In fond memory of our dear son and brother, Lance-corporal Leonard C. Hilliard, who was killed in action, France, December 6, 1916, aged 20 years.

NEIGHBOUR.—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Private F. J. Neighbour, who departed this life December 8, 1915.
May his dear soul rest in peace.
Inserted by his loving mother, father, and sisters, Ruby and Minnie.

ROWLEY.—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Private George Rowley, late of 1st Battalion, died of wounds received at Gallipoli, December 7, 1915. An Anzac. Inserted by his loving parents, brothers, Bob and Arthur (on active service), also sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Rowley, 30 Kepos-street, Redfern.

SIMPSON.—In loving memory of our dear nephew and cousin, Private J. V. Simpson, died of illness, December 8, 1917, in Birmingham Hospital. In a distant grave he is sleeping. Inserted by his loving aunt and uncle, E. and T. Lenton, and cousins.

LITERATURE AND THE WAR.

The tide of time flowed back with many among us when we read this week of the death of Edmond Rostand. He was not a great poet or a great dramatist, but he wrote some most delightful lyrics, and one of his heroes was more frequently quoted and discussed than any other personage of the modern stage. Hercule Savinien de Cyrano de Bergerac, philosopher and metaphysician, rhymer, fighter, and musician, great master of cut and thrust, was everything and was nothing. He was the most accomplished swashbuckler of his age, and its readiest poet. Yet he could only make rhymes for a feebler comrade because of the inordinate size of his nose. Rostand says that no other man could have shown Cyrano to the world but Coquelin, the greatest actor of his days. Yet the play was quoted by thousands who had never seen it. The nose was everywhere. Every undergraduate talked of his "panache" before he knew what "panache" meant. The cadets of Gascony became the type of gallant swaggering comrades to everyone who, like Stevenson, preferred, or thought he would have preferred, to lead a troop of moss-troopers on a border foray than to have written the most famous books. The play cannot be explained as a highly successful costume drama, leavened by an appearance of sentiment and philosophy and pathos. It had the appeal of the legends of the French and British wars when war was a sport for gentlemen, and it was a mark of good breeding to let the other side begin the battle. M. Rostand wrote many other plays that were a delight to read and to see, a Romeo and Juliet for children, a version of the legend which Browning had put into verse in Rudel and the Lady of Tripoli, L'Aiglon the drama of the glory and suffering of the Napoleonic wars, and Chanticler, the famous personification of the farmyard. Rostand, in his later plays, was served by great actors and actresses, and aroused great excitement; but nothing he wrote ever had the vogue of Cyrano de Bergerac. His death at the end of the greatest of all wars will cause many people to ask themselves an old question. Is literature, or is painting, capable of describing war as it is under modern conditions? Is it necessary to gild the facts with a romance which the soldiers never knew, or is the alternative bare realistic descriptions of life at the front, with as little of the selection and the arrangement of art as possible? There is a good deal in favour of the view that the war is beyond the pen of any writer. The soldier has been through an experience which he cannot communicate. He has lived in a world to which civilians cannot be admitted. He would find it far easier to talk about his experiences to an enemy than to a friend who has not been to the war. Such a state of mind imposes on an Englishman a degree of reticence which prevents him from writing seriously at all. It induces a Frenchman to express his utter detestation of the shows of military glory and his contempt for the distinguished citizens who visit the front to see what is going on, or for any other purpose but to sacrifice their lives. The most famous of French books on the war, M. Barbusse's "Under Fire," chronicles not the heroism of the battle, but the filth and the boredom of life in the trenches. French writers seem to have the object which is served by their Government in publishing details of German atrocities. Future generations will do as they please. They will not be guided by the advice of experience. But if they go to war they will know what they are doing. If they face the German without preparation they will know beforehand how this civilised beast destroyed their homes and ravaged their towns in the time of their fathers.

By a strange coincidence a French writer has recently published his picture of a visit by Cyrano to the scene of a modern battle. A soldier is found in the trenches near Arras repeating to himself Rostand's presentation of the Cadets of Gascony, and wondering what the hero might think of these cadets of France. He is answered by Cyrano's appearance, and by a panegyric on the soldiers, and their services to France, which is greater than anything in the play. The new Cyrano is killed by a German bullet, happy that his death has served France and not himself alone. The play makes us wonder why any of the old legends should survive when the most heroic of them is less impressive than dozens of the episodes of this war; why we should remember the feats of the Spartans or the Athenians or the Light Brigade when we can set beside them Lone Pine or the first battle of Ypres or Pozieres or the siege of Fort Vaux or any other episode of the battle of Verdun. One answer, no doubt, is that the Greeks had their poets and we have not. There were many brave men before Agamemnon, but Homer has made Agamemnon immortal. But that answer is incomplete. Immortal thoughts have been uttered in this war, not in descriptions of heroism, but in letters home, in thoughts of family life and of patriotism. In this war, to the everlasting glory of his craft, the man of letters has fought as readily and as heroically as the trained athlete. In the British and French armies men have perished for whose loss no compensation can be imagined. There will be no young men to write of what this lost generation has done. No pictures will create in our minds an impression of the scene in which for four years so many of our brothers have lived. Great literature is emotion remembered in tranquillity. Nothing will be written except novels or poems with a purpose until great minds have to some extent freed themselves from the impression of the hours in which they have lived. There remain some letters and some scenes of British and French life written by men and women who loved their country and would gladly have died for it if they had been chosen. They will survive when many ephemeral successes have perished. Novels and verses have served a good purpose by exhortation or by denunciation or by expressing a passing national mood. But they will have the same fate as many books which stirred opinion in their day and are no longer read, which made the breach through which others have passed into the citadel. Immortal literature must have a universal element. It must fit the heroism of all ages as the verses of Ecclesiastes have been found to fit the heroism of to-day. It must have form, whether it appears in the lament of the Iliad, in the epigrams of the Greek anthology, or in the sonnets of Rupert Brooke. Finally it must have the power to heal and to sustain. Nurse Cavell gave the motto to men of letters when she said that patriotism is not enough. Literature must have a power to broaden the mind so that it understands everything. We think of M. Clemenceau going on his visit to the army with a copy of the Greek anthology in his pocket and then of his speech to the Senate saying that France would use her victory with a generosity worthy of the heroism and endurance of her sons.

WASTING OUR INHERITANCE.

The Australian, like many who have received a splendid inheritance, has sometimes proved himself a spendthrift legatee. His possessions are so vast, nature offers him bounty so illimitable, that he sees no reason to "economise" in his resources. They are his to command; they will last out his time—that is his careless motto. It is a dangerous motto in little things as well as great, and already we are beginning to realise its fallacy. For instance, recent correspondence in these columns has shown that in the last few years the wild flowers which used to bloom so plenteously around Sydney have received a sentence of death from the activities of indiscriminating pickers, and that their only hope of reprieve lies in some measure of protection. A small thing, perhaps, but a symptom of our improvidence in dealing with a country which we love but do not yet entirely understand. And is it, after all, such a small thing? Can we afford to lose anything that nature has left to compensate for the inevitable ugliness of modern industrial progress? When the wild flowers go it is a sure sign that the tentacles of the city are clutching further and further, regardless of what they destroy. One does not need to be middle-aged to remember when Sydney had its annual wild flower show, which put the efforts of the home-gardener to shame. It seems almost yesterday when, in spring and early summer, the bush around Sydney was glorious with colour. French's Forest, the heights of Sutherland and Kuring-gai, the lower slopes of the Blue Mountains, were ablaze with bloom. That was the Arcadian age, when those who wanted wild flowers went and picked them, took no more than they needed, and returned home after a happy day. But now the supply of wild flowers has become an organised industry carried out with little regard for the future; the picnicker now pulls out by the roots where once he would have culled a few blossoms, and between the two we shall soon have nothing left of what was once the pride of Sydney and the grace of its environs. One correspondent has suggested that the sale of wild flowers be prohibited altogether; another, that a close season be declared for certain varieties in alternate years, so that they can recover from depredations. The latter proposal seems reasonable; we protect our native birds and beasts when they are in danger of extinction; why should we refuse similar protection to our native flowers? Another correspondent thinks that the war could well be made a means of conserving and multiplying the shrubs which provide so much pleasure with their blossoms in our spring and summer. Why not honour the soldiers who have fallen by planting avenues to their memory and linking up public feeling with a public duty? Otherwise the education of children as to the place and value of our native flora could be continued in connection with flower conservation as a tribute to the heroic dead. Already one side of this work has been begun at Brisbane Water, as a letter from the secretary of the local association explains elsewhere in this issue.

The loss of our native flora and fauna may be of sentimental and esthetic rather than practical value, but it is an example of our general lack of providence. We have used the lavish gifts of Nature with little foresight, and we are now beginning to feel a belated repentance. Our only excuse is that we did not fully understand the new husbandry which Australian conditions require. A generation ago the western runs were heavily overstocked, and they are only now recovering from the lesson they subsequently learned; the men of those days made precisely the same mistake as those who to-day pull every blossom off the wild flower with the hope of immediate profit. The timber reserves of this State afford another instance of our unintentional thriftlessness. Evidence before the Interstate Commission recently showed that the end of certain supplies is actually in sight; a few years more and the forests will be "cut out." Yet it is not so long ago since we boasted of our "boundless" resources of timber. Where has it all gone to? Much of it went up in smoke when the hardy pioneer burned it to make room for his house and his fields. We cannot blame the pioneer; he had no alternative, though he must often regret the days when he made a bonfire of logs which would now fetch a small fortune; we cannot even blame the Government for lack of foresight, though now it has to pay a vicarious penalty in the shape of an expensive system of afforestation. We have recognised too late that it is very easy to destroy, but very hard to build up again; and this experience is not confined to Australia. Every new country has had to make the discovery on its own account; pioneering is a wasteful and empirical business, and what one generation has undone the next has often painfully to repair. In America large tracts of country cleared by one over-enthusiastic generation have had to be re-planted by another which has learned that this wholesale demolition has spoiled the land. In older countries, where they have long since known that it takes much less time to cut a tree down than to grow one, they have adopted strict forestry laws and reduced afforestation to a fine art and an exact science; we are only beginning to follow their example. It is the same in everything; Nature has been prodigal and we have been doubly prodigal. In our forests and fisheries, in the protection of our fauna and our flora, in the care of our pastures, we have been too prone to allow everyone to do his own sweet will, regardless of the future. And now, through our laches, we have to face consequences which a little knowledge and foresight would have avoided.

LAND FOR SOLDIERS.

STATE EFFORTS.

OVER 2000 HOLDINGS NEXT YEAR.

Mr. Ashford, dealing with repatriation yesterday, said:—

"At the present time 1000 returned soldiers are upon living areas, 526 are on Crown lands, and 474 on resumed areas. A sum of £1,704,000 has been spent in placing these men and effecting the organisation necessary. These results have been obtained by utilising to the fullest extent possible the Crown lands of the State, and carrying out a comparatively vigorous policy of resumption; keeping in mind the fact that the last men to return to Australia must have the same opportunities as are available to the first.

"At the time the armistice was signed I was in a position to say that approximately 2000 farms could be made available during the forthcoming year. Definite data have been obtained as to the areas of Crown lands which will be made available in the 12 land districts of the State, and within a month a statement will be made as to each area which will be made available in the different land boards districts. The same will apply to the Western Division, and applicants will be afforded information with regard to lands in their districts six months prior to the land being available. The work of resumption, etc., will be expedited, and reliable information will also be available in this connection.

"I am in a position to-day to say that the estimate to place 2000 returned soldiers on the land during the coming year will be considerably exceeded, provided qualified applicants are available. In what may appear the three main avenues of production there are limitations not only from financial considerations, but the aptitude of the settler and the amount of stock, etc., available to him. In grazing, it is recognised that there can be but a very limited increase unless by enormous expenditure, which outlay would probably increase productivity but little, and simply mean the transferring of stock from one individual to another. In dairying, the limitations are even greater, being governed not only by the number of cows and heifers, but also by their value as a milking herd. In lands for wheat-growing only, we all realise unfortunately, the uncertainty which to-day exists unless the areas can be utilised for mixed farming purposes also. To this latter class of agriculture returned soldiers are being successfully directed.

"It has been decided that during the forthcoming year the increase which will take place in the settlement of returned soldiers on the land will be on the basis of 300 poultry farmers in the Counties of Cumberland and Northumberland (the largest centres of population); 250 in tropical fruit-growing, 150 market gardening, 150 prune-growing, 250 hog-raising. In addition to these, 350 men will be established in other avenues which, from investigation, appear to show profitable results. Allowing that there may not be suitable applicants for the different classes of agriculture, an estimate of 3500 settlers for the year could probably be made. A brief review of the amount of settlement which has previously taken place in this State might be calculated at 60,000 living areas in 60 odd years. This will show the enormous task which the State has undertaken.

"The efforts of the department must necessarily be centred upon work entirely unknown prior to the establishment of the Returned Soldiers' Settlement Branch. If criticism of a constructive nature is brought to bear, it will probably have beneficial results, although the type of criticism that such and such a thing is unsuitable is entirely useless and without foundation, as experience has shown that all classes of land are to-day sought by men of considerable experience. I have no doubt as to the advantages of inducing settlement on small areas, owing to the better social conditions and education possibilities which will arise. The desire for grazing areas in sparsely populated centres, however, must not be overlooked, as it is being demonstrated to-day that the returned soldiers who make application for such lands are justifying their selection of the blocks they occupy."

DIRECTOR OF QUARANTINE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Director of Quarantine, Dr. Cumpston, left Melbourne for Sydney to-day.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION.

ITS PRACTICAL WORKING.

THE TASMANIAN EXAMPLE.

A close study of the official "Report on the General Election, March 25, 1916," will give a fair and almost accurate idea of the practical working of the Hare-Clark system of election in Tasmania. It must, however, be read with some necessary reservations—evident in the light of certain facts—with a recognition that official reports deal with party politics only in their broad aspect. In other words, the official report can give the effect on political parties so far as their relation to one another is concerned, but it takes no cognisance of the internal affairs of either party as affected by the method of election.

Tasmania is divided into five electoral districts, each returning six members to the House of Assembly. In each district the quota is fixed by the number of valid votes recorded, so that the number required to return a member in one district is different from that required in another. In the 1916 election the quotas for the districts were:—Bass 2250, Darwin 1928, Denison 2428, Franklin 2191, Wilmot 1850. Consequently, while any one of the six members for Denison represented 2428 votes, any one of the six members for Wilmot represented 1850 votes. This inequality has given rise to a demand for a uniform quota, which would give a kind of good boy prize in the shape of an extra member to the district which records most votes. It is not necessary here to discuss the matter by our pointing out that such a system implies the principle that the representative strength of a district in the House of Assembly should depend on the number of voters—not on the number of electors or the total population. However, it happened that the net result came out quite correct, and in accordance with the proportionate voting strength of the two parties, Liberal and Labour, and the effective votes given to the one Independent who was elected. This last requires some explanation, which does not appear in the report, but which has an important bearing on the system in its working. In saying that "it happened" that the total number of members elected for each party was in proportion to the number of votes given for each party it must be understood that, with the same totals, the result might have been very different. After allowing for 3019 votes which became "exhausted" through the preferences not being marked to the full limit, there were finally 71,495 effective votes, of which 36,298 went to the Liberals, 33,300 to Labour, and 1897 to the one Independent, Mr. Whitsitt. Consequently the correct distribution of party members in a House of 30 was: Liberal 15, Labour 14, Independent 1—this is exactly what happened, so that the system worked out right. But, going more fully into details, it is seen that in Bass Labour had a majority of 1727, and yet could not get a fourth member, three being returned for each party. In Darwin, according to the official return, the Liberals had a majority of 46 over Labour, and yet only got in two members to Labour's three, the other seat going to the Independent. As a matter of fact, although officially correct, this is actually wrong, because it was the transfer of 65 Labour votes to Mr. Whitsitt which gained him his seat; otherwise it would have gone to a Liberal. The explanation is that the Labour party, knowing it would not get four seats, gave instructions that all fifth preferences should go to Mr. Whitsitt, whom it preferred to a dependable Liberal. In Denison the Liberals had a majority of 1440, and yet could only obtain three out of six seats. In Franklin the Liberals had a majority of 1161, and again had only three seats. In Wilmot the Liberals had a majority of 2291, and they were able to get four seats out of the six. It will be seen that, with the same totals, a slightly smaller Liberal majority in Denison, and a correspondingly larger one in Darwin, would have made the total results: Liberal 16, Labour 13, Independent 1, which would not have been according to the proportions of total votes. Obviously, the larger the number of districts concerned the greater is the chance of the scheme going awry; and indeed Hare intended it to apply to the whole country as one electorate.

The matter of by-elections is one of great importance at the present time. Owing to the resignation of members to contest seats at the last Federal election, and their failure to get back their seats, there are only 10 Labour members, although, on the results of the last general election, there should be 14. Much more serious was the effect of the death, late in 1913, of Sir George Davies, one of the Liberal members for Denison. The by-election resulted in the return of a Labour member, and this, with the revolt of Mr. Whitsitt, put the Liberal Government out of office, and kept a Labour Government in until the election of 1916. This uncertainty has been cured by an amendment of the Electoral Act, which provides that in case of the death or retirement of a member the candidate of his party next in the list at the preceding general election shall automatically come into the seat. Provision is made also that, if a State member resigns his seat to contest a Federal election, his place is to be kept warm until the result is known, when, if defeated, he may resume his place in the State House. These methods, while not without their defects, at any rate, tend to prevent a by-election result upsetting the delicate balance obtained by a general election under the Hare system.

From the point of view of practical politics, perhaps more interest attaches to the internal effects upon parties. The position in Tasmania has been that in Bass, Darwin, and Denison, neither side had a chance of getting in more than three members. In Franklin there has been a chance of the Liberals getting four seats and Labour two; but a greater probability of an equal division. In Wilmot it has been predetermined that the Liberals would have four seats and Labour two. In every case each party ran more candidates than it could return, and consequently the fight was not between candidates of the opposing parties, but between rival candidates of the same party. For example, in Denison each side, knowing it could not by any chance win more than three seats, ran, or allowed to run, perhaps five or six. The Liberal candidates knew that nothing they could say or do could reduce the number of Labour members below three, and consequently set themselves to work to beat, not the Labour candidates, but the other Liberals. The same thing applied on the side of Labour. The results have been most serious in creating an immense amount of ill-feeling developing into open hostility between members. This applies equally to both sides. All kinds of devices are used to mislead electors, the favourite one being the suggestion that some candidate does not need Number One votes as he is already sure of election, but that another, being weaker, needs all he can get. This practice has led to some amazing results. Men who, if voting had been, as the system provided, according to preference, would have topped the poll have failed altogether of election; while those who were looked upon as very shaky, have obtained handsome majorities. There is an astonishing amount of bitter ill-will between members of the present House of Assembly sitting on the same side, and most of it finds its origin in election quarrels.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson, accompanied by Lady Doris Blackwood, and attended by Captain the Hon. C. D. Fitzclarence, Knightley, Military Secretary, Captain the Hon. B. Clifford, Private Secretary, and Captain C.R. Duncan, A.D.C., will arrive in Sydney by the express from Melbourne this morning.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, attended by Captain Stanham, paid a visit to Randwick Military Hospital yesterday morning.

Yesterday afternoon his Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson and the Misses Davidson were present at a matinee given by Mr. Hugh Ward to returned Anzacs and their families at Her Majesty's Theatre.

At the annual meeting of the Rose Bay and Watson's Bay Starr-Bowkett Building Society it was decided to present the secretary, Mr. Robert Gillies, with an illuminated testimonial in recognition of his services since the formation of the society.

Mr. C. B. Nicholson, manager of the Karikana plantations at Kulambangra, in the Solomon Islands, and his wife are returning to the islands by the Mindini to-day.

Captain A. W. Gregory, one of the first of the Australian aviators, will return to Sydney from England in about three weeks' time.

The Rev. E. Moore, general secretary of the Sydney City Mission, who has been on a holiday in America for six months, is returning by the steamer Makura, and is expected to arrive in Sydney at the end of this month.

Mr. Hugh J. Ward presided at a farewell dinner at the Hotel Australia last night in honour of Mr. Claude M'Kay on the occasion of his leaving the firm of J. C. Williamson, Ltd.

Mrs. R. J. Poore, of Crown-street, has received official notification that her husband has been promoted to the rank of captain. He is an original Anzac, and has been awarded the Military Cross.

LASTING PEACE.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S IDEALS.

SACRIFICES ASKED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.

Message... n correspondents on board the George Washington state that President Wilson has intimated definitely to his entourage that it is his intention when in France to make plain his proposal that all nations should come to the Peace Conference prepared to make sacrifices for a lasting peace, and that armed domination by any one nation cease.

The correspondent of the United ... aboard the President's ship says there ... every indication that the President will declare for a reduction of armaments on land and sea, and that no one sea power can be supreme.

President Wilson has nominated Mr. Glass a member of the House of Representatives for Virginia, successor to Mr. McAdoo, as Secretary to the Treasury.

The Foreign Affairs Committee of the Senate has unanimously disapproved of Senator Cummins's resolution to despatch a committee from the Senate to the peace conference.

BRITISH PEACE POLICY.

TO DEMAND JUSTICE.

MINISTERS' STATEMENTS.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Lloyd George), in a statement of policy, says: "The Kaiser must be prosecuted. He is responsible for deliberately provoking the war, and for the invasion of Belgium. The body of British jurists, whom the Crown Law Officers consulted, unanimously recommended the Kaiser's accomplices, "also submariners, and maltreaters of war prisoners, ought to be tried under international law. The Government at the Peace Conference will press for the execution of justice.

"The Allies are constituting a commission of experts to ascertain the best means of compelling the Central Powers to discharge the cost of the war."

IMPERIAL PREFERENCE.

Mr. Walter Long (Secretary of State for the Colonies), speaking at Trowbridge, rejoiced as Colonial Secretary that Imperial preference had been extended to the Dominions without conditions. To those opposing preference he asked were they not going to make the Empire a reality. It was surely better to get the uttermost from the Empire than to rely on foreign countries.

TO END CONSCRIPTION.

Mr. Churchill, in a speech at Dundee tonight, said the British representatives at the Peace Conference would demand a general and absolute abolition of conscription throughout Europe.

POLAND'S INTERESTS.

The British Government has intimated that they favour Polish representation at the Peace Conference, where Polish interests are involved.

THE POPE AND PEACE.

A Rome report says a Papal Encyclical summons Catholics everywhere to pray for a just peace, and promises that the Pope will use all his influence that Catholics will loyally execute the decisions of the Peace Conference.

AUSTRIA'S FUTURE.

UNION WITH GERMANY.

It is reported from Vienna that an English newspaper correspondent interviewed Herr Bauer, Foreign Minister. The latter said that documents in the Foreign Office prove that Austro-Hungarian statesmen foresaw the dissolution of the Empire, and hoped to forestall it by crushing Servia's rising power.

He added that Austria's only future policy was union with Germany. He hoped the Peace Conference would assent to it.

BRITISH BLOCKADE.

REMARKABLE FEAT.

Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the Admiralty, stated that the Tenth Cruiser Squadron guarded the sea from the Orkneys to Iceland and intercepted 15,000 ships carrying supplies to the enemy. Under 4 per cent. of the ships evaded the blockade.

"TIES OF BLOOD."

ANGLO-AMERICAN RELATIONS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.

General Pershing, reviewing the activities of the American armies in France, says that as a result of British and American military relations it had been deeply impressed upon Americans that the ties of language and blood bring Britain and America together completely and inseparably.

He says that the effort made by the Allied armies staffs to assist the Americans was far greater than could have been expected. General Pershing declares that the relations growing from the Franco-American association assure the permanent friendship of the two nations.

WAR PRISONERS.

"GRAVEST INCIDENTS."

A telegram from Paris reports that M. Marcel Hutin states that gravest incidents have occurred in the war prisoners' camps in Saxony, and that in regard thereto the Allies are calling on Marshal Foch to act most energetically.

Sir Eric Geddes (First Lord of the Admiralty), in a speech at Reading, declared that the men guilty of unspeakable atrocities upon our prisoners, and upon civilians in invaded countries, must be tried, and, if condemned, put to death.

THE MINING UNITS.

AUSTRALIANS PRAISED.

Sir Douglas Haig in a special order of the day congratulates the mining and tunnelling units, who, he says, demonstrated complete superiority over the Germans. They achieved a magnificent success at Messines, and prepared for the offensives on the Somme and Ypres. They also carried out the dangerous tasks of removing enemy traps and mines from roads, bridges, and dugouts, and had shown the highest qualities of engineers and fighting troops. He specially mentions the Australian electrical and mechanical mining and boring company.

SERIOUS EXPLOSION.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.

A telegram from Paterson (New Jersey) states that ten people were killed and 35 injured by an explosion in the Dupont munition works. The priming house was destroyed.

THE ARMISTICE.

GERMANY PAYING UP.

LONDON, Dec. 5.

A message from Paris says the Germans have begun to make restitutions under the armistice. They have already paid 300,000,000 francs in gold, exacted from Russia, to the Allies, who will retain it till the conclusion of peace.

An Amsterdam report says the French armistice delegate at Spa has demanded 98,000,000 marks (£4,300,000) for the first month's maintenance of the Anglo-French armies of occupation.

The Germans are daily restoring works of art stolen from France. The value of those ...eady returned is estimated at £80,000,000.

ALLIED OCCUPATION.

Belgian communique states: Our cavalry have occupied Neuss and Odenkirchen.

An American communique states: We have reached the general line of Berncastel, Mallorn, and Otzenhausen.

A British official communique states: We yesterday resumed our march to the Rhine, and reached in the evening the line of Kronenburg, Schleiden, and Duren.

SHADOW OF DOOM.

EX-KAISER'S FATE.

A Paris message says it is semi-officially confirmed that the inter-Allied conference in London agreed upon the necessity for obtaining the extradition and trial of the ex-Kaiser.

The Paris correspondent of the United Press says it is semi-officially announced that the British, Italian, and French representatives have demanded the extradition of the Kaiser.

An Amsterdam report states that the Kaiser rarely leaves his house. When he appears in the grounds he has the appearance of a man with terror in his heart. He spends many hours daily writing feverishly, as though against time. This mysterious manuscript is believed to contain his own defence in readiness for his appearance before the world's tribunal.

A message from The Hague says the ex-Kaiser preceded his formal abdication by a document in lead pencil, written at Amerongen on November 20, stating that he was unable to comprehend his present situation. He regards himself as still God's instrument, and thinks God is sending him trials for hidden beneficent reasons.

A correspondent of the "Daily Mirror" at Amerongen says the ex-Kaiser made the following statement:—"I am threatened with criminal charges which I must face. Therefore I must reserve any statement until the charges are brought. Furthermore I am a private citizen and must be loyal to the present German Government, and I cannot take a declaration possibly compromising others."

LUDENDORFF'S DESIGNS.

TO SET PARIS ON FIRE.

A message from Copenhagen says the "Bayerische Zeitung" reports that after the second battle of the Somme in 1916 Prince Rupprecht urged peace; also, in the beginning of 1918, when he came into sharp conflict with Ludendorff, who stopped Prince Rupprecht's advance on Amiens, when the prospects to break through were favourable. Thus the relationship between Ludendorff and Prince Rupprecht was completely severed.

Ludendorff was hoping to set Paris on fire with a new bomb. Prince Rupprecht protested to Admiral von Hintze (Naval Minister), who prevented its use.

BLACK SEA FLEET.

SURRENDERED TO ALLIES.

The Admiralty announces that all Turkish warships have surrendered and have been interned at Constantinople. The Goeben, four German submarines, and the Russian Black Sea Fleet, consisting of the dreadnought Volga and six destroyers, have been handed over to the Allies.

RUSSIAN BOLSHEVIKS.

FORMING GREAT ARMY.

It is reported from Petrograd that the Bolsheviks have ordered general mobilisation for military training. It is estimated that next summer they will have an army of between three and four millions.

ALLIES IN UKRAINE.

A Constantinople report, dated November 26, states: A revolution has broken out in Ukraine. The Ukrainians here are urging the Allies to occupy the Russian Black Sea ports.

A Russian wireless message received in Paris states that Allied troops crossed the Bessarabian frontier and entered the Ukraine.

FATE OF THE EX-CZAR.

Reports from Kieff received in Amsterdam state that a servant of the ex-Czar declares the whole of the Royal family for weeks before they were murdered were compelled to live together in one room. Bolshevik soldiers insulted them shamefully. The Czar's last request to die with the sick Czarina in his arms was granted. The family were taken to a cellar in a convent. They were placed against a wall and shot one after another. The Princess Tatiana did not die immediately. Soldiers despatched her with their rifle-butts. The corpses were burned in the outskirts of Ekaterinburg.

CHILI AND PERU.

Despatches from Santiago state that the Chilian army has been mobilised.

Press despatches from Santiago received in New York say that official and commercial circles believe there is no danger of war between Chili and Peru.

MILITARY HONOURS.

The following military awards are announced:—

Bar to D.S.O.: Major H. G. Willing (New Zealand Field Artillery).

D.S.O.: Australians—Colonel C. C. Cox, Majors A. Dien, F. V. Wier (Light Horse), Captain A. G. Campbell (Infantry); New Zealanders—Lieut.-Colonel P. H. Bell (Rifle Brigade), Majors C. H. McClelland, W. C. Sinel (Auckland Regiment), F. K. Turnbull (Wellington Regiment).

Bars to Military Cross: Australians—Captains J. H. Allen, R. W. Harburn, Lieuts. W. E. Hardwick, J. Sullivan, J. A. Wiltshire (Infantry); New Zealanders—Lieuts. F. E. Ashby, R. V. Hollis, (Wellington Regiment).

SOUTH AFRICA.

CAPETOWN, Dec. 5.

A Pretoria message states that the Government's reply to representations regarding the possibility of a Royal visit, in connection with peace celebrations at the opening of the Union Building, indicates that such is improbable, but it favours holding an industrial exhibition at the same time. There is a strong impression in Pretoria that a Royal visit would do much to counteract disloyal propaganda.

BLIND SOLDIERS.

Blinded soldiers, representing Australia, New Zealand, Newfoundland, Canada, England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales, competed in the St. Dunstan's empire sculling championship. H. N. Hardy (of Adelaide), 27th Battalion, won.

GERMANY.

INTERNAL CONFLICT.

LONDON, Dec. 5.

The Amsterdam correspondent of the United Press says that serious fighting occurred in Kreuznach (Prussia), where German officers defeated the revolutionists. The victors cheered the ex-Kaiser.

A Copenhagen message says serious riots occured in Cologne on December 3. A mob plundered the shops, and attempted to raid a food depot, but retreated when faced with machine-guns. Conflicts between the mob and the police lasted all night. There was a number of casualties.

An Amsterdam message reports sharp fighting in several Westphalian towns between returning soldiers and local Soviet troops.

Thousands of miners at Hamm struck, and hoisted red flags on public buildings. There were similar demonstrations at Wanne. Soldiers hauled down the flags, and dispersed the demonstrators.

LABOUR TROUBLE.

RAILWAYMEN'S DEMAND.

There is a recrudescence of the railway trouble in connection with the termination of the industrial truce. The men demand shorter hours. The situation is regarded as serious. Mr. J. H. Thomas (ex-M.P.), who is president of the railwaymen's union, is conferring at length with Sir Albert Stanley (President of the Board of Trade).

THE KAISER.

LIEUT.-COLONEL MURDOCH CRITICISED.

We have received several letters protesting against the utterance of Lieut.-Colonel Murdoch, who, at a luncheon in connection with the Ad. Men's Institute on Thursday, opposed the popular demand for the punishment of the Kaiser.

Mr. Cecil Hordern, of Yaralla-chambers, says "Colonel Murdoch is the first Briton I have heard of who thinks our nation would be degrading themselves by punishing the greatest criminal of all time. The whole world demands the removal of William Hohenzollern and his family, notwithstanding any brief put forward on their behalf by Lieut.-Colonel Murdoch."

Mr. A. P. Sparke, solicitor, writes:—"The lieutenant-colonel evidently considers that the demand to deliver up the Kaiser is to be followed by a trial such as that accorded to Nurse Cavell, Captain Fryatt, and others. Let him relieve his mind on that score, the Kaiser will be accorded the fairest and most impartial trial known to the world. If the Court finds against him, then will arise the question of his head, if a verdict of not guilty is returned, then we might even see him in Australia spending some of his vast wealth. What bearing the demand for the delivery of the Kaiser for trial has on the pureness of the course of justice remains a puzzle."

The executive of the Sailors and Soldiers' Mothers, Wives, and Relatives' Association passed the following resolution at its meeting yesterday:—"The executive strongly protests against Lieut.-Colonel Murdoch's utterances in reference to the trial and punishment of the Kaiser. They hold that a criminal who authorised outrages against men and women in Belgium and France, and who took thousands into slavery, who brutally illused prisoners, and destroyed the fairest regions of France, should be brought to trial and receive justice. The German nation is rightly despised, and its leaders must be made to suffer, as a warning to despots who may rule in ages to come. The executive would not condemn on clamour, but, after a fair trial they submit that justice should be allowed to take its course."

Dr. C. W. MacCarthy writes:—"Though the remarks of Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Murdoch, as reported in to-day's issue, savour of a desire to shield the infamous Kaiser, who from the beginning of the war approved of a diabolical and deliberately organised system of frightfulness that has shocked the civilised world, we may, perhaps, attribute these remarks to mere mawkish sentiment, without thought of their inner meaning. I have before me a large bronze medal struck in Germany, commemorative of the sinking of the Lusitania; on one side the figure of death distributing tickets for the voyage, and on the obverse the vessel sinking. There is an appropriate inscription in German. I venture to say that if the awfulness of that culminative murder were brought home to the Lieut.-Colonel by the death of some dear one on board, he would be one of the first to cry out for vengeance against the Kaiser, who could praise his devil-god for the occurrence, and decorate the pirate captain of the responsible submarine."

"In my opinion," writes Mr. A. G. Wheeler, of Kogarah, "the Kaiser ought to be hanged as a warning against any other individual trying to invade other countries. May I ask Mr. Murdoch what action he would take if a gang was to break into his house, kill his children, take his mother, sisters, and wife, and make slaves of them? Would he be willing to forgive them, or would he try to capture and punish them?"

FRENCH MISSION.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT'S FAREWELL.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A farewell luncheon was tendered to the members of the French Mission by the Federal Government in the Queen's Hall at Parliament House to-day. The members of the Mission were presented with a souvenir consisting of an album of photographs of views of Australia, together with a small box made of Australian blackwood to hold it.

On behalf of the Government, the Speaker, Mr. W. E. Johnson, also presented a painting by one of the leading painters of Australia, Will Ashton, of the monument erected near Botany Bay to the memory of La Perouse.

After the toasts of "The King" and the "President of the French Republic," the Acting Prime Minister, Mr. Watt, in moving the toast of "The French Mission," said that since the Mission arrived in Australia France had been liberated from the hands of the invader. They congratulated the Mission that the enemy was no longer in possession of any portion of France. They would like it to be understood that they appreciated the fact that the safety of this country and other civilised countries was preserved by French bravery when the men of France flung themselves in front of the German armies. With this war over, added Mr. Watt, they were entitled to turn their attention more vigorously to the problems of peace. They hoped that out of this visit of the Mission there would spring a closer recognition and kinship, and that an interchange of visits and new commercial ties would be established. They thought and hoped that this visit would result in substantial commercial reciprocity of a mutually advantageous kind between the two nations. They also thought that it would induce a more intelligent recognition of the identity of interests of those two countries in southern waters that would make for the stability of peace in the Pacific in days to come. If France could see, as Australia saw, some of those problems this visit would be amply repaid. He had invited General Pau to visit Australia again, but General Pau had not yet decided.

The leader of the Opposition, Mr. Tudor, supported the toast.

General Pau expressed his gratefulness for the hospitality that the members of the Mission had received in Australia. He thanked Great Britain and Australia for the help given in days of battle. He was now in a country where the heart of men beat in unison with the hearts of France. The armistice was brought about not merely by the triumph of force but the triumph of truth and justice over wrong. (Applause.) The return of Alsace-Lorraine to France was the return that was demanded by Divine justice. For 50 years he had longed and waited for this day, for this revenge, as they called it, and it was the revenge of justice and truth. He thanked them for the gift to France and the gifts to the members of the Mission.

BONUSES FOR SEAMEN.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Payments of bonuses received privately by the crews of vessels of Australian registry for service within the war zone, as from September 1 this year, will be deducted from the allowance of 25 per cent. of wages granted by the Federal authorities. Compensation for personal war losses payable to the crews has been amended as follows:—The respective amounts representing overseas and coastal services: Masters and chief engineers, £50 and £30; deck officers and engineers (other than chief), £25 and £20; seamen, firemen, stewards, or stewardesses, £15 and £10; and carpenters, to cover the loss of kits, £35 and £25.

WAR NOTES.

THE MARCH TO THE RHINE.

While this morning's cablegrams do not outline the movement of the Allied troops along the whole of the front, the Belgian and American communiques reveal further satisfactory progress on these two sectors. The Belgian cavalry on the Allied left are moving forward freely some miles in advance of their infantry forces and appear to have reconnoitred a great part of the ground between Aix-le-Chapelle—where they were recently reported to have arrived—and the west bank of the Rhine. Their appearance at Neuss, about four miles west of Dusseldorf, shows that they have practically reached the river at one point, while at Odenkirchen, farther south-west, they are within about 15 miles of it. This Belgian force appears to have moved north and north-eastward from Aix-la-Chapelle, and is pushing into the angle of German territory between the Dutch border and the Rhine. The Allied left in this region, when the new front is established, will have the Dutch territory in its rear. On the American sector the troops are pushing eastward through the wooded hills, which form the watershed of the Moselle on the west and the Rhine to the eastward. Since they received their cold reception at Treves they have pushed forward some 15 miles or more to Malborn. Their left, farther northward, is still close to the lower Moselle, at Berncastel. The Americans near this latter town are about 35 miles west-south-west of the well-known Bingen-on-the-Rhine. The British, between the Belgian and American sectors, have advanced their centre over ten miles beyond Mont Jole, where they were last reported. Their left at Duren is now only a little over twenty miles from the left bank of the Rhine.

THE GOEBEN AND BRESLAU.

With the handing over to the Allies of the Turkish fleet ends the remarkable career of the German battle cruiser Goeben as an active enemy unit. It is probably no exaggeration to say that this vessel did more for Germany in the great war than any other individual ship of her navy, not excepting the Emden. Together with the Breslau she succeeded in exercising a great influence upon the conduct of the whole war, as, by their remarkable flight through the Mediterranean, and their safe arrival off Constantinople, they helped to clinch the diplomatic negotiations previously conducted by Germany with a view to bringing Turkey into the war upon her side. It was something more than a coincidence that the two German warships which were cruising in the Mediterranean prior to the outbreak of war should have both possessed a special capacity for speed. When the news of the rupture reached them they were taking in supplies at Messina. Italian warships reminded them that they could only remain in port for 24 hours, and the British warships were stationed in the Gulf of Otranto and at the entrance to the Adriatic, cutting off their escape towards the Austrian naval base at Pola. Other squadrons at Gibraltar barred their exit from the Mediterranean, and the only place of refuge was Constantinople, where, under international law, it was believed they would have to be interned. A wireless message from the Kaiser announced that the Goeben and the Breslau were expected to break through, and, with bands playing and flags flying, the two vessels steamed out towards the British fleet. The British cruiser Gloucester maintained touch with them, but the enemy vessels suddenly jammed the Gloucester's wireless, and, turning south, made for the Dardanelles, which their high rate of speed enabled them to reach in safety. Here they flew the Turkish flag, and were renamed the Sultan Selim and Medilli respectively. The Breslau was sunk during a recent raid, but the Goeben, although badly damaged on more than one occasion, remained afloat.

A GERMAN DIPLOMATIC SUCCESS.

An idea of the importance which the enemy attributed to this dash of the Goeben and Breslau to Constantinople is given in the reminiscences of Mr. Morgenthau, the late American Ambassador in Constantinople. Official business had called Mr. Morgenthau to the German Embassy, but he found Wangenheim, the German Ambassador, in a state of nervous excitement. "He could not rest in his chair more than a few minutes at a time," writes Mr. Morgenthau. "He was constantly jumping up, rushing to the window and looking anxiously out towards the Bosphorus, where his private wireless station, the 'Corcovado,' lay about three-quarters of a mile away. 'Something is seriously distracting you,' I said, rising, 'I will go and come again some other time.' 'No, no,' the ambassador almost shouted. 'I want you to stay right where you are. This will be a great day for Germany. If you will only remain for a few minutes you will hear a great piece of news—something that has the utmost bearing upon Turkey's relation to the war.' Then he rushed out on the portico, and leaned over the balustrade. At the same moment I saw a little launch put out from the 'Corcovado' towards the Ambassador's dock. Wangenheim hurried down, seized an envelope from one of the sailors, and a moment afterwards burst into the room. 'We've got them,' he shouted to me. 'Got what?' I asked. 'The Goeben and the Breslau have passed through the Dardanelles.' He was waving the wireless message with all the enthusiasm of a college boy whose football team had won a victory. Then momentarily checking his enthusiasm, he came up to me, solemnly, humorously shook his forefinger, lifted his eyebrows, and said, 'Of course, you understand that we have sold those ships to Turkey. But Admiral Souchon,' he added with another wink, 'will enter the Sultan's service.'" Mr. Morgenthau also records a conversation which he had with Talaat Pasha regarding the ships in which the ex-Grand Vizier is reported to have said that if the Germans won the war they would leave the ships to the Turks, and if they lost they would not be able to take them away again.

FOUGHT IN CRIMEA.

DUKE OF GRAFTON.

LONDON, Nov. 5.

The death is announced of the Duke of Grafton.

[The Duke of Grafton, who was 97 years of age, was Equerry to Queen Victoria from 1849 to 1882. He fought in the Crimean war, being in the Coldstream Guards, and was severely wounded at Inkermann. He retired from the army with the rank of general in 1881. His heir is the Earl of Euston.]

CRICKET.

A.I.F. TEAM FOR ENGLAND.

A meeting of the Australian Board of Control for International Cricket was held yesterday afternoon at the rooms of the New South Wales Cricket Association, for the purpose of considering an invitation from the Marylebone Cricket Club for an Australian team to visit England next year.

Mr. G. Mostyn Evans (South Australia) presided, and the other delegates present were: Messrs. Riby and Scrymgour (South Australia), Bean, Rush, Dr. Ramsay Mailer (Vic.), and Messrs. Gregory, M.P. (Western Australia), Alan (Queensland), Oxlade, Howard, and Syd. Smith, the hon. secretary (New South Wales).

It was unanimously decided that the board was in favour of the idea of a team of men "who had served" touring England in 1919. Major Gordon Campbell and Mr. Findley (the board's representative in England) were appointed as the board's representatives to negotiate with the Marylebone Cricket Club. It was resolved that those who had served oversea as members of the A.I.F. should be eligible for selection. The designation of the team will be "The A.I.F. Australian Eleven," and it will be comprised of 15 players, and a manager. The board approved of test matches being played, and that the whole of the programme should be left in the hands of the board's representatives. Major Gordon Campbell was appointed manager and treasurer. Messrs. Barbour (New South Wales), Park (Victoria), and Campbell (South Australia) were chosen to select the team. Names will be submitted to the board for approval and affirmation before publication. It was further decided that the selectors should be notified that the captain and vice-captain would be appointed by the board. Mr. Ferguson was appointed scorer. The board also resolved that an amount should be subscribed on the basis of representation by the various associations represented on the board for the purpose of financing the tour.

The Marylebone Cricket Club will be invited to send a team to Australia in 1919-20.

NEWMARKET BLOOD STOCK SALES.

LONDON, Dec. 5.

At the Newmarket December blood stock sales to-day the Viscount of Falmouth's stud realised a total of 49,070 guineas, including the brood mare Officious (dam of King Offa), 3700 guineas; and The Stickler (half-brother to King Offa), 3200 guineas.

[The Stickler, who is by Stedfast from Officious, was foaled in 1916, and, consequently, rising two years old. Sceptre, by Persimmon from Ornament, foaled in 1899, holds the record price for a yearling at £10,500.]

LATE CABLE NEWS.

GOVERNMENT POLICY.

FATE OF GERMAN COLONIES.

LONDON, Dec. 6.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George, in concluding his statement of policy, describes the provisions for soldiers and sailors. Measures will be passed for increasing production, housing, and other reconstruction problems. He emphasises the mutual confidence of all classes, and says that it will be necessary to increase the output. He declares that capital shall not be plundered, and labour shall not be sweated.

Mr. Walter Long, Secretary of State for the Colonies, speaking at Westminster, said the case for the British retention of the German colonies will be put forward in the strongest manner at the peace conference.

Sir F. E. Smith, Attorney-General, speaking at Liverpool, said the Government intended that not a single yard of the German colonies would be returned.

THE DARK DAYS OF APRIL.

The Attorney-General, Sir F. E. Smith, speaking at Liverpool, said it was now possible to reveal that during the dark days of April all preparations were made to carry to these islands the scattered remains of the British force if the Germans had succeeded in driving a wedge between the British and French armies. If the British had been crushed, Mr. Lloyd George was determined to fight on with the British and United States warships while a single vessel flew the British flag.

INTERNAL GERMANY.

According to an Amsterdam message, a meeting at Cologne decided to proclaim an independent republic of Rhineland and Westphalia.

The Spartacus group have seized Essen and Krupp's organ, "The Westfaelische Zeitung."

KERENSKY'S VIEWS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.

The United Press London correspondent interviewed M. Kerensky, who said: "I believe the German revolution, though started under circumstances similar to the Russian revolution, will be able to avert Bolshevism. Germany, probably, has turbulent days ahead, but I do not believe she will be subjected to the supreme tragedy like Russia. I believe the German revolution is sincere. I do not desire to return to Russia, save as a private citizen.

A GRAVE CRISIS.

RAILWAYMEN'S TROUBLE.

A sudden crisis has been caused in the railway world. Those responsible for the September trouble are endeavouring to precipitate an immediate strike unless the railwaymen's national programme is conceded in principle.

Mr. J. H. Thomas, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, has been recalled to London, and is conferring with Sir Albert Stanley, President of the Board of Trade.

Mr. Thomas, in a message to all the railwaymen's branches, said he had given the necessary notice to cancel the truce, with a view to bringing the national programme before the companies for negotiation, especially the eight-hour day. The negotiations would be the most delicate and difficult the railwaymen had yet undertaken.

It is believed that Mr. Thomas's action has averted the possibility of an immediate national strike. Mr. Thomas describes the crisis as of the gravest moment.

SOUTH AFRICA.

CAPETOWN, Dec. 6.

It is officially announced that the Government, following the Australian precedent, has no intention of admitting ex-soldiers and sailors suffering from tuberculosis, and has cabled the High Commissioner that in granting permits, regard must be had to the exclusion of persons suffering from tuberculosis and other infectious diseases.

The Government has received a communication stating that the priority system of restricted articles from Britain will be continued for a considerable time, also that shipping from America will be reduced. The restrictions on Union trade with other African territories are being rapidly reduced. The department is considering the question of establishing two free ports east and west for the distribution of trade.

REPATRIATION OF GERMANS.

CAPETOWN, Dec. 6.

In connection with the demand for the repatriation of all Germans voiced by numerous public meetings, it is understood the Government is not prepared to consent to indiscriminate repatriation.

The Queensland Investment Company shows a profit for the year of £19.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

The Legislative Assembly, which commenced its sittings at 2.30 p.m. yesterday, was still debating when this edition went to press. On the Parliamentary Elections Bill the Opposition called for a division on every clause.

LATE MR. H. C. DOYLE.

Mr. Henry Chetwood Doyle, who died at his residence, Navarre, Duke-street, Kensington, suddenly, on the morning of the 2nd inst., in his seventieth year, was born at Dargle, on the Hawkesbury River, the family later removing to Koludah, Lochinvar, which became the permanent family residence. He was employed in the Commercial Bank, Maitland, and afterwards at the head office, Sydney, where he became paying teller, and he retired after 23 years' service, to become a member of the Sydney Stock Exchange. When the Sydney Lancers were formed, he was one of the first troopers, but was given a commission shortly afterwards. Taking a great interest in sailing and rowing he owned the Pyrrah, and won a number of races in '73 and '74. During a trip to England he won trophies at Cowes and Dieppe, with the yacht Terpsichore. Later in life he became a member of the Australian Golf Club. He leaves a widow and a son and daughter, Frank Doyle and Mrs. R. Griffiths, of Kensington.

SUBMARINE CREW.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Advice has reached the Navy Department that the following members of the crew of submarine AE2 have been released from Turkey:—Engine-room Artificer T. Fawns (No. 8285), Able-seaman A. Gwynne (No. 7475), and Stoker T. H. Walker (No. 8289).

INFLUENZA.

POSITION IMPROVED.

NO NEW CASES.

INOCULATION MORE POPULAR.

The latest report from the quarantine information depot yesterday is the brightest that has been issued for some days past. In contrast with the previous day's developments, it revealed no deaths and no new cases.

The following is a comparative statement of cases for the last three days:—

	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.
Dangerous cases	12	9	5
Serious	9	7	8
Ill	63	65	44
Convalescent in hospital	159	161	186
Convalescent on station	277	216	216
Contacts	583	582	463

A week ago the dangerous cases numbered 13, the serious cases 21, and those ill 147. There has thus been a substantial drop. The reduced number of contacts is accounted for by the release from quarantine of two vessels—the St. Louis and the Melusia, which had a total of 113 passengers and crews, who had been merely detained on board.

CONDITION OF PATIENTS.

Those now given as dangerously ill are:—Pte. Joseph Hunt (slight improvement), Pte. S. W. Metzler (slight improvement), Pte. A. E. Brown (no change), S.S. Stock (no change), Fireman Glover (slight improvement).

Captain A. R. Thorne, A.A.M.C., has been removed from "ill" to the list of serious cases.

Of the nurses, Sisters Dyce, Bell, Brownlow, Lord, Shearman, Locke, Wray, Faddy, Fethers, and Mullholland, or Mulberon, are convalescent. There are now six nursing sisters ill.

All the Atua cases are now convalescent, while of the Manuka cases none is dangerous or serious.

INOCULATION.

Those inoculated yesterday at the public depots numbered roughly 1290, as compared with slightly higher figures on the previous day. These include Government employees. The figures—558—for the Hyde Park depot on Thursday constitute a record. In order to meet the increasing number of applicants, the medical staffs at the city depots have been doubled.

The following depots will be open to-day from 2 p.m. till 5 p.m.:—Hyde Park Recruiting Depot, Water Police Court (Phillip-street), Waverley Town Hall, Balmain Town Hall. In the evening the Hyde Park Recruiting Depot will be open from 6 o'clock till 9 o'clock.

On Monday the following additional depots will be opened:—North Sydney Town Hall, 2-5 p.m.; Randwick Town Hall, 2-5 p.m.; Parramatta Town Hall, 3-5 p.m.; Waverley Town Hall, 3-5 p.m.

The statement that a person would be most able to resist the disease after he had been inoculated for 14 days as from the first inoculation has been misinterpreted to mean that there must be fresh inoculation every 14 days. The point is that the resisting power of inoculation is at its fullest in 14 days as from the first inoculation, and is then continuous in the resisting power.

A DOCTOR'S SERVICES.

As one of the State Health Department's officers is on board the Medic, the Minister for Health (Mr. Fitzgerald), recognising the value of his services to the State at the present juncture because of his knowledge of influenza, has made application for his demobilisation from the military, subject, of course, to his being put through whatever quarantine isolation is necessary before he can be discharged. His services, it is considered, will be useful to the State in investigating cases should they occur outside the quarantine area.

EXCLUSION OF CHAPLAINS.

OFFICIAL REASONS.

"DANGER OF KEEPING DISEASE ALIVE."

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The decision of the Federal Government with regard to applications by ministers of religion for admission to the Quarantine Station in Sydney was explained to-day in the House of Representatives by the Acting Minister for Customs, Mr. Massy Greene. Replying to questions by Mr. Charlton (N.S.W.), he said that the Government recognised the courage and devotion of those ministers of religion who, at great personal risk, desired to enter the quarantine area and to remain there in the centre of danger to the very end, and it had been with the greatest reluctance that the application had to be refused. The medical authorities were agreed that no means were yet known which would give entire immunity from the disease. Inoculation was to some extent a safeguard, but it was by no means a sure preventive. If ministers of religion were admitted they would have to minister to the dying, when the patients were at the stage of the greatest infectivity, and the probabilities were that the clergymen would contract the disease. All religious denominations would have to be treated alike, and if clergymen from all denominations were admitted they would, in effect, be feeding the disease at the very centre of the trouble, and keeping it alive in this country. The Government's whole object was to try and stamp it out at the first possible moment. Every day that it was present in the country it was a menace to the health of the people. The disease in the Quarantine Station in Sydney was of a most virulent kind, and the danger was so great to the people that the Government did not feel justified in allowing ministers to enter the quarantine area, and thus keeping the disease alive longer than was necessary. If clergymen were admitted they would be almost sure to contract the disease, and thence there would be applications for the admission of other clergymen to take their places. The Government, therefore, felt that, in justice to the people of the country, and in the performance of their duty to the living, they were bound to refuse all applications for admission.

GUNNEDAH, Friday.

A meeting of about 30 of the leading Roman Catholics discussed matters in connection with Nurse Egan's death at the Quarantine Station. The deceased was a daughter of William Egan, a landholder at Emerald Hill, who has now retired to private life in Sydney, and was widely known and respected in this district. The following resolution was carried:—"This meeting deeply deplores the tragic action of the Commonwealth authorities in refusing to allow a Catholic priest to attend and administer in the quarantine area the last rites of the Church to Nurse Annie Egan, a member of this parish, and bitterly resents the fact that the repeated dying request of one who freely offered her young life for her people was persistnetly refused."

BATHURST, Friday.

Commenting on the exclusion of priests from the Quarantine Station in connection and the death of Nurse Egan, Dr. Dunne, Roman Catholic Bishop of Bathurst, stated:—"Whatever be the motives of the Federal authorities in the cruel treatment of Nurse Egan, the results are indeed lamentable, for so high-handed an action helps to extinguish charity and self-sacrifice, to injure and enslave religion, and to remind us forcibly of the dark days of penal times.

NEW ZEALAND STEAMER SERVICE.

It is a month to-day since a mail and passenger steamer left Sydney for New Zealand ports. This is, of course, due to the seriousness of the influenza epidemic. The last Union Company's steamer to leave here was the Manuka, which left on October 31 for Wellington. Huddart, Parker's steamer Riverina sailed for Auckland on November 7, and since this date all sailings to New Zealand ports have been indefinitely postponed.

The steamer Devon, from the agency of Birt and Company, is scheduled to leave here early on Sunday morning for Waitara, carrying mails for all New Zealand towns, but no passengers.

WORKING THE MAKURA.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

The Auckland waterside workers have refused to work the Makura till she is declared a clean ship and berthed alongside the wharf. They protested against the Premier's action in suggesting or consenting to coaling the vessel during quarantine, on the ground that it will probably lead to the reintroduction of the scourge into the city.

The Arawa has been declared a clean ship, and the New Zealand passengers have been landed.

FIJI WANTS HELP.

SUVA, Friday.

The Government of Fiji has cabled to New Zealand for doctors and nurses for the relief of influenza in country districts.

DEATH OF NURSE EGAN.

SOLEMN REQUIEM MASS.

The circumstances in which the death occurred of Nurse Egan, at the Quarantine Station, North Head, on Tuesday, were referred to yesterday in an address by Archbishop Kelly in St. Mary's Cathedral. The occasion was a solemn requiem mass for the repose of the soul of the deceased nurse.

Archbishop Kelly commenced by quoting a verse from Judges:—"There was no such deed done nor seen from the day that the Children of Israel came up out of the land of Egypt unto this day. Consider of it, take advice, and speak your minds."

"You know what has happened," proceeded Dr. Kelly. "A Christian lady, on the approach of death, tries for days to secure the benefits instituted by her Church for the benefit of dying persons, and they are refused her. At the same moment a priest is waiting, ready to go. He is prepared to remain in the pest-house, and glad, because there is an opportunity of affording to a dying Christian the treasures purchased by the blood of Christ. It is a question affecting an immortal soul, created in the likeness of the adorable Affinity, cowering before death—for one does cower before death—and anxious about judgment. But the priest is not allowed to go to this dying nurse." They were there, he proceeded, to repair the harm, if that was possible. Nurse Egan died a martyr to her duty, and for her they appealed to God, their loving Father. Yet this happening must be brought before the public. They must say, as was said by the Levite when his wife was slain by the citizens, "See what has happened. Give sentence and say what shall be done."

The speaker told of an incident in a beleaguered city in the South African War. A Catholic soldier lay dying, and called again and again for a priest. The commander-in-chief, because there was no priest there, fitted out a train and sent it, by arrangement with the enemy, hundreds of miles to the nearest priest, and brought him to the dying soldier. Nurse Egan went, knowing the risk, to fight the epidemic. She had counted the cost and was prepared to pay for it. She did not care for the loss of this life, but she thought of her soul and wanted the consolation of her religion. A priest was not allowed to go to her, but he sent a message to say that mass would be said for her, and "It would be all right." Please God, it would be all right. "But was it right to deny that dying nurse the object of her most earnest desire, the one thing she, conscious to the last, made choice of out of all other things in this life?

"Oh, my friends," continued Dr. Kelly, passionately, "One could not believe that such a thing could have happened. War must be a brutalising thing, military discipline must be a dehumanising thing, when we are asked to deal with such a case. . . . We have had communications from ministers, and they write as if we asked for leave to visit. No. We ask for the leave to remain there. We will form a part of the quarantine staff. If classification is demanded, we answer that a priest is prepared to go into each class. . . . War must denaturalise some people. We are not a mere machine. We do not die like flies or brute beasts. There is such a thing as liberty in working out our salvation.

"Who was this nurse? Was she an outcast, that she was treated so? No—they gave her burial with military honours. If she deserved military honours, she deserved to have her dying wish granted, to be given the priestly absolution she sought. . . . When people go foward to save us against this epidemic they are public benefactors, deserving of consideration and all honour. Let us then at least cry out against this outrage, by which the death of a nurse who gave her life fighting for us was made unchristian, as far as it could be made unchristian. . . . Her request was refused. There was never so impious a refusal. God grant it may be the last."

The Archbishop cited from history cases in which, through circumstances that could not be controlled, difficulty was experienced in administering the last rites of the Church. Nurse Egan had been denied that which she sought, but eternal rest would be hers.

The assembly then joined in the singing of "De Profundis."

The Apostolic Delegate was represented by his secretary, Monsignor Ormond. Among those present were Mr. Justice Heydon, Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald (Minister for Health), Alderman R. D. Meagher, M.L.C., Mr. P. S. Cleary, and Mr. C. Lawlor (Catholic Federation), Sisters of Charity from St. Vincent's, military and civil nurses, and members of the Hibernian Society. The Australasian Trained Nurses' Association was represented by Miss Evans, secretary. Father Bond was master of ceremonies for the mass, and Father Murphy was celebrant. The cantors were Fathers Tansey and Troy, Father Peoples was deacon, Father Darby sub-deacon, and Fathers Cullen and Furlong attended the Archbishop on his throne.

MORTALITY IN CEYLON.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

An Oamaru tea merchant has received from his Ceylon buyer a letter which says the whole island is suffering from a very severe scourge of influenza, fever, and pneumonia, which is causing a tremendous amount of mortality amongst the labourers, so that although the crops are coming on well, the planters will be unable to cope with them, and supplies in the near future are likely to be light.

MISSION VESSEL QUARANTINED.

AUCKLAND (N.Z.), Friday.

The Melanesian Mission steamer, Southern Cross, has arrived here, and owing to an outbreak of influenza on board, the vessel has been ordered into quarantine.

THE ISLANDS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A wireless message received from the commander of the Encounter states that the island of Upolu is now clear of Spanish influenza, but Vavau and Tonga are badly affected, and a medical man had been left at the latter place from the relief ship.

ANZACS.

ENTERTAINED AT HER MAJESTY'S.

"Katinka," with its sparkling action and bright music, was staged by the Royal Comic Opera Company in Her Majesty's Theatre yesterday afternoon for the exclusive pleasure of the Anzacs, the army nurses, in uniform, and the men's mothers, wives, sisters, and sweethearts. The performance was organised by Mr. Hugh J. Ward, on behalf of J. C. Williamson, Ltd. To quote the programme: "In giving their services gratuitously for this gala performance, the members of the company, the stage, and the front of the house staffs of the theatre, and the members of the orchestra feel it an honour to be asked to entertain 'our dear diggers.'" The performance went with a merry swing, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience. The theatre was beflagged everywhere, and with lively orchestral numbers in the intervals, a dull moment was not allowed to creep into the proceedings from start to finish. Proceedings opened with the National Anthem, and with a magnificent tableau representative of the Allies, with Miss Florence Young the central figure, as Britannia.

His Excellency the Governor, sitting in one of the boxes with Lady Davidson and their children, was quickly recognised, and addressed the audience in the second interval, in response to calls for a speech. He paid a tribute to the excellence of the performance, and the splendid spirit which had prompted it. He was as proud of the men he saw around him as were their own people. There were people who had wanted to attend the performance. They were willing to pay anything, but were informed that it was an Anzac day, and that money did not enter into it. (Applause.) The Anzacs saw the pride which was felt for them that day, but it was a feeling of pride that would never die. It would be as strong 50 years hence as it was to-day. The badges which our men wore would go down from generation to generation, and the people would count their pride of birth from the day that those gallant men went out to fight.

The Premier (Mr. Holman), who was introduced by the Governor, said his Excellency had told them that there was no sentiment in New South Wales to-day except one of pride in the exploits of our men. That was true. He sometimes felt, however, that our men, who were, now back, thought, and justly thought, with less pride of the doings of their State when they considered whether they were left with or without proper support at the front. Taking all the States, however, as a whole, more volunteers went from New South Wales in proportion to population than from any other State, except Western Australia. (Applause.) We all took our hats off to the people of Western Australia. (Applause.) They did the right thing right through. Next to them, we showed the best figures in the way of recruiting. If our men were happy to be home again they would, in turn, understand that deep sentiments of gratitude and pride and affection filled the heart of every Australian, in looking back over their glorious record, and in seeing them back again. (Applause.)

In the opposite box sat the Minister for Recruiting (Mr. Orchard). He, too, had to make a speech, which he prefaced with the words "Gentlemen of Anzac"—a chivalrous little note that made a ready appeal to the audience.

THE LANDS.

DEPARTMENT SEVERELY CRITICISED.

MR. ALLARD'S REPORT

PERMANENT COMMISSION URGED.

Severe criticisms of Lands Department affairs are contained in the sectional report by Mr. G. Mason Allard, Public Service Royal Commissioner, of his inquiries therein.

The Royal Commissioner's final recommendation is as follows:—"I am of opinion that it is desirable the Lands Department should be administered by a permanent commission of three members, specially selected because of the possession of high personal qualities and particular qualifications gained by continuous and broad experience in connection with land matters, but that the powers and duties of the Public Service Board should extend to the department as at present in connection with staffs and the supervision requisite to secure and maintain efficiency and economy in internal administration."

He also recommends radical alterations of the present local land board system by the transfer of the existing 12 local land board offices to Sydney; a reduction in the number of landboard districts from 13 to, say, six; the abolition of "local members," and the termination of the existing system of dual staffs of district lands offices.

TOO MANY TENURES.

"I recognise that alteration in the land laws is a matter of Government policy," writes the Commissioner, "but insofar as it affects efficiency and economical administration I recommend that immediate attention be given to such legislation as is required to reduce materially the existing number of tenures."

The Commissioner also points out that the creation of local land board offices resulted in much duplication of work. He says:—"A further reason has been alleged for such that is absolutely unnecessary work in the Lands Department, which is that the notorious land scandals created the special need for particular care in the recording of all transactions and matters relating thereto." This has created a system whereby even routine matters pass successively through the hands of a number of officers, and the Commissioner attributes "much of the cumbrous, tedious, and protracted methods of the Lands Department to a desire to raise every possible barrier and take every precaution against a recurrence of the practices revealed during the land scandals."

At the same time Mr. Allard pays a very high tribute to the staff of the department and mentions that the system is in the main "one in which all the officers have been reared and trained, and, one might also add, enmeshed." But they are not responsible for the establishment and growth of the system, and the commissioner does not consider them blameworthy in respect to it. He specially commends the Under-Secretary (Mr. A. J. Hare) and the Chief Inspector (Mr. E. A. Bronsdon) for their earnest endeavour to elucidate all matters placed before the commission, and expresses the opinion that he was greatly impressed during the inquiry with the knowledge and capacity displayed by the senior officers. "The system has been the cause of much of this ability and knowledge being misdirected," says Mr. Allard.

POWER OF THE MINISTER.

The commissioner sets out at length the various classes of applications dealt with by land boards, and points out that certain sections of the Act confer a discretionary power upon the Minister to overrule or depart from the recommendation of the local land board.

"As the land board sits in an apparently judicial capacity," says the commissioner, "it might be thought that the recommendations would be final, subject only to appeal to the Land Appeal Court on points of law, or when it is claimed that the decision of the board is against evidence and the weight of evidence, or, in case of new evidence, being then referred back to the board for further hearing. But in point of fact, while the land board inquiry is held in public, its recommendations and decisions are subsequently reviewed not once, but by several officers in the head office." Mr. Allard considers it a most unsatisfactory feature of this review or series of reviews that the effect of evidence could be varied or entirely ignored on the presentation by a clerk in the head office of other views of the evidence, or even of other evidence. The commissioner saw instances in which a land board had recommended one applicant in preference to another, but through the representation of a member of Parliament the unsuccessful applicant had subsequently secured the preference of the Minister.

"Such representations," he writes, "may have been based upon perfectly sound premises, but they would be equally sound if placed before the local land board, with the added advantage of the principle being correct."

The Commissioner does not question the power of the Minister under the law to decide contrary to recommendation by the local land board, but bases his criticism upon the inefficiency of the system, lack of economy, and its demoralising effect upon the boards and officers of the department generally.

Mr. Allard draws attention to the fact that the nomination to the position of member of a local land board rests in the Parliamentary representative of the district, and, he adds: "This introduction of political patronage in appointment to a judicial body is a further reason why the local member of the land board should be abolished."

YES-NO POLICY.

The Royal Commissioner cites a number of interesting cases showing the circumlocution of the methods employed in deciding applications for land. This one is typical: The case cited deals with the proposed sale by auction of a small area in the metropolis. Mr. Allard says: "Nearly three years after the matter was initiated, the land was offered for sale by auction. The district surveyor recommended that a firm of auctioneers conduct the sale; the head of the alienation branch also recommended that an auctioneer conduct the sales; the head of the division wrote a submission that there was no necessity to employ an auctioneer; the Assistant Under-Secretary wrote a further submission that the sale be entrusted to a firm of auctioneers, and finally the Under-Secretary recommended that the services of an auctioneer should be engaged. The Commissioner comments: 'On such a comparatively trivial matter as the engaging of auctioneers to conduct a sale the successive recommendations were, 'Yes, Yes, No, Yes, No.'"

"THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT."

It is in his criticism of the work at the head office, however, that the Commissioner is most trenchant. After inspecting the local land board offices and noting the volume of work, he was able to form an estimate of the work in the head office, resulting from the activities of the country land offices.

"But," says the Commissioner, "even allowing a very wide margin, I found it difficult to imagine what the staff at the head office could possibly find to do if the work of the local land board offices were at all efficiently done." It did not take much investigation to learn that practically every local land board record is duplicated in the head office, while the practice of submission writing by successive officers, reviewing land board recommendations and decisions, has developed to such an extent as to more than once raise in one's memory the nursery rhyme of the 'house that Jack built.' This submission writing creates a material part of the work performed in the head office."

Mr. Allard also claims that a further cause of almost countless minutes and references is the rooted aversion even on the part of senior officers to shouldering responsibility.

The Royal Commissioner concludes his report with a large number of recommendations calculated to secure greater economy and efficiency in the administration of the Department. Among others he says:—

"That as a factor to minimising the present work of review of local land board decisions and recommendations and to encouraging and enhancing the efficiency of chairmen, legislation be introduced giving local land boards wider jurisdiction—subject to appeal to the Land Appeal Court—in such matters as Parliament may decide.

"That the system of 'lay' or local members of existing local land boards be abolished.

"That the present term 'local land board' be altered to 'local land court,' and that the chairman be hereafter known as 'land warden,' with headquarters in Sydney, but sitting in open court at places throughout their respective districts as at present."

PROHIBITION.

RETURNED SOLDIERS' DEMAND

MELBOURNE, Friday.

At a meeting of the interstate council of the Returned Sailors and Soldiers' Imperial League of Australia to-day, a motion was agreed to, with one dissentient, affirming that it was desirable that prohibition should be brought into operation during the period of demobilisation of the A.I.F.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

END OF SESSION.

FINAL STAGES OF BILLS.

After sitting continuously for 31 hours—from 4.30 p.m. on Wednesday until 11.30 p.m. on Thursday—members of the Legislative Assembly were called together again at 2.30 p.m. yesterday. It was the aim of the Government to conclude the business of the Legislative Assembly last night, so that the House would only require to sit next week in order to receive measures back from the Upper House.

I.W.W. COMMISSION.

The Attorney-General, Mr. Hall, said he had received a letter from Mr. Justice Street, in reply to an inquiry, stating that he hoped to be able to despatch his report on the I.W.W. inquiry to the Premier not later than the end of next week. Anything more definite than that the Commissioner did not like to say. There was a mass of material to be considered; the report would necessarily be a long one, and time must be allowed for revision.

Answering a question by an Opposition member, the Attorney-General stated that if, when the report was received, any legislation was necessary, the House would meet to consider it.

Replying to Mr. Brookfield, the Attorney-General stated that in the ordinary course the report would be laid on the table, but as the House would not be in session when it was received, steps would be taken to place the report in the hands of honorable members.

WOMEN FIRST OFFENDERS.

The Attorney-General moved the second reading of the First Offenders' (Women) Bill. He explained the bill was merely for the purpose of allowing minor offences charged against women who had not been previously convicted being heard in closed courts, and for the prohibition of the publication of the proceedings.

After the leader of the Opposition, Mr. John Storey, had supported the bill, Mr. Johnston (an Opposition member) strongly opposed it. He classed the measure as an attempt to introduce Star Chamber practices, and said the greatest deterrent to crime was the fear of publication of the trial.

There was a division of opinion on the Opposition benches about the bill. Mr. John Storey, Mr. Lang, Mr. Dooley, Mr. Osborne, Mr. Brookfield, and others told the Minister they would give him all the assistance possible to get it through. The leader of the Opposition told Mr. Johnston and Mr. Mutch, who opposed it, that the Women's Organising Committee of their own party had specially asked that the Government be helped to get it through.

The Attorney-General said the bill was only designed to protect women first offenders from the publicity of minor misdemeanours, in order to assist their reformation.

Mr. Johnston and Mr. Mutch persisted in their opposition, whereupon the Attorney-General asked Mr. Mutch to move the adjournment of the debate. The bill was accordingly shelved.

HOTEL RENTS REFUNDS.

On the motion of the Attorney-General, the Liquor (Refund of Rent) Bill was carried through its remaining stages without debate. Mr. Hall said the bill only did one thing, which was to allow the reduction of hotel rents proved to be justifiable because of the 6 o'clock closing to operate as from the date of the decision to close hotels at 6 o'clock p.m. It was necessary owing to a recent decision of the Full Court.

SUPERANNUATION BILL.

The Attorney-General also secured, without debate, the passage of the Superannuation Amendment Bill. Mr. Hall said a Superannuation Act had been passed some time, but its provisions were restricted in the Upper House not to come into operation until six months after the war had ended. This bill would bring the Act into operation generally on July 1 next. It would also provide that where Public servants, with 10 years' service, had died or broken down in the meantime, the benefits would accrue as from the date of the passing of the parent Act.

VENEREAL DISEASES BILL.

The third reading of the Venereal Diseases Bill was agreed to, and the measure sent on to the Legislative Council.

JUDGE'S PENSION.

The Attorney-General asked for leave to introduce a bill to grant Mr. Justice Heydon, when he retired at the end of the year, the pension of a Supreme Court Judge.

Mr. Robson opposed the motion. He said it was a dangerous thing to deal with such a matter at the fag end of the session.

When Mr. Brookfield rose and stated that he was opposed to the proposal, Mr. Hall asked the House to pass the motion and allow further discussion to stand over. The motion was carried.

PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS BILL.

The Parliamentary Elections (Amendment) Bill was further considered in committee.

On clause three, Mr. Walker moved that the number of members of the Legislative Assembly be reduced to 60, and the salary reduced from £500 to £300 a year.

The Treasurer (Mr. Fitzpatrick) contended that the amendment was outside the scope of the measure.

After discussion the chairman (Mr. Levy) ruled the amendment out of order.

Mr. Osborne moved an amendment for the retention of the single electorate system.

The Minister said that the amendment would have the effect of defeating the main principles of the bill.

The amendment was defeated on a division by 32 votes to 25.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Mr. Black made a personal explanation with reference to a statement made by Mr. Fuller (Chief Secretary) on the matter of cinema film censorships. In reply to Mr. Brookfield, Mr. Fuller said that a certain film which had been shown in New South Wales for some time had been passed by the Federal censors, but subsequently suppressed by the State censors in the interest of public morality. Mr. Black considered that that statement was "prompted by malice and dictated by ignorance and stupidity." The Federal censors (of which he was one) considered only films which came through the Customs-house. The film in question was produced in Australia, and had never been before the Federal censors. With reference to certain other films suppressed by the State board, after they had been passed by the Federal censors, he personally had never seen them, but he understood they were not suppressed because they were immoral, but because of the representation of the State police that the film held the police up to contempt and ridicule.

On the motion of the Solicitor-General (Mr. Garland) the Council approved of the purchase of the following properties for settlement by returned soldiers:—Dartbrook, near Aberdeen, 4230 acres, at £8/19/ per acre, estimated to make 18 to 20 farms; Dirnaseer, near Junee, 18,200 acres, £4/13/3, 34 farms; South Balladoran, near Balladoran, 2527 acres, £4, five farms, and Fordwich, near Singleton, 4080 acres, £6/7/6.

The Council in Committee agreed to the Assembly's resolution on the Trade Unions Re-registration Act, 1918.

The Superannuation Amendment Bill was taken through all its stages and passed.

Mr. George Black, speaking on the motion for the second reading of the Venereal Diseases Bill, said that it was a very good proposal, but he was not in favour of compulsory notification, as he was afraid it would lead to concealment.

Dr. Nash said that no medical man would disclose the name of a patient suffering from the disease. He did not think that they would be able to diminish the disease by Act of Parliament. There was a way in which good could be done, and that was by educating the people up to a high standard of personal honour. He took strong objection to the medical profession being made to take the place of the police or detectives.

Professor Peden expressed approval of the bill, the essence of which, he said, was compulsion.

The bill was taken through all stages, and passed with slight amendments.

The Liquor (Refund Rents) Bill and the Conveyancing Bill were also passed through all stages.

At 10.30 p.m. the President left the chair until 10 o'clock this morning.

MAILS DESTROYED BY FIRE.

CASINO, Friday.

The New England Company's mail lorry, with mails on board for all towns in the Richmond River district, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon, and with it 29 bags of mails and all paper mail. The driver of the car was W. E. Smith, and the only passenger a lad named Riley. After going a mile from Tabulam on the side of the range known as Curradubula, the rear part of the motor lorry was found to be on fire. The driver immediately pulled up and he and the lad threw a large number of bags clear of the fire, but the heat became so severe that operations had to cease. As far as is known all the Casino bags, with the exception of one letter bag, were destroyed, 40 bags for Lismore and the Tweed mail were saved. Thursday's mail is the heaviest during the week. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

FEDERAL SESSION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the House of Representatives Mr. Corboy (W.A.) was informed that up to October 31, 5858 applications for land for returned soldiers had been received, but only 3508 had been approved. Of the latter 1754 had been allotted holdings, and 403 had been placed either in group settlements or in training establishments preparatory to being allotted holdings. At the recent conference with the State Lands Departments, they had been asked definitely to provide a minimum of 17,000 holdings within the next 12 months. The Commonwealth Government proposed to make funds available to the State Governments to carry out public works upon which returned men would be employed. There was undoubtedly great difficulty in placing unskilled workmen, and this was often accentuated by the disinclination of many men to accept the employment offered. As, however, the department had now only 1722 men on its register awaiting employment out of 25,345 applicants, it was considered that the effort to provide employment had so far been fairly successful.

Mr. Watt informed Mr. Higgs (Q.) that negotiations for the sale of the Australian output to copper to the Imperial Government were still in progress under the direction of Mr. Hughes and the representatives of the Copper Producers' Association in London. The object was to renew the present contract until June 30, or three months after peace, whichever was the longer.

Mr. Bamford asked if the Government would suggest that when peace terms were being discussed the question of preference for sugar grown within the Empire would be considered.

Mr. Watt said that the matter had already received consideration, and, although it had not been specifically brought under Mr. Hughes's notice, he was aware of the Government's views, and would doubtless see that the matter was considered.

The leader of the Opposition, Mr. Tudor, suggested that any representations to the Peace Conference in regard to the protective policy of Australia might indicate the giving up by Australia of some of her self-governing rights to another body.

Mr. Watt: Mr. Hughes is thoroughly acquainted with his colleagues' views on the fiscal question in relation to Australia's hopes for reciprocity arrangements within the Empire, but there is no danger of Australia's fiscal rights being limited at this stage.

The debate was resumed on the War Precautions Bill, and had not concluded when the House rose at 4 p.m. till Tuesday.

In the Senate the Works Loan Bill was passed through all stages.

The Spirits Bill and the Distribution Bill were also passed.

The Senate adjourned till Tuesday next.

LORD MAYORALTY.

ELECTION ON MONDAY.

The aldermen of the City Council will assemble at noon on Monday to elect one of their number to be Lord Mayor for the ensuing year. Although a number of names have been mentioned in connection with the office, no definite selection has yet been made by any of the parties concerned. The Civic Reform and Labour parties in the council are expected to meet on Monday morning at 10 o'clock to consider the selection of candidates.

It is not yet known who will preside at the assembly which will elect the Lord Mayor. The retiring Lord Mayor, Mr. Joynton Smith, may take the chair for the occasion, but if he does he, of course, as he was not re-elected an alderman, will not have a vote.

The aldermen met at the Town Hall yesterday morning and were formally sworn-in for the ensuing term by Mr. Justice Gordon.

JUDD RELEASED ON BAIL.

AN APPEAL PENDING.

Ernest Edward Judd, a member of the Sydney Labour Council, who was convicted on Thursday by a jury on two counts of making statements calculated to prejudice recruiting, was yesterday released on bail pending an appeal to the High Court on questions raised by his counsel during the trial. Judd, who was tried at Darlinghurst Criminal Court, before Mr. Justice Ferguson, was strongly recommended to mercy. It had been contended that the information (which had been signed by Ernest Lyttleton Groom, on behalf of the Federal Attorney-General) was bad and that the report of the Hansard proceedings of the Governor-General's conference on recruiting should have been admitted as evidence in Judd's favour during the trial.

Mr. Justice Ferguson said he had come to the conclusion that the question raised was arguable, and he would reserve it for consideration by the High Court. In the meantime he would postpone sentence.

Judd was released on bail as before, in a surety of £400, to appear at the next sittings of the Criminal Court unless otherwise directed.

Counsel gave an undertaking that Judd would refrain from making any references in public to the war and until peace has been signed.

Mr. Lamb, K.C., and Mr. Bathgate (instructed by the Commonwealth Crown Solicitor) appeared for the Crown, and Mr. Windeyer, K.C., Mr. Mack, K.C., and Mr. Watkins (instructed by Mr. A. C. Roberts) for Judd.

TRAM MEN'S INCREASES.

DECLARED INADEQUATE.

Mr. A. J. Wormald, secretary to the Government Tramways Electrical Branch Workers' Association, has prepared a table showing the increases granted to employees in the service during the present year. He says that the carriage and waggon builders' wages had been increased from 13/ per day to 13/9; markers-out from 14/ to 14/9; hair teasers from 9/6 to 10/3; fitters' labourers, coppersmiths' labourers, boilermakers' labourers, dressers, from 9/6 to 11/4; storemen, first-class, from 11/2 to 11/11, second-class from 10/9 to 11/6, third-class from 10/5 to 11/2, fourth-class from 10/2 to 10/9.

Mr. Warton, secretary to the Tramway Union, said that the organisation was not satisfied with the amount of the increases recently granted by the Commissioners. He said that the wages paid by private companies in other States, particularly Queensland, were far in excess of those paid by the Commissioners. In conclusion he said: "The workers consider it an insult to be offered such an increase, and I do not think they will take it."

DEFENCE DEPARTMENT'S MOTOR CARS.

PERTH, Friday.

The Defence Department sold by auction six motor cars. One, a 20 horse-power Napier, costing £600, realised £145; a presentation Maxwell, £30; another presentation car, £15. A Napier ambulance brought £57.

VENEREAL DISEASES BILL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—We, the undersigned, on behalf of the executive committee of the New South Wales Association of Master Pharmacists, desire to record our entire approval and endorsement of the principle laid down in the Venereal Diseases Bill now before the State Parliament. Pharmacists as a class have not by any means made a practice of treating venereal disease. Of the five hundred or so pharmacists in business in New South Wales a very few may have done so. For these we hold no brief. Of the remainder a very great number have made it a strong rule not to do so. Some on rare occasions have reluctantly done so under circumstances which made it very difficult for them to say no.

We feel sure, however, that fellow-members of our profession as a whole look forward with gratification to the great good which must result from this bill. We note, nevertheless, that the framers of this bill in one respect have apparently committed an oversight, inasmuch as, while every care is taken that the unfortunate victim of this disease shall not be treated or prescribed for by any but a qualified person, no provision whatever is made to prevent him from having that which may have been prescribed for him dispensed by an unqualified person.

Pharmacists by their training are undoubtedly best fitted to carry out the dispensing and compounding of medical prescriptions. It therefore would seem only right in the interests of those whom this bill seems to protect that the pharmacists registered under the laws of this State, and pharmacists only, should carry out dispensing in this particular instance.

Pharmacists in Victoria were, at a recent conference with medical men, paid a very high compliment by one of the leading practitioners, who congratulated them on the exemplary manner in which they had observed the provisions of the Act, and the hearty co-operation which they had shown in helping to make the Act effective.

We are confident that pharmacists in this State will not be behind their confreres in Victoria in this regard.

We are, etc.,
FRANK LLOYD, President.
ALEX SADLER, Vice-President.
JOHN KERR WILSON, Hon. Treasurer.
L. J. THOMPSON, Secretary.

FINANCIAL.

BIG LOAN POLICY.

In view of Mr. Holman's disclaimer of the whole responsibility for the whole of the expenditure from loans since 1910-11, and his claim that the great business boards of the State, the Railway Commissioners, the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board, and the Harbour Trust must share in that responsibility, it is of interest to ascertain what exactly were the expenditures by those boards from loan moneys during the past eight years. Compilations by the Treasury differ from the figures published by the Government Statistician for each year's loan expenditure. The totals which we gave two weeks ago were taken from the publications of the Government Statistician, and they differ from the Treasury compilation on occasions by hundreds of thousands of pounds being sometimes more and sometimes less than the Treasury figures. The expenditures by the business boards, according to the Treasury figures, and excluding the amounts spent on duplication of the railways, and on resumptions by the Harbour Trust, are:—

	Rly. Commissioners.	Tramways.	Water and Sewerage.	Harbour Trust.
1910-11	£964,006	£246,602	£282,904	£216,109
1911-12	1,382,715	474,404	350,418	341,321
1912-13	1,576,756	879,281	490,501	391,653
1913-14	2,171,285	731,345	518,615	411,610
1914-15	1,667,217	278,467	632,861	358,840
1915-16	1,498,529	172,419	822,370	367,463
1916-17	1,014,548	112,464	714,275	315,768
1917-18	848,178	101,934	548,245	211,852

We may also make another comparison giving the totals spent by the boards, on this occasion including with these totals the amounts spent on duplication of lines and by the Harbour Trust in land resumptions, the amount spent under Ministerial control, and the total. It will be seen by this table that up to 1916-17 the amount spent by the boards consistently exceeded the amount spent under Ministerial control. This was due to the duplication of the railway lines. The comparison is as follows:—

	Under Boards. £	Under Ministerial Control. £	Total. £
1910-11	2,150,653	1,487,466	3,638,119
1911-12	3,180,988	2,365,917	5,546,905
1912-13	4,806,077	3,560,370	8,366,897
1913-14	5,169,120	3,549,281	8,718,401
1914-5	4,424,005	2,902,214	7,326,219
1915-16	4,425,282	3,816,200	8,241,482
1916-17	3,245,338	4,190,588	7,435,926
1917-18	2,159,401	2,462,851	4,622,252

In the eight years under review there was spent of loan moneys a sum amounting to £53,755,000. In the previous eight years there was spent from loan moneys £19,152,000. The figures for the later period are from the Treasury records, and for the earlier period from the Statistical Register. From 1902 to 1910 the debt increased by £4/12/ per head, and from 1910 to 1917 it increased by £18/0/9 per head. These totals throw further light on Mr. Holman's exposition of the loan expenditure during the time he has been in office. The reasons for that large expenditure may be divided into three: (1) Arrears left over by predecessors; (2) the fact that the Ministries of which he was a member had their own public works policies to carry out; and (3) the necessity of pushing ahead with construction if works were to become quickly revenue-producing, in place of having a lot of capital lying idle on partly constructed works. Are these reasons taken each by itself a valid reason for increase in expenditure, and, if so, do they together justify the large increase shown above? It would add further to our knowledge if the Treasurer were to specify the amount of arrears of construction left over, and the amount which has been overtaken of those arrears, the works which were left undone that is not actually initiated in the time of the Premier's predecessors, but which should have been commenced and finished before the year 1910-11, and the works with which his Government pushed on with in order to bring them to the revenue-producing stage at the earliest possible moment. It would also add to the enlightenment of the electors if the Treasurer were to have prepared a statement detailing work by work the amount of money already spent on each work, and the amount to be spent before completion. Thus would the country know to what it is committed.

WAR RISK INSURANCES.

Messrs. Wm. Haughton and Co. are advised by cable from London that the Imperial Government is not accepting war risk insurances after next Monday, December 9.

COMPANY NEWS.

A meeting of shareholders of the Australian Mutual Fire Insurance Society, Ltd., was held yesterday, Mr. S. H. Cary, chairman of directors, presiding. A resolution was passed providing that after the words "annually divided," in clause 29 of the deed of settlement, the following words be added:—"And also for the purpose of providing further payment in whole or part of the unpaid capital of the shareholders, or for any shares that may be issued to the shareholders."

Mr. J. S. Charteris Black, Melbourne manager of the Eagle, Star, and British Dominions Insurance Company, Ltd., has accepted the position of foreign superintendent of the Insurance Office of Australia, Ltd.

LONDON FINANCIAL CABLES.

HENRY BULL AND CO.

LONDON, Dec. 5.

The report of Henry Bull and Company for the year ended July 20 shows a profit of £44,613. A final dividend at the rate per annum of 10 per cent. is recommended, and the sum of £23,883 is added to the reserve fund.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The market for wire appeared somewhat brighter yesterday. No. 10 galvanised wire changed hands at £64, and sales of barbed wire were made at from £61 to £63, according to gauge. Screws were good property at previous levels. Explosives were well held. A circular letter issued by a well known firm stated that in consequence of the high ruling prices for raw materials, such as lead and copper, it did not anticipate any reduction in the prices of ammunition for sporting arms for some time to come.

There was no movement in jute prices. Woolpacks were quoted at 5/9, branbags at 12/, and cornsacks at 9/3 net to rails. It is understood that the Government intends to take over the stocks of cornsacks on spot, which have not gone into consumption, either wholly or partially, which will be redistributed to meet the balance of requirements in New South Wales, at the contract price with the original purchaser. In view of Australian needs practically having been filled by arrivals, it is not expected that the Minister for Shipping will afford the liberal shipping facilities which have been ruling of late, that is to say, that freight hitherto intended for Australia from Calcutta will be released in favour of the Imperial Government. The "Argus" says that so far as the original buyers from the Government in Melbourne are concerned, it remains to be seen how far supplies compare with — outlet.

Oils were quiet. Linseed oil cleared at 7/8½ and 7/10½. For turpentine there was a wide range of quotations. A parcel could have been secured at 5/9, but for a small lot 6/3 was wanted. Whitelead in the cwt packages brought to £86 a ton. Holders of castor oil were slightly weaker. A fair price appeared to be 9/6. China oil brought to 11/6, and Japanese cod oil to 6/3. No. 1 rapeseed oil was offered at 10/, but the market was bare of colza oil.

LONDON METAL QUOTATIONS.

The Australian Metal Exchange reports that the London closing mean metal quotations on December 4, were as follow:—

Copper, stan. spot	£122/5/	Ton	Unch.
Copper, 3 months	122/5/	Ton	Unch.
Copper, electrolytic	135	Ton	Unch.

STATION PRODUCE SALES.

The Sydney Wool Selling Brokers' Association reports:—

Sheepskins.—55,231 were catalogued. Woolled sorts were unchanged, but pelts were irregular and inclined towards still lower values. Quotations: Crossbred, fullwools (medium to fine quality, best /12½ to /13 per lb, exceptional lines to /14), ordinary /11 to /12; medium wools, /8½ to /10½; short wools, /6 to /8½; quarter wools, /3½ to /5½; pelts, /1 to /4½. Merino, full wools, best /13 to /13½, exceptional lines to /14½, ordinary /12 to /13; medium wools, /9½ to /12½; short wools, /7 to /9½; quarter wools, /3 to /4½; pelts, /1 to /3½. Lambs, crossbred (woolled), /8½ to /12; merino, /4½ to /8.

Hides.—4879 were forward. An exceptionally buoyant market ruled, and the great bulk of the sound hides forward made schedule prices, while faulty sorts realised distinctly improved figures. Calfskins were a shade easier. Quotations: Queensland butchers' hides: Heavy weights (50lb and up), to /11 per lb; medium weights (44lb to 49lb), to /11; light weights (30lb to 43lb), to /11. New South Wales butchers' hides: Extra stout picked lots, to /14; heavy weights (50lb and up), few picked lots to /11, ordinary and good /10½ to /10½; medium weights (43lb to 49lb), few picked lots to /11, ordinary to good /10½ to /10½; light weights (30lb to 42lb), few picked lots to /11½, ordinary to good /10½ to /11; cut hides to /10½, faulty to /9½, bulls to /16½; dry hides to /13; calf to 12/ each; yearlings to 25/; horsehides to 15/.

PRODUCE INWARD.

LAUNCESTON (Tas.), Friday.

The Koonya left Devonport this afternoon for Sydney, with 534 bags potatoes, 1547 oats, 218 turnips, 56 wheat, 27 peas, 613 bales straw, 17 cases gooseberries, 22,549 feet timber.

MINING.

Business in mining shares was somewhat limited yesterday. The discussion of the tin-buying problem in the House of Representatives provided a theme for the consideration of operators in tin stocks. The refusal of American buyers to make further purchases of Australian tin leaves no choice of action, and a "free" market on the London Metal Exchange, subject to local freight conditions, is the only consolation which the producer is to receive, some thanks being due to the delay of the Commonwealth shipbuilding programme and the mantle of secrecy which has been thrown over proceedings in connection with the mysterious tin producers' association. Local tin stocks were generally inactive, while Malayan stocks figured at lower rates. The statement in the House of Representatives that copper mines might have to close down at the end of the year was not relished by holders of copper scrip, and a weak market prevailed. Hampdens effected a recovery to 73/6 later in the day. Mount Morgan were sold forward at 25/6 on the strength of the reported closing down of the Many Peaks mine. Barrier stocks were quiet, and displayed but little movement. British advanced 1/6, however, to 46/9 on the announcement of a dividend of 4/ per share. Local gold enterprises met a firm market, but Westonias were inclined to weaken.

STOCK EXCHANGE SALES.

The following mining sales were listed:—

Copper: Mount Morgan, six weeks 25/6; Mount Cuthbert, 3/9½; Hampden, 73/1½, six weeks 13/3, cash 13/1½, 13/3, 13/3, 13/6; C.S.A., paid, six weeks 20/9, cash 20/6; Mount Lyell, 27/.

Gold: Mount Dudley, six weeks 5/10, cash 6/1, 6/, six weeks 5/9, cash 6/, 6/, six weeks 5/10, cash 6/1, six weeks 5/10½, six weeks 5/10, cash 6/2, five weeks 6/; Hawkin's Hill Central, paid, 2/; Tyrconnell, paid, 3/1; Gundagai Long Tunnel, paid, 13/.

Silver: British B.H. (old), 45/3, 46/6, 46/9; B.H. South, 57/, 57/3; Junction North, 13/3; B.H. Junction, con., six weeks 7/, cash 7/; B.H. Options, £3/15/, £3.

Tin: Vegetable Creek, 7/8, six weeks 7/3, cash 7/8, 7/9; Carpathia, con., 11/9, six weeks 12/, cash 11/8, six weeks 12/; White Crystal, 1/11; Kamunting, 31/; Larut, 60/, six weeks 60/.

BRITISH B.H. PROPRIETARY CO.

LONDON, Dec. 5.

The British B.H. Proprietary Co. has declared an interim dividend of 4/ per share. The net profit for the half-year ended June 30 was £114,753, which sum does not include balances estimated at £90,000, to be received from the final realisation of products.

HILL END GOLD FIELD.

Under the direction of the Minister for Mines (Mr. J. C. L. Fitzpatrick) a publication entitled "The Hill End Tambaroora Gold Field," has been issued by the department as a result of the detailed geological survey of the field by Mr. L. E. Harper, F.G.S., Government Surveyor. The early history of the field receives considerable attention, and the more modern mining developments are fully dealt with. Plates and diagrams illustrate the report, in addition to a geological map, together with plans and sections of the various mine workings.

A new interpretation has been given to the geology of the district, and promises to have an important bearing on the economic life of this mining field, which has produced 50 tons of gold in the past. The origin and nature of the auriferous reef are discussed, and suggestions made as to future prospecting.

MANY PEAKS MINE CLOSING.

BRISBANE, Friday.

Rumours were in circulation at Mount Morgan on Thursday to the effect that the Many Peaks mine, from which the Mount Morgan company has been drawing supplies of ore for fluxing purposes, was to be permanently closed down on December 13. The general manager of the Mount Morgan Company (Mr. A. Boyd) is away south at present, but the general secretary states that men at the Many Peaks have received notice that work will be discontinued there on December 13.

THE MINING INDUSTRY IN TASMANIA.

HOBART, Friday.

The Tasmanian Minister for Mines delivered his Ministerial statement in the House of Assembly yesterday, showing the gross value of the mineral output during the year to be £1,625,979. The chief products and values were: Blister copper, 5949 tons, value £810,145; tin, 2369 tons, value £451,943; silver and lead ore, 6074 tons, value £101,016; zinc, 1633 tons, value £65,568; gold, 15,196oz, value £64,552; coal, 63,288 tons, value £39,218; scheelite, 180 tons, value £32,279; wolfram, 159 tons, value £28,348; osmiridium, 810oz, value £16,481. The total value of the mineral output showed an increase of £87,059 over the previous year. The copper output showed a decrease of £40,003 in value, and silver and lead a decrease of £70,678. Tin showed an increase of £74,315, and gold of £5132.

DISCOVERY OF MOLYBDENITE.

ROCKHAMPTON, Friday.

It is reported a discovery of molybdenite was made on the hill overlooking Yeppoon township, and that samples have been bagged and sent to Mount Morgan for assay.

AUSTRALIAN WAR PHOTOGRAPHS.

Over 130 photographs of scenes on the Australian front are contained in a handsome volume entitled "From the Australian Front," which has just been issued by Cassell and Company, Ltd., of 82 Pitt-street, Sydney. A British authority, referring to this book says: "It is the finest collection of war photographs I have ever seen." The photographs date from the first landing of the A.I.F. in France to the preparation of the volume in 1917, and include pictures taken frequently during intervals in the actual fighting at Fleurbaix, Armentieres, Pozieres, Mouquet Farm, the Somme in winter, Flers, Martinpuich, Le Sars, Bapaume, Bullecourt, the Hindenburg line, Messines, Polygon Wood, and the battleground of the great struggle at Ypres. The book includes photographs of every battle and battlefield in which the A.I.F. was involved, from romelles to Polygon Wood. The Commanders of the Five Australian Divisions, with Mr. C. E. W. Bean, were the committee which produced this volume, and the profits go to the A.I.F. Patriotic Funds, which have already benefited by an amount of £4500 from sales of this and "The Anzac Book."

COALMINERS' WAGES.

The council of the Australasian Coal and Shale Employees' Federation, at a meeting yesterday, decided to ask the employers for an increase in wages from January 1.

RETURNED SOLDIERS.

IN RAILWAY DEPARTMENT.

Mr. Ball, Minister for Works and Railways, yesterday received the following report from the Railway Commissioners:—

"Where a returned soldier employee, after resuming duty, is able to take up his former duties, he is paid the full salary or wage applicable to his position, and any military pension which he may be allowed by the defence authorities is not taken into consideration.

"Where a returned soldier employee, after resuming duty, is compelled, by reason of wounds sustained or illness contracted on active service, to resume in a position carrying a salary or wage less than he was in receipt of at date of military discharge, and his military pension added to the salary or wage for the position in which he resumes does not equal the amount which he would have been paid for a normal period's work had he resumed in the position he occupied at date of military discharge, the difference is paid to him."

It is further pointed out that where returned soldiers lose time from causes directly attributable to war service the department pays them the difference between normal time and the amount they received prior to their discharge from the military. It is declared that this is the only State which makes up the difference between military and departmental pay of railway employees.

CHEER-OH GIRLS' NEW REVUE

The Cheer-Oh Girls celebrated their second anniversary before a crowded house last night at the Repertory Theatre by producing their new revue, appropriately entitled "Chirrups." Mrs. Bennett White, besides directing the new show to success, kept the audience amused with her clever character impersonation of a penniless dude, as "Burlington Bertie;" and another smart contribution was Miss Amy Bice's musical illustrations at the piano of various incidents in a humorously sensational story. Special efforts had been devoted to the Red Indian scene, showing the bonnie girls (in costume) in their forest camp. The scene occasioned excuse for the charmful chorus "Navaho" and two songs, "Will o' the Wisp" and "Dream Boat," by Miss Glwadys Finlater and Miss Dorrie Ward, respectively. The latter headed the girls in "The Blue Dragoons," and appeared as Jeanne d'Arc in shining armour at the climax of a martial song by Miss Gertrude Edwards. The latter sang, as a French poilu, "Somewhere in France is the Lily," during which England, Scotland, Ireland, and the dominions rallied to the dashing soldier's side. Mrs. Victor Morse (whistling), Misses Violet Roberts, Beatrice and Irene Edmonds, Ann Reay, Thora Wood, and Edith Dickerson assisted to secure an enthusiastic reception for the new revue.

LYONS EXHIBITION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Commonwealth is to be represented at the exhibition to be held at Lyons, France, from March 1 to 15 next.

RED CROSS ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Australian Red Cross will be held in the Sydney Town Hall on Monday evening, and her Excellency Lady Helen Munro Ferguson, president of the Australian branch, will preside. Lady Davidson, D.B.E., General Howse, V.C., and Lieutenant-Colonel Murdoch, C.M.G., will be among the speakers. It is probable that Lady Newdegate, wife of the Governor of Tasmania, will also take part in the meeting. Lieutenant-Colonel Murdoch, after an absence of more than three years as Red Cross Commissioner, will give an account of the work of the organisation abroad, and a film will be screened showing various features of the work in England and France.

ON TONIC SOL-FA.

We have received from the Tonic Sol-fa Association of New South Wales, a booklet entitled "Music—the Tonic Sol-fa Method of Teaching." After alluding to the proposed step to abolish the tonic sol-fa method from the State schools, the reader is briefly acquainted with what the method is and how it is taught, also what is thought of it, and why it should be developed throughout our elementary and secondary schools. The opinions, which include those of great scientists, educational authorities, and leading musicians, provide a convincing mass of evidence in favour of tonic sol-fa both for adults and juniors, and are right up to date, containing an opinion from Dr. McNaught, F.R.A.M., editor of the "Musical Times" and "School Music Review," dated London August 6, 1918. Copies of the booklet are obtainable, gratis, from the hon. secretary of the association, Mr. J. M. Dempster, King and York streets, Sydney.

ST. IGNATIUS COLLEGE.

In presenting the prizes at St. Ignatius' College, Riverview, on Thursday, the Governor (Sir Walter Davidson) referred to the fact that 294 students had joined the colours, and 53 had been killed.

The Governor was welcomed by the principal (the Rev. Father Gartlan). Amongst many parents and friends of students were Lady Hughes, Mrs. Holman, and Mr. and Mrs. John Lane Mullins.

The Prefect of Studies mentioned that the decorations won by the college boys comprised:—D.S.O. (1), M.C. (2), Croix de Guerre (1), D.C.M. (1), M.M. (6), M.B.E. (1), and mentioned in despatches (13).

The following special prizes were presented:—

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Pony and galloway racing at Rosebery is the only metropolitan fixture for this afternoon, but race meetings will be held in the country districts at Newcastle, Bega, and Albury; Mentone Racing Club caters for Victorian sportsmen; South Australian Tattersall's Club holds a meeting at Adelaide; the Western Australia Turf Club furnishes a day's sport in Western Australia; and Albion Park Jockey Club's fixture provides sport at Brisbane.

The general entry for Tattersall's Club annual race meeting at Randwick on the 28th inst., and 1st prox., closes with the secretary, Mr. J. B. Olliffe, at 4 p.m. on Monday next, and the ten events for which nominations are invited carry in the aggregate 2500 sovs.

The Summer Meeting of the Newcastle Jockey Club takes place this afternoon, and a programme of half a dozen events is down for discussion. The track is reported to be good going, and large fields are assured. Metropolitan visitors can reach the scene of action in good time by the trains leaving the Central Railway Station at 6.40, 8.15, 8.55, and 9.20 a.m., and the return trip can be made by the trains leaving Newcastle at 4.45 and 5 p.m., the southern train stopping at Broadmeadow at 5.10 p.m.

Pony and galloway racing will be the attraction at Rosebery this afternoon, and owing to the numerous entries several of the races will be run in divisions, thereby extending the programme to a dozen events. The usual transit arrangements by special and ordinary trams will be in vogue, and the sport commences at 12.30 p.m. The results may be anticipated as under:—Maiden Handicap: First division, Sir Clarence, Whyariki, Myra B; second division, Prince Maranui, Kibah, Minefield; third division, Miss Laddo, Lady Hazel, Eldolia. Fourteen-one Handicap: O'Molly, Lady Liddell, Berg. Flying Handicap: First division, Clovelly, Vocalist, Belmore; second division, Arahune, Presage, Lord Mooltan; third division, Breona, Soultetti, Kismet. Encourage Stakes: First division, Captain Albert, Sir Area, Dainty Stitch; second division, Warberst, Derwent D., The Coin. Fourteen-two Handicap: First division, Traclu, Moorfield Lass, Quickstep; second division, Master Glengork, Stanfield, Miss Wedgwood. Rosebery Handicap: Murlan, Marigold, Sir Frit.

The following race meetings have been granted registration by the A.J.C.:—Wallabadah Jockey Club (January 1), Narrabri Jockey Club (January 1 and 2), Wombat Jockey Club (December 26), and Narromine H.A.C.B.S. (January 1).

LATEST SCRATCHINGS.

The following scratchings were recorded yesterday:

Smith), ½m; Mascotte (W. J. Duncan), 1m; and Desdemona (A. C. Roberts), scr. As advertised, two steamers will follow, finally leaving Fort Macquarie at 3.10 o'clock, after calling at the usual Balmain and other wharfs.

SWIMMING.

Following are the fixtures of the Manly Amateur Swimming Club for December:—To-day, 220yds General and 100yds Junior Handicaps; Dec. 14, 440yds General, 220yds Junior, and Diving Handicaps; Dec. 21, 100yds General and 50yds Junior Handicaps; Dec. 25, 55yds Xmas Handicap, 100yds Senior Club Championship and Club Photo.; Dec. 28, 300yds Brace-Relay, General, and Diving Handicaps.

BOXING.

Llew Edwards, the Welsh champion boxer, will make his last Australian appearance to-night at the Hippodrome, prior to his departure for Manila next week. Tommy Ryan, a prominent Australian featherweight, will be his opponent in a ten-round contest. The supporting bouts will be Pat Moran v Jim Flett (10 rounds), Billy M'Donald v Clarrie Smith (10 rounds), and Fred. M'Gowan v Roy Sullivan (six rounds).

OPEN-AIR BAND MUSIC.

The State Military Band will play in Hyde Park at 7.30 p.m. to-morrow, when a selection from "The Gondoliers" will be included.

The Eastern Suburbs United Band, under the direction of H. W. A. Wedd, will perform in Government House grounds to-morrow afternoon, at 3.15 p.m.

OUR NATIVE FLOWERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In further reference to Kuring-gai Chase, I would also point out that, in addition to the main motor roads from Turramurra to Bobbin Head and Mount Colah to Bobbin Head, there are also three Government track approaches to the "Chase," viz., Kuring-gai Station to Cowan Creek, Berowra Station to Cowan Creek, and Cowan Station to Jerusalem Bay. On these three lines of approach there is absolutely no difficulty whatever in taking away as many flowers as may be desired. Threatening notices to flower takers are very numerous, but beyond this I cannot see that the Kuring-gai Chase trustees have made much headway.

I am, etc.,

Dec. 6. HARRY WHITHOUSE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The correspondence in your journal is a very healthy sign of the desire of the people to have legislation enacted to protect the native flowers peculiar to this State. In August, 1897, I introduced a bill to protect the native flora, but only succeeded in getting it past the second reading stage. My bill aimed at making it a penal offence for people to remove any of the plants mentioned in the schedule from Crown lands or lands dedicated for any public purpose. When introducing the measure I was convinced that certain species were in danger of being exterminated, and since then I have watched their gradual destruction, the work of vandals making the Crown lands and reserves less attractive and practically denuded of certain species altogether. I only wanted to protect fourteen species whose very existence was threatened. If such a course were thought desirable twenty years ago, how much more necessary is it now?

I am, etc., FRANK FARNELL,

Dec. 6. Chairman Nat. Park Trust.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It is gratifying to note that some of the lovers of wild flowers are making protest against their destruction. As week-ends, coming through Parramatta and The Spit, many cyclists, motor cyclists, and motorists are overburdened with wild flowers, who cannot possibly use a quarter of what they have picked. They all break off the waratah, which means that that branch does not bear flowers for the next year. If they only had the sense to cut them clean with a knife the branch would bear the following season. I hope the authorities will insist on a close season. I am, etc.,

Dec. 6. W. A. COX.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In an attempt to prevent at least some of the careless vandalism which is every day so apparent, a number of lovers of our native flora took steps recently to form a wild flower protection society in Woy Woy. The new society is meeting with a fair measure of support, and hopes to be able to do some useful work in the Brisbane Water district. The question of framing safeguards against wild flower destruction is a most difficult one, but is surely capable of solution. It is hardly possible to do much by legal enactment, but a great deal can be done by educating the public, and particularly the children in the schools, to exercise care in gathering blooms. Within the next few weeks the Christmas bush will be in flower. This beautiful flower has probably suffered more than any other through thoughtless destructiveness. One often sees in the tourist districts huge branches being carried away, branches which have been rudely broken off the tree which, more often than not, does not survive the treatment it has received. A few years ago the hills around Woy Woy were coloured with the brilliant pink-blue of this delicate flower, but to-day scarcely a tree is to be seen. It is almost too late to do much good in wild-flower preservation in this part—the hand of the vandal has been hard—but some good can at least be done, and it is hoped that other districts may take up the task of wild-flower preservation and thus extend the good work to all parts of the Commonwealth.

Some of the suggestions made by members of the Brisbane Water Wild Flower Protection Society as practical measures for carrying out the objects of the society are as follow:—(1) All Crown lands to be set aside as wild flower preserves, and the taking of flowers from such lands to be absolutely prohibited; (2) wild flower gatherers and sellers to be licensed; (3) that it be made an offence at law to be found with wild flowers broken off (instead of cut), or torn up by the roots; (4) permanent signs to be erected in prominent positions, such as railway stations, etc., impressing upon the public the desirability of preserving native flora.

I am, etc., C. J. STAPLES,

Hon. Sec. Brisbane Water Wild Flower

Woy Woy, Dec. 5. Protection Society.

AMUSEMENTS.

HER MAJESTY'S.—"OH, OH, DELPHINE."

"Oh, Oh, Delphine," book by C. M. S. M'Lellan, music by Ivan Caryll, will be produced for the first time at Her Majesty's to-night. The cast will include Gladys Moncrieff as Delphine, Florence Young as Bimboula, a Persian woman, Olive Godwin as Simone, Phil Smith as Alphonse Bouchotte, Leslie Holland as Colonel Pomponnet, Reginald Roberts as Victor Jolibeau.

On December 21 "Delphine" will be transferred by the J. C. Williamson management to the Theatre Royal to make way for the production of the Christmas revue "Hello Everybody" with a reorganised combination.

CHANGES AT THE PALACE THEATRE.

"Eyes of Youth" will enter this afternoon and evening upon its last week with Emelie Polini as the fascinating heroine of the many-sided dramatic scheme. Next Saturday afternoon Messrs. J. and N. Tait, postponing the proposed revival of "De Luxe Annie" until Boxing Day, will respond to many requests for repertory pieces as the regular bill, by staging "The Doctor's Dilemma" at the matinee and for five nights, followed on December 20 by "How He Lied to Her Husband" and "The Pigeon." Plans open at Nicholson's on Monday.

CRITERION—"NOBODY'S WIDOW."

Avery Hopwood's smart comedy, "Nobody's Widow," will be revived at the Criterion after a lapse of years with Muriel Starr once again as Roxane, and a new cast placing Frank Harvey as the Duke of Morland, from whom the heroine is separated, Louis Kimball as Ned Stevens, Ian Maclaren as Alexius, Norma Mitchell as Betty Jackson, and Marion Marcus Clarke also included.

TIVOLI—"EVERYBODY'S DOING IT."

The new revue, "Everybody's Doing It," will be produced at 2.20 and at 8 p.m. at the Tivoli, with Charles H. Workman and Fayette Perry prominently in place with Frank Greene and Lottie Sargent. Florence Fox, a soubrette from New York, Paris, and London theatres, Jose Baptiste, a violinist last from South Africa, J. A. Lipman, Yiddish comedian, June and May, new dancers, and Elsie Parkes, N. Hugh Hankey, and Peggie Peate will appear.

PLAYHOUSE.—PIERROTS' FAREWELL.

The group of Pierrots, headed by Mr. Sydney James, will close their wonderfully long and prosperous season at the Playhouse with final performances this afternoon and evening. A hearty send-off is their due, and they will doubtless get it, the more so because some of the best song and dance numbers, favourite sketches in character, musical ensembles, jokesome pieces, and uproarious laughter caused by Billy's impudence, will be supplemented by the burlesque "Lies of Truth."

CONSERVATORIUM OF MUSIC.

This afternoon, at 2.30, there will be an extra orchestral concert, the programme, chosen by plebiscite, consisting of: Overture, "Leonora No. 3," and Tschaikowsky's "Pathetique" Symphony. Miss Pattie Russell will be the vocalist in Schubert's "Shepherd on the Rock," and Miss Jenny Cullen, in the Saint-Saens Violin Concerto in B Minor. Box plan at Nicholson's.

"OUR MISS GIBBS."

The Railway and Tramway Musical Society will produce "Our Miss Gibbs" at the Railway Institute to-night (7.45) and December 9, 10, 11, 12, and 14, in aid of the 18th Battalion Comforts Fund. The cast will include Misses Lydia Sears (Mary), Caldicott, Barry, McCauley; and Mrs. Edwards; Messrs. Frank Ryan (Timothy), Walker, Dugmore, McMichael, McCardell, Clayton, and Brazell, with full chorus and orchestra. Plan at Paling's.

THE GIRL FROM U.S.A.

The last night of a successful season of this piece will be given at the Repertory Theatre to-night. This is the Sydney Academy's 100th performance in aid of patriotic and other funds. Miss Val. Hewitt as the Girl; Mr. R. A. Long as Bertie; and Mr. Les Williams as the waiter, are prominent in the fun-making.

MR. HARRY THOMAS'S PUPILS.

An elocutionary and dramatic recital will be given by Mr. Harry Thomas and pupils at St. James's Hall to-night, at 7.45 o'clock. The programme will include plays, recitations, and musical monologues. Messrs. Eric Harrison and G. Vern Barnett will assist. The plan is at Paling's.

MR. REX DE CAIROS REGO'S PUPILS.

An invitation vocal and pianoforte recital will be given by the pupils of Mr. Rex De Cairos Rego at King's Hall on Monday next, when operatic songs and ballads and classic and romantic piano pieces will form an attractive programme. The plan is at Paling's.

MADAME ADA BAKER'S CONCERT.

At King's Hall next Wednesday a complimentary concert will be tendered to Madame Ada Baker by her pupils. The concert will be under the patronage of the Minister for Education, Mr. Augustus James, M.L.A., and Mr. R. B. Orchard, M.H.R. The plan is at Paling's.

MISS BERYL STARLING'S RECITAL.

At her recital at St. James's Hall next Thursday night Miss Starling will play Benjamin Dale's "Sonata for Piano in D Minor," and other pieces, and will be assisted by Dorrie Ward, Gladys Callaghan, Warwick Mackenzie, Harry Thomas, W. E. Lewis, and Rex De Cairos Rego. The plan is at Paling's.

PANTOMIME AT BONDI.

"Snow-White and the Seven Dwarfs" will be the theme of the pantomime at the Coronation Theatre, Bondi Junction, next Saturday night, and Wednesday, December 18, under the direction of Miss Ruby Davies, assisted by her pupils and leading artists. This pretty fairy piece, with songs and ballets, will be repeated at popular prices at St. James's Hall, Saturday, December 21, and on December 26.

MR WALTER THORMAN'S STUDENTS.

Mr. Walter Thorman's students will give their annual concert at the Conservatorium on Saturday next, at 8 p.m., in aid of their cot in the Royal Alexandra Hospital for Children. Pupils from the studios of Mr. S. Vost Janssen and Mr. J. Messens will assist. The plan is at Paling's.

MR. CHARLES SMYTHE'S CONCERT.

At the Conservatorium Hall on Monday, December 16, a vocal recital will be given by the students of Mr. Charles Smythe. A feature of the programme will be the performance of Stabat Mater (Pergolese) by a ladies' choir. The plan is at Paling's.

MISS GERTIE PURCELL'S CONCERT.

Miss Gertie Purcell's farewell concert will be given under the direction of Professor Randall Woodhouse, at King's Hall, on Wednesday, December 18, when Misses Nellie Dwyer, Lyall Hine, Messrs. Philip Newbury, Cyril Monk, and Bryce Carter will assist. The contralto, who is a pupil of Signor de Alba, will be supported by the Commandant and military party. Plan at Nicholson's on Monday.

"DOT AND THE KANGAROO."

Miss Grace Stafford will repeat scenes from "Dot and the Kangaroo" at St. James's Hall on Thursday, Dec. 19. The Strollers will appear in the trial scene from "The Merchant," and with Miss Stafford in a new comedy. The Flying Corp Orchestra will assist.

PHILHARMONIC CHRISTMAS CONCERT.

The Royal Philharmonic Society of Sydney, under Mr. Joseph Bradley, will render "The Messiah" on Christmas Night at the Town Hall for the thirty-third successive year. An attractive cast of soloists will include Rosa Alba, Ella Caspers, E. E. Hooke (Melbourne), and Geo. Whitehead. Plan at Paling's on Wednesday.

There will be a vocal and organ recital given at 3.15 p.m. on Christmas afternoon with Mr. G. Vern Barnett as organist.

SYDNEY CHORAL SOCIETY.

The Sydney Choral Society will perform "The Messiah" at the Town Hall on Saturday Dec. 21. Mr. W. Reginald Gooud will direct the full chorus and orchestra, with Cyril Monk as leader and Christian Hellermann as organist. The principals will be Agnese Gressier, Ella Caspers, Ernest Archer, Reginald Gooud. The plan is at Paling's.

THE WELSH CHORAL SOCIETY.

Handel's Christmas oratorio, "The Messiah," will be performed by the Welsh Choral Society at the Town Hall on Thursday, December 19, with augmented chorus and orchestra, directed by Mr. E. H. Jones. The assisting artists will be Muriel Barton, Lilian Gibson, William Jones, and A. E. Y. Benham, with Mowat Carter as leader, and Vern Barnett as organist. The plan is at Paling's.

CROWN-STREET WOMEN'S HOSPITAL.

Messrs. Chas. Dewhurst and John F. Hackett are arranging a concert in aid of the Crown-street Women's Hospital for Boxing Night, at the Sydney Town Hall. A special feature will be the quartette from "Rigoletto," by Miss Rosa Alba, Miss Ethel Lack, Mr. Sid Macdonald, and Mr. Geo. Whitehead. Mr. Vern Barnett, Miss Elsie Peerless, Mr. Harry Thomas, Miss Pauline Harford, and Miss Josie Henderson will also assist. The plan is at Nicholson's.

CONSERVATORIUM OF MUSIC.

This afternoon, at 2.30, there will be a final orchestral concert, when the plebiscite programme will include "Leonora Overture" and "Pathetique" Symphony of Tschaikowsky. Miss Jenny Cullen will be the soloist in the violin concerto in B minor of Saint-Saens, and Miss Patti Russell the vocalist in the aria, "The Shepherd on The Rock," of Schubert. Plan at Nicholson's.

A number of scholarships will be available at the end of this session in singing, pianoforte, violin, and other orchestral instruments. Forms of entry and full particulars can be had on application to the Registrar.

THE LYCEUM.

Commencing to-day at the Lyceum, "the Golden Wall," with Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley, and the latest Fox production, "All for a Husband," in which Virginia Pearson plays the leading role, will be shown all the week. The Hearst Pathe news will be screened on Saturday, Monday, and Tuesday, and on Thursday and Friday the Australian Gazette, illustrating incidents of local interest will be seen.

UNION PICTURE THEATRES.

"The Death Dance," with Alice Brady as the principal, will be presented at the Crystal Palace during next week. The bill at the Globe includes a Metro film entitled "A Half Million Bribe," and at the Lyric a Select film—an adaptation of Ethel M. Dell's story—"The Safety Curtain," is announced. "Tinsel" and "The Ghost Flower" are the announced principal photoplays at the Empress, while "Sisters of Six" and "Back of the Man," both Triangle productions, are the special features on next week's programme at the Grand. The Majestic patrons will view "The House of Gold" and "To the Highest Bidder," in which Alice Joyce plays the part of the heroine, on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. These films will be replaced on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday by the Petrova production, "Tempered Steel," and "Joan of Plattsburg," in which Mabel Normand takes the leading part.

To-day at the Strand "Untamed" will be screened, supported by Pathe's English Gazette, and an Essanay production, "The Phantom Buccaneer."

"The Savage Woman," with Clara Kimball Young in the leading role, and "No Man's Land" finish at the King's Cross to-night. Next week's features are Olga Petrova in "Tempered Steel" and Emmy Wehlen in "The House of Gold."

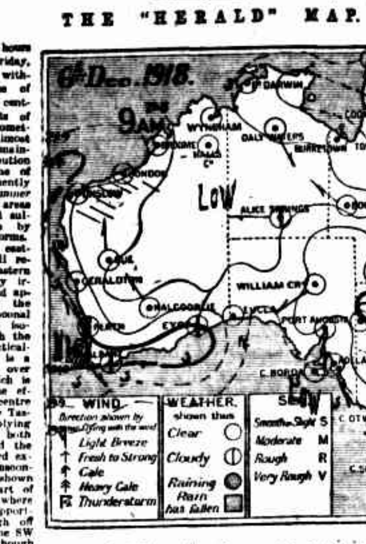

Dorothy Gish in "Jordan is a Hard Road," and Alice Joyce in "To the Highest Bidder" will be shown at West's Olympia, On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week Clara Kimball Young in "The Savage Woman" and William S. Hart in "The Gunfighter" will be screened.

A COURT OF INJUSTICE.

In their endeavour to better the financial condition of the St. Vincent's, Prince Alfred, Sydney Public Hospital, Royal Alexandra and Children's hospitals, the Commercial Travellers' Association of New South Wales has hit on a novel scheme for raising money. A mock court of justice will be held at the Palace Theatre on Friday next, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., when prominent citizens will be brought before the bench on various charges, which will astonish both the prisoner and the public, who will be admitted to the court on payment of a small charge for admission. A jury of ladies will be empanelled, consisting of Misses Florence Young, Muriel Starr, Emelie Polini, Gladys Moncrieff, Olive Godwin, and other footlight favourites.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

During the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. Friday, associated with the withdrawal of the rise of high pressure from central and N.W. parts of the Continent, barometers have fallen almost generally over the mainland. The distribution on the chart is one of those phases frequently seen in the summer months, when local areas of extreme heat and sultriness are broken by scattered thunderstorms. That portion of the eastern high which still remains over the eastern States is of a very irregular and contorted appearance, favouring the formation of monsoonal depressions in its isobars. And, although the fine weather is practically unbroken, there is a growing sultriness over the N., half of which is an indication of the effectiveness of the centre of the high over the Tasman Sea in supplying moisture-laden air both from the ocean and the Tropics. A westward extension of these monsoonal depressions is shown over the greater part of Western Australia, where it is somewhat supported by a weak high off the west and extreme SW coast. And, although heat-wave conditions were prevalent in that State on Thursday, a cool change, with SE winds, is now operating, and causing depressed temperatures and a good deal of cloud has formed. The only rain reported, however, is confined to one or two places on the tropical coast. In New South Wales some heavy thunderstorms occurred in the extreme NE districts during Thursday night, and Mullumbimby received 358 points, Byron Bay 350, and Murwillumbah 137 points. Present indications favour hot and sultry weather generally, with NW to NE winds, some isolated strong local blows likely, with hail, and a growing tendency to scattered thunderstorms in the NE quarter, chiefly on the central coast.

Ocean Forecast.—Freshening northerlies in the Straits; fresh southerlies in the Western Bight, moving eastward. Data wanting from the north-west coast; elsewhere smooth to moderate.

RELEASED FROM QUARANTINE.

Burns, Philp, and Co.'s steamer Melusia, which arrived here from Rabaul on November 29, was released from the Quarantine area yesterday morning, and is now discharging cargo at White Bay wharf. She is scheduled to sail again next Friday.

The French steamer St. Louis, which arrived on November 28 from Noumea, was also released yesterday.

PAX IN TOW OF CORRIMAL.

In tow of G. S. Yuill and Co.'s steamer Corrimal, the Norwegian barque Pax left Noumea last Tuesday for Sydney. M. Pelletier, the Sydney agent, for the Pax, has received no information as to why the barque is being towed here, but it is thought that it is for the purpose of expediting her voyage. The Pax brings a general cargo from San Francisco.

WAR HISTORY OF AUSTRALRANGE.

The Commonwealth Government liner Australrange, which is now discharging interstate cargo from Sydney at Victoria Dock, Melbourne, has had some exciting experiences during the war period, says the "Argus." She was formerly the Burrell liner Strathdee, and early in 1916, before being purchased by the Commonwealth, was employed in the cargo service between Great Britain and ports in northern Russia. She was caught in the winter accumulation of ice at Archangel, and lay icebound for about six months. After her purchase for the Commonwealth Government the Australrange was sent to Salonika with a cargo of military stores and war material, preparatory to sailing in ballast for Melbourne under the new control. While steaming in the Aegean Sea, not far from her destination, the vessel was attacked by a German submarine. The U-boat opened fire with a deck gun, and, after three shells had missed their objective, a fourth exploded just over the vessel's foredeck in dangerous proximity to the bridge. Before the submarine gun crew were able to secure the correct range Allied cruisers appeared on the scene and drove off the underwater craft.

SOUTH BULLI, FROM SINGAPORE.

The South Bulli, a vessel of 818 tons, arrived in Sydney from Singapore, via Fremantle, yesterday. She was granted pratique, and anchored in Kerosene Bay. She brought a cargo consisting of Dreyaline, jute goods, boxwood, and sundries.

Fair weather was experienced throughout the voyage. She is to the agency of M'Ilwraith, M'Eacharn, and Co., Ltd.

QUARANTINE RESTRICTIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—If it be necessary or desirable to bring any further pressure to bear upon the Federal authorities on behalf of the provision of the chaplaincy services for the sufferers at the Quarantine Station, I cheerfully add my protest to those that have been already expressed against the refusal to permit the presence of a priest or minister among the sick and dying at North Head. The Roman Catholic Church is not only acting within its rights in seeking to obtain entrance for one of its priests as a religious ministrant there, but is discharging its plain duty to those of its communion who are held in Quarantine. It is incumbent upon the authorities to guard the public health, but that does not involve their prohibiting the churches from taking steps to provide spiritual ministrations to those who are segregated for the public benefit. Whatever one may think of some of the claims of the R.C. Church, there can be no denying the value its people place upon the ministrations of its clergy, and the condolations they derive therefrom. Nor can there be any doubt as to the selfdenying devotion of many of the priests and sisterhoods of that communion. The Protestant Churches can probably arrange for one chaplain to serve for the time being the patients or inmates of their several denominations. In any event the Federal Government should at once make provision for the entrance of such chaplains as may be necessary for the consolation of the sick and the burial of the dead.

I am, etc., J. E. CARRUTHERS,

President General Conference Methodist

Dec. 6. Church of Australasia.

MOLASSES. MOLASSES.

The winter of our discontent is past.

The summer of our sorrow is nigh.

There's nothing like a little Molasses to sweeten up life; it makes everyone happy.

Sheep and Cattle even smile at the sweetness of their life.

It's a splendid thing to sweeten up old, musty chaff and fodder.

It saved the lives of thousands of sheep during last winter.

Always on hand.

IMPORTANT AUCTION SALE
ROYAL HOTEL, YOUNG,
on SATURDAY, DECEMBER 14th,
AT 2.30 O'CLOCK,

AS A GOING CONCERN, WALK IN, WALK OUT.
The very well known "SOMERVILLE" ORCHARD, situated at WOMBAT, in the famous and widely known Fruit District of YOUNG, N.S.W.

The Property comprises 40 acres of Freehold Land, planted with Fruit Trees, besides 2 acres Freehold and 11 acres held under Special Lease, the latter being used for grazing. The Property is most centrally situated and close to the Main Southern line. It is 250 miles from Sydney direct; 10 miles from Wallendbeen (on main line); 10 miles from Young (population 4000); 12 miles from Harden (big railway centre); 9 miles from Murrumburrah railway station; 7 miles from Demondrille (railway junction); 3 miles from Kingvale railway siding. Well selected Fruit Trees, comprising:—330 Cherries, 800 Peaches, 50 Nectarines, 150 Almonds, 250 Plums and Prunes, 200 Pears, 2550 Apples, 700 Grape Vines, 50 Mixed Sorts.

All the best varieties of bearers and keepers. The Orchard is absolutely the best kept in the Young District. Diseases are non-existent. Rainfall good; no droughts. Good facilities for disposal of crop; in fact, positively all of it can be disposed of locally, which means better returns. Only two good hands are required to work the Orchard, because owing to careful selection when planting, the fruit ripens in rotation. There is thus never any loss owing to labour difficulties. As the fruit begins to ripen in November, and continues until August, only three months of the year fail to produce returns. On the property is erected large Packing Sheds, besides (on a small scale) jam and canning plant, where surplus fruit can be converted into pulp or jam. This plant could be easily enlarged if required. The Plant includes Apple Corers, Peelers, Slicers for drying purposes; Also Apple Grader to save labour in grading. Orchard Machinery comprises:—4 h.p. Steam Engine, ploughs, Harrows, Cultivators, Binder, Engine Spraying Outfit, Tanks, Cans, Saw Bench, etc., also all other Garden Implements and requirements. Also, 7 Farm Horses.

TWO MODEL COTTAGES
One containing Six Rooms and the other Two Rooms, are erected on the Property. Telephone in both houses; Water Supply in House and Sheds under pressure; also Grain and Chaff Shed (mice proof); Waggon Shed and Stables, Fowl Pens, Pig Yards, etc.

The orchard is laid out to enable the owner to divide it into two 20 acre blocks, a House being erected on each. The Trees, which are eight and nine years old carry wonderful crops at present, and are improving each year.

A School, Post Office, and General Store are situated about a mile from the Property. A railway deviation survey has been made adjoining the Property. The Fruit Crop for the coming season is estimated at about £1300.

C. J. DILLON and SON, Auctioneers, Murrumburrah, instructed by Mr. C. BOHRINGER, will Positively Sell by Public Auction the above good money making investment, on Saturday, 14th December, at 2.30 o'clock, at the Royal Hotel, Young.

Numerous First Prize Cards from Show Exhibits may be viewed at the Orchard.

TERMS, VERY LIBERAL AT SALE.

AT RANDWICK.

SUNNYSIDE.

A Superb Site and a surpassing outlook, a sequestered spot, easily accessible on the main road, overlooking the Racecourse, the Western Suburbs, the City, and Centennial Park, a panoramic wealth of variety both by day and at night.

Far back in the early days at the beginning of settlement at Randwick the late Walter Bradley selected for his home this and the land adjoining upon which to build his residence.

Some seven years ago the present owner purchased that portion upon which stands SUNNYSIDE, a substantially built House of Stone, containing Reception-room, Dining-room, Billiard or Smoke Room, 8 large Bedrooms, Dressing-room, 3 other Bedrooms, Servants' Dining-room, Kitchen, Pantries, Laundry, and other offices. Motor Garage and Stabling.

The Land has an area of close on two acres, and fronts Allison-road, Bradley-street, and Wansey-road, and small Reserve.

The Grounds are laid out in Garden, Tennis Court, and lawns, and its unique position prevents any buildings being erected, destroying the magnificent views. The drive to the city is along the main Randwick-road, or through Centennial Park, which is reached by motor in 15 minutes, or by tram, which is close by, in 25 minutes.

FOR SALE, on extended terms, owing to the Owner's early departure abroad; or TO LET on lease.

For further particulars apply to
J. E. O'BRIEN, Sunnyside, Allison-road, Randwick.

FACTORY SITES.
THE CHEAPEST AND CLOSEST TO THE CITY ARE AT ROSEBERY MODEL SUBURB.
Manufacturing, now that peace is at hand, must go ahead in Sydney with great strides. To act in cooperation with all available facilities of transit, the factory site of modern premises must be in such a locality as to derive every convenience for transport as well as for the obtaining of labour.
ROSEBERY MODEL SUBURB is strategically the finest factory land in Sydney. It is practically on the city boundary, with several means of access, whilst the allotments offered by us for sale are CLEAN, LEVEL SITES, FROM 2 TO 10 ACRES, OR SMALLER LOTS, FROM 100FT FRONTAGE.
THE PRICES RANGE from £3/10/ to £5 per foot, and price per acre can be quoted for any large area required.
THE TITLE IS TORRENS.
We are able to arrange convenient terms for buyers.
NOTE.—The following firms—James Stedman-Henderson's Sweets, Ltd., Parke, Davis, and Co., and W. Wrigley Spearmint Co.—have built their main factory premises at Rosebery. This will indicate the suitability of our land for the MODERN FACTORY PREMISES.
Our representative is on the Estate at our office on Saturday afternoon and week days. Write or call on us for particulars, and booklet, land list, etc.

AT RANDWICK.

SUNNYSIDE.

A Superb Site and a surpassing outlook, a sequestered spot, easily accessible, on the main road, overlooking the Racecourse, the Western Suburbs, the City, and Centennial Park—a panoramic wealth of variety, both by day and at night.

Far back in the early days, at the beginning of settlement at Randwick, the late Walter Bradley selected for his home this and the land adjoining upon which to build his residence.

Some seven years ago the present owner purchased that portion upon which stands Sunnyside, a substantially-built House of stone, containing Reception-room, dining-room, billiard or smoke room, 3 large bedrooms, dressing-room, 3 other bedrooms, servants' dining-room, kitchen, pantries, laundry, and other offices. Motor garage and stabling.

The land has an area of close on two acres, and fronts Allison-road, Bradley-street, and Wansey-road, and small Reserve.

The Grounds are laid out in Garden, Tennis Court, and Lawns, and its unique position prevents any buildings being erected, destroying the magnificent views. The drive to the City is along the main Randwick-road, or through Centennial Park, which is reached by Motor in 15 minutes, or by tram, which is close by, in 25 minutes.

For further particulars apply to
J. E. O'BRIEN, Sunnyside, Allison-road, Randwick.

AWAY WITH TOOTH TROUBLES.

TEETH. The tooth ills that give you sleepless nights, agonising days, or that mar your appearance, I can remedy quickly, satisfactorily, and without pain. My methods are thoroughly up to date. A single case in point is MY WONDERFUL METHOD OF PAINLESS FILLINGS. If you have experienced the pain of having a sensitive tooth drilled, you will enthusiastically appreciate my method. I have a special apparatus that absolutely banishes the pain from drilling. This enables me, too, to do better work, because if you are sitting at ease, instead of wriggling and twisting, I can do better and quicker work. My painless method of extraction brings me hundreds and hundreds of pleased patients. I guarantee absolutely to extract your teeth painlessly. You will not feel the slightest twinge even with an abscessed tooth. I have used it successfully on a child of 3 and on one old lady of 80. I will hand you £5 should you feel the slightest pain. OPEN TILL 6 P.M. DAILY (SATURDAY INCLUDED), UNTIL 9 P.M. FRIDAYS. HALF-HOLIDAY WEDNESDAY.
